WIRES SING OPTIMISM

Thousands Given Employment

Plants Resume Operation as Hoover Committee Gets to Work

Fisher Body Corporation to Go on Full Time; Cab Fares Raised

NEW YORK, Oct. 23. (AP)—A series of items of business optimism sang across the wires of the nation today—the first anniversary of the stock-market crash.

They told of several thousand men being called back to full-time jobs, of plants preparing to resume normal operations and, in one instance of an increase in wage.

President Hoover's committee on unemployment began functioning at Washington and municipal agencies made definite movements for the relief of local conditions.

None would minimize the seriousness of the present situation, but there was an undercurrent of increasing optimism in the day's news.

From Detroit came announcement the ten plants of the Fisher Body Corporation outside Detroit will resume full-time operation Monday. Between 6000 and 7000 men who have been working only three days a week will benefit. The plants are situated in every area of the country.

The Yellow Cab Company of Chicago, reporting a steady increase in business since September, made public plans to add 1000 men to its present force of 3000. In San Francisco the Yellow Cab Company increased the wages of its 1000 workers by 25 cents a day, at the same time raising its cab rates.

JOBS PROVIDED FOR IDLE WORKMEN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—The Federal government took concrete steps today to stem the tide of unemployment as the Hoover Cabinet committee set up to handle the problem began functioning.

Coincident with a call from Col. Arthur Woods, the relief director, asking industry to co-operate, government departments announced plans to provide employment to a number of the 3,500,000 idle Americans. The Postoffice Department took steps to suspend overtime work to regular employees in order that substitutes may obtain employment. Orders to this effect will go forward tomorrow.

Plans of the Shipping Board to reduce its domestic force by 500 and its foreign personnel by 250 in its reorganization program have been abandoned to prevent an increase in the number of jobless.

CALIFORNIA BIRTH RATE RUNS LOW

Golden State Reported Fourth From Bottom on Census Bureau's List

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (Exclusive)—The California birth rate in 1929 was fourth lowest in the country. According to figures issued today by the Census Bureau, births in California during the year were 14.8 for each 1000 population, as compared with an average rate for the nation of 18.9.

As it happens, the other Pacific Coast States of Oregon and Washington, and the near-by State of Nevada, are the others with lowest birth rates.

Oregon's rate of 14.1 was lowest in the United States. Nevada was next lowest with 14.2 and Washington third low with 14.6.

The highest birth rate was 26.9, recorded in New Mexico. Utah with 24.8; North Carolina with 24.7; Alabama with 24; West Virginia with 23.8; Mississippi with 22.9 and South Carolina with 22.8 followed in the order named.

German Mine Toll Now 255

ALSDORF (Germany) Oct. 23. (AP) The death toll in the Anna II coal mine disaster of Tuesday had reached 255 tonight and it is believed a few more will be found in the debris-filled mine. The total includes sixteen who have died in hospitals of injuries.

Because of the great number of dead, the local cemetery has proved too small, and preparations were made today to lay out a new burial ground. In it, on Saturday, the dead miners will be placed in common graves.

FRANCE LAUNCHES NEWEST SUBMARINE

CHERBOURG (France) Oct. 23. France's newest submarine, the Promethee, a long-distance cruiser of 1500 tons, was launched today. The undersea ship is 295 feet long. Its surface speed is eighteen knots, submerged, ten.

Hundred Lives Reported Lost in Mexico Flood

TAMPICO (Mex.) Oct. 23. (AP)—The commander of the garrison at Alamo, State of Vera Cruz, reached the village of Chapopote Nuevo tonight, and, communicating with military heads here, said that as many as 100 persons may have died in floods there and that the town had been practically wiped out.

Wedding Rumor Denials Radioed Home by Coste

(Copyright, 1930, by New York Times)

PARIS, Oct. 23. (Exclusive)—To reports that he had been married to an American and was bringing his bride to France with him, Dieudonne Coste today wirelessed a denial to the Paris office of the New York Times, saying the report is "too absurd for words to describe it."

Coste also sent radio messages to Mary Coste and to several of his friends telling them the report is utterly untrue.

Toe Ringworm Cure Announced

NEW YORK, Oct. 23. (AP)—Discovery of a preventive for ringworm of the toes was announced to the First Institute of Podiatry tonight by Dr. Herman Goodman of New York, who said the disease affects half the population of the United States.

The remedy is not patented, but can be made by any druggist. It is a combination of two fungicides, salol and chloral hydrate, "to be dusted between the toes."

GERMAN POLITICAL MEETING BOMBED

DRESDEN (Germany) Oct. 23. (AP)—The throwing of tear-gas bombs tonight interrupted a Social Democratic political meeting while President Loebe of the Reichstag was speaking. Six persons received medical treatment. The bombs were thrown by political opponents of the Socialists.

BLIMP WILL BE USED IN FUEL TESTS

Navy Building Nonrigid Dirigible for Experiments With Gasoline Substitute

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—The Navy Bureau of Aeronautics announced today it has contracted for the construction of the largest nonrigid airship in the country for use by the Navy in experiments through which it hopes to develop a fuel gas which will replace gasoline.

The envelope for the ship now is being built by the Goodyear Zeppelin Company at Akron, O., while the car is being constructed at the Philadelphia naval aircraft factory.

The blimp will be 220 feet long and fifty-four feet in diameter.

The Navy Department long has sought a fuel gas of the same density as air so that equilibrium could be maintained in airship flying without the necessity of recovering water from consumed fuel.

College Opens Drive on Vice

LEBANON (Pa.) Oct. 23. (AP)—Suspension for two weeks of twenty-five upper classmen of the Lebanon Valley College was announced by officials today as opening a drive against drinking, gambling and swearing which, they said, are practiced at the college.

The suspensions followed investigation of charges of paddling made by several freshmen after a hazing session last week.

The ruling affects the varsity football team, as six of the students suspended are regulars.

Physician Gets Prison Term

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 23. (AP)—Dr. Charles J. Dean, physician, with clinics in Portland, Seattle, San Francisco and Los Angeles, was sentenced to serve thirteen months in McNeil Island Federal prison today.

He was convicted in Federal court several months ago on charges of violating the National Bankruptcy Act and was denied a new trial.

DRYS TO USE EDUCATION

New Drive Plan Announced

Business Men's Group Will Raise $10,000,000 Fund for Latest Effort

Youth Must Learn About Benefits of Prohibition, Leaders Assert

CHICAGO, Oct. 23. (AP)—A nation-wide program of education in behalf of prohibition was announced today by the American Business Men's Prohibition Foundation. Charles R. Jones, chairman, said a budget of $10,000,000 will be raised for newspaper and other advertising.

"More than 100 years of tireless education preceded the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment," Jones said, "but with the ratification of the amendment by forty-six of the forty-eight States, practically all educational effort ceased.

PEOPLE FORGET

"People forget quickly; they must be told over and over again. Moreover, during these past ten years following the advent of prohibition, something like 12,000,000 or 13,000,000 young voters have come of age who were children when the amendment was enacted; this younger generation has been given little serious instruction in the meaning and possibilities of the Eighteenth Amendment."

Jones said the foundation was formed under a "not for profit" charter last January as a result of the growing realization of the need for education on prohibition. He said the organization first assembled statistics on the effects of prohibition and it now was ready to pass the facts on to the people.

BACKED BY NOTABLES

He added the plans had been approved by Amos W. W. Woodcock, director of the United States Bureau of Prohibition.

The foundation lists as members of its advisory board nationally known men from all sections of the country, including James C. Penney, chain store executive; S. S. McClure, magazine publisher; Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange; Dr. William Lowe Bryan, president of Indiana University; Dr. Charles C. Selecman, president of Southern Methodist University; Dr. John Timothy Stone, president of McCormick seminary, and Amos Alonzo Stagg, director of athletics, University of Chicago.

TWO KILLED IN COLLAPSE OF TUNNEL

Caboose in Which Victims Rode Buried by Debris of Ohio Accident

STEUBENVILLE (O.) Oct. 23. (AP) Two men lost their lives and a third was injured seriously in the cave-in of a railroad tunnel that buried a Wheeling and Lake Erie freight train near Adena, twenty-five miles southwest of here, today.

The dead are E. E. Duga, 55 years of age, of Dillonvale, and Jerry L. Sells, 40, a conductor. The injured trainmen is Al Romando, 35, who suffered a crushed hip and a broken arm and leg.

Rescuers dug several hours in the debris before the men were removed. The victims were trapped in the train's caboose, which was demolished when it was caught with six freight cars about 300 feet from the east end of the tunnel. The cars were pulled from the tunnel by a locomotive.

The tunnel is about 800 feet long and leads through a hill 200 feet high. The portion that caved in was 300 feet in length.

Editor States Faith in Youth

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—Questioning the fairness of general criticism of young people for lack of sobriety because of a few reports of flask carriers, Dr. Daniel A. Poling of New York told the international convention of Disciples of Christ here today the youth of the country is fundamentally decent.

Dr. Poling, editor of the Christian Herald and president of the World Christian Endeavor, said criticism will not help the young people solve their problems.

Will Rogers Remarks:

BEVERLY HILLS, Oct. 23.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Say, we got a great treat in store for us next Tuesday evening—Bernard Shaw is going to talk to us over the radio for forty minutes. He is the most interesting and entertaining man in the world today. He and Mussolini are pretty near a tie. You don't need to ask any questions when you meet either one of 'em; just sit still and listen. Shaw told me that the United States and Russia are the most unique countries in the world today. Russia is trying a great experiment and America is trying everything that comes along, and that we were both in the experimental stage. England don't know yet whether Shaw is for 'em or against 'em.

Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

Hittite Hill Has Tale of Ages

Expedition in Turkey Lifts Veil on Human History Back to 10,000 B.C.

Spades of Chicago Party Uncover Relics of Ten Distinct Periods

ALISHAR (Turkey) Oct. 23 (AP)—A gray sun-baked mound stands in the heart of the ancient land of the Hittites. Burrowing through it for five years American archeologists have cut a cross-section of the history of mankind as they dug for a solution of the Hittite mystery.

On this one mound, the Alishar Huyuk (Huyuk is Turkish for "artificial hill,") a mound 2300 feet long and 2000 feet wide, situated 128 miles southeast of Angora the Oriental Institute of Chicago University has just completed its fifth season of excavations. Dr. Hans Henning von der Osten, leader of the expedition; Richard Martin of Chicago, and a German, Herr Reifenmuller, who are all veteran pursuers of Hittite mysteries, saw the 1930 expedition produce the most important results of the Oriental Institute's five years in Anatolia.

TEN DISTINCTIVE PERIODS

Digging eighty-one feet below the citadel wall, which crowns the Alishar mound, the expedition this year struck the dwelling-place of Stone-Age man, exposing relics of a settlement existing at least 10,000 years before the Christian era. Workings down to this Neolithic level, the expedition has exposed, one on top of the other, relics of ten distinctive periods of man's history.

Below the surface, where stood the remains of an Armenian settlement abandoned some eighty years ago, were found in succession the Osmanli strata, the Seljuk, the Byzantine, the Roman and the remains of the period comprising at

UNIONISTS IN BOMB NET

Eight Indicted by Jury

Bay City Film Operators' Agent Seized as Head of Theater War

Dynamitings in Theaters of Half-Dozen Coast Cities Charged

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23 (Exclusive)—Reaching out from Sacramento, the arm of the law took in its grasp tonight Floyd M. Billingsley, business agent of the San Francisco union of motion-picture operators, on a charge of fomenting "little theater war," which has been waged in this city, the State capital, Fresno, San Jose and other coast cities between owners of neighborhood playhouses and members of the union.

Billingsley, arrested by Lieut. Malloy of the crime prevention bureau, is one of eight secretly indicted by the Sacramento grand jury on charges of attempted dynamite outrages in that city.

AGENT ASSERTED DIRECTOR

The San Francisco business agent, according to evidence gathered by the police and private detectives employed by theater owners, is said to have been the director-general of the gang which blasted the Nasser brothers Royal Theater on June 1, last, and recently planted the dynamite bomb at the Alhambra Theater, also owned by the Nassers.

He is also said to have arranged for the dropping of odor bombs. The Sacramento indictments and Billingsley's arrest came simultaneously with the opening of a war on the part of Fresno theater managers against the operators, resulting in the arrest of one of the union supporters and charges that the throwing of odor bombs was the work of the operators' organization.

Billingsley is in the city prison to remain until Sacramento authorities arrive to transfer him there. As he was booked "en route to Sacramento" he was not admitted to bail here. Superior Judge Pullen of Sacramento fixed the bonds of the indicted men at $5000 property or $2500 cash.

OTHERS ACCUSED

Others named in the Sacramento indictments and the charges against them are:

Walter Federolf, business agent of the Sacramento motion-picture operators' union; conspiracy to commit acts of violence. Joe Agathy, picture operator, placing dynamite in the Mission Theater, Sacramento, and conspiracy; Hiram W. Reynolds, picture operator, conspiracy; Leo Smith, operator, conspiracy; H. M. Addie, operator, conspiracy; Joe Gerbert, operator, conspiracy; "John Doe" Walker, operator, conspiracy.

The indictments were voted only after a battle which extended over three days, during which extreme bitterness was engendered in the grand jury room.

At times the exchanges between the jurors themselves and between the foreman, R. L. Ennis, and his supporters and the witnesses became so heated, it is reported, that Neil McAllister, the District Attorney, is said to have felt compelled to interfere.

Ennis, who is president of the Sacramento Federated Trades Council and employed as a printer in the State Printing Office, was said to have been impressed by the "frame-up" charges of John Connelly, attorney for the picture operators. Ennis is reported to have won over three of the grand jurors to his views.

Had the jury failed to indict, Emil Heber, owner of the Mission Theater, stood ready to swear to complaints. This is said to have influenced the grand jury in its action.

Sacramento's "theater war" has

CHIANG BECOMES CHRISTIAN

China's President Baptized at Mission Under Auspices of Methodist Church, South

SHANGHAI, Oct. 23. (AP)—President Chiang Kai-shek of China has been converted to Christianity. Appearing unexpectedly in Shanghai late today the generalissimo went to the home of his mother-in-law, Mme. K. T. Soong, and was baptized into the Christian faith by sprinkling, according to the rites of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

The ceremony was performed by a Chinese pastor, Rev. Z. T. Kuang, a graduate of the Southern Methodist Episcopal Mission University at Soochow. The mission's headquarters is at Nashville, Tenn. The pastor said Chiang explained his action in these words:

"I feel the need of a God such as Jesus Christ."

ACT SURPRISES

The President's conversion and baptism came as a distinct surprise to Shanghai. Only a few intimates, mostly relatives, attended the ceremonies after the Chief Executive came suddenly from the capital at Nanking.

Christian circles heralded the baptism with great joy and said it struck a blow at Communism. Communists have been directing attacks at foreigners recently and particularly at Christianity as being representative of foreignism.

Pastor Kuang said he did not expect Chiang to take an active part in church affairs as he is too busy with government duties but that "he and the spirit of Jesus Christ within him will go marching on."

RELATIVES' INFLUENCE

The President's conversion is believed to have been due to the in-

ACES SPAN GLOBE BY PHONE

Kingsford-Smith and Rickenbacker Exchange Views on Future of World Aviation

SCHENECTADY (N. Y.) Oct. 23. (AP)—Two famous aviators, Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith, the Australian who has flown around the world, and Eddie Rickenbacker, premier American war ace, talked with each other by radio telephone halfway around the globe, today. The conversation was broadcast by WGY and stations composing the blue network of the National Broadcasting Company.

Atmospheric conditions were excellent, Martin P. Rice of the General Electric Company staff opened the conversation between the Sacandaga experimental station W2XAF, near here, and 2ME at Sydney. He congratulated the Australian aviator on his successful flight around the world and asked about the dangers of the trip. Kingsford-Smith replied that the dangers were not great, except that on part of the flight he was dependent on one motor, whereas usually he had three motors.

Then Rickenbacker at New York was cut in. He asked the Australian what was most necessary for the establishment of transcontinental and transoceanic air service. Kingsford-Smith said that in his opinion the first thing needed is a plane with a cruising speed of better than 150 miles an hour. Rickenbacker told the Australian that a plane had been designed recently with a cruising speed of more than 170 miles an hour.

Kingsford-Smith said he intended to devote his time and energy to the business of air transport. Within a year, he said, an air service would be in operation between Australia and Tasmania, and he predicted that within five years there would be passenger and transport lines making the trip between London and Sydney in twelve days.

LOWER REALTY TAXES SIGHTED

State Commission Chairman Promises Relief

Pledge Made at Convention of Property Dealers

New Revenue Raising Plans Not Yet Developed

BY JAMES L. DAVIS
"Times" Real Estate Editor

SANTA CRUZ, Oct. 23. (Exclusive) — That California property owners may expect relief from a portion, at least, of the tax burden they now bear was the promise made today to realty brokers of the State in convention here by Edgar C. Levey, chairman of the State Tax Commission.

Mr. Levy lauded the realty men's program of tax relief and declared it is receiving careful consideration by the commission.

Just what form this relief will take Levey did not say nor did he intimate from what sources additional revenue would be derived if real estate is relieved from a part of that which it now pays.

REVENUE SUGGESTIONS

"Our commission seriously doubts if it can put into effect the plan of the last tax commission owing to the difficulty to be encountered in its application," Levey declared. "Various methods have been suggested to our body for raising additional revenue, among these is an income tax, but I do not believe the people of this State are ready for it, but I believe it will come ultimately.

"Luxury and sales taxes also have been suggested but our commission has found that revenues from such methods usually mean a tax on cigarettes and tobacco only. Deep consideration will be given by the committee to severance taxes."

HOME BUILDING PROBLEM

Harry S. Wanger, Sacramento, representing the California Building and Loan League, asserted that the decrease in home building this year throughout the country had not been due to business depression but to lack of home owning propaganda, the presence of red tape in the home-owning transaction and a wrong attitude on the part of the public toward how to figure used property values.

"Realty values would be greatly stabilized if home owners fully realized the advantages of keeping their property in good repair at all times," Wanger said. "Because the home owner does not have to accept the loss due to depreciation until the property is disposed of, he does not realize the financial advantage of taking care of his property."

Because the Los Angeles Realty Board was the only one which entered the appraisal contest for the Homer P. D. Kingsbury cup the appraisal committee decided there was "no contest." Arthur C. McDevitt and Frank G. Buckley, representing the Los Angeles board, submitted a masterful appraisal.

BORDER ROW REVIVED BY GOV. BERNAL

Edict Orders Americans Working in Mexicali to Live in Mexico

MEXICALI, Oct. 23. (Exclusive)—Reviving an issue which has been agitated along the California-Mexico border for several years, Gov. Arturo Bernal today signed an order requiring American employees in Mexicali, who now make their homes on the American side of the line, to establish residence on Mexican territory.

The order will affect several hundred Americans who are employed in resorts and industrial plants in Mexicali. Today's order contained the names of Americans who are to be affected, and while the heads of establishments were not included, they were required to sign an acknowledgment that the order had been received and would be carried out. A similar regulation was announced under a previous administration, but later was rescinded when it was disclosed that suitable housing facilities were not available in Mexicali for the large number of Americans involved. American interests in Lower California indicated today they will protest against the enforcement of the edict.

Gov. Bernal today issued an emphatic denial of recent rumors printed in local Mexican papers to the effect that the circulation of American money in Lower California is to be banned. "This false report probably resulted from a misunderstanding of a recent order which requires that price tags on goods displayed in stores must be in Spanish," explained the Governor. "Merchants may accept foreign money in exchange for goods if they desire, but all signs and price tags must be in terms of Mexican currency."

STRIKE AID ASKED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—The American Federation of Labor today appealed to its affiliated organizations for financial contributions to support the strike of textile mill workers in Danville, Va.

ORIGIN OF LIFE LAID TO RAYS

Ultra-Violet Light Stronger Than Any Now Known Credited by Expert

CHICAGO, Oct. 23. (AP)—A scientific conception of the origin of life—that protoplasm was activated into life by ultra-violet light rays of a power now unknown—was explained today by Dr. Irving S. Cutter, dean of the Northwestern University medical school.

In a lecture on contemporary thought before the Medill School of Journalism, Dr. Cutter said life arose amid conditions which have disappeared from the earth, never to return.

"It seems certain that ultra-violet light from a sun far hotter than it is today played a predominant part in bringing about complex chemical combinations."

tractors to aid in increasing the number of jobs on certain projects.

Although Chairman Legge of the Farm Board noted that agency had no means of disposing of the wheat purchased in stabilization operations to aid the unemployed, he said in his response to questions that if Congress wished to pay for the wheat, the board will be glad to turn it over to the jobless.

The Hoover Cabinet committee relief director began the formulation of his working organization after early conference with the President, attended by Secretaries Lamont and Hurley and Undersecretary of the Treasury Mills.

AID TO BE DRAFTED

Col. Woods said he will draft men from all over the country to assist in the work. Requests are to go forward at once to State and city agencies, the Census Bureau, the American Federation of Labor and other organizations that have information on the situation.

In addition industries are to be asked for data on conditions affecting employment.

Most of the day was spent by Col. Woods in getting in touch with men in industry to handle various phases of the committee's work. He also plans to study the advisability of immediately setting up State organizations.

Referring to industry, he said, he not only expects it to do its part, but added, "I see that it is already doing so." He said he expects more co-operation.

Col. Woods said he hoped he will be able to reassemble the personnal of the 1921 unemployment conference, which he directed for President Hoover when the Chief Executive was Secretary of Commerce.

TEN FISHER PLANTS TO GO ON FULL TIME

DETROIT, Oct. 23. (Exclusive)—Ten plants of the Fisher Body Corporation located outside of Detroit, will resume full time operations Monday, H. J. C. Henderson, manager of sales, announced today.

The ten plants have been operating three days a week, Mr. Henderson said, and will return to the regular week of five and one-half days. The new schedule will affect between 6000 and 7000 employees who have been working half-time.

ELECTRICAL BUSINESS EXCEEDS PEAK OF 1929

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23. (Exclusive)—Business is better in the electrical industry today than it was even in the peak year of 1929 and it is continuing to improve, according to addresses delivered today at the convention of the commercial section of the Pacific Coast Electrical Association.

Al C. Joy of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company declared sales of golf balls, automobiles, buildings, chemicals, electricity, paper, pulp, rubber and textiles this year have surpassed sales last year.

Baker Murder Links Forged

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (Exclusive)—Evidence connecting Herbert M. Campbell in several respects with the murder of Mary Baker, was produced today as the trial of the Virginia real-estate dealer for the crime proceeded in the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

The gun with which the young Navy clerk was killed and which is asserted to have belonged to Campbell, and a pair of pigskin gloves said by witnesses to have been claimed by him after their discovery near the scene of the crime, were introduced as exhibits. Two Arlington county (Virginia) officials testified that Campbell admitted they had "enough on him" to send him to the chair.

RYAN SCION GETS DIVORCE

SHERIDAN (Wyo.) Oct. 23. (AP)—Thomas F. Ryan, II, grandson of the late Thomas Fortune Ryan, New York multimillionaire, today obtained a divorce from Margaret M. Ryan on grounds of desertion.

BALDWIN RAPS PALESTINE RULE

Ex-Premier Leads Protest on MacDonald Policy

Other Conservative Chiefs Join in Attack

Effect on American Jewry Deplored in Letter

LONDON, Oct. 23. (AP)—Stanley Baldwin, Sir Austen Chamberlain, and Col. L. C. S. Amery in a letter to the London Times today severely criticised the MacDonald ministry's new policy toward Palestine as advanced in a statement by Lord Passfield, Secretary of State for the Colonies, Monday.

The letter of the three men, two of whom are the leading figures in the British Conservative party opposition, concludes: "It is only too evident that the effect of the white paper upon public opinion of the American Jewry and elsewhere is to create a feeling of distrust in British good faith, which is the most precious asset of our foreign imperial policy."

JEWISH LEADER PRAISED

The letter pays high tribute to Dr. Chaim Weizmann, who has resigned his presidency of both the Jewish agency and the Zionist movement in protest at British adoption of a policy which is deemed by his followers to do away with the project of making Palestine a national home for Jews and puts a ban on immigration there.

The outright opposition of the Conservative leaders, who held the posts of Premier, Foreign Minister and Minister of the Colonies in the last government, coming at a time when a new general election threatens, may prove an important factor in political developments of the next few weeks.

"NEGATIVE POLICY"

The signatories say they are profoundly conscious of the two-fold obligation toward the Arabs as well as the Jews, which was embodied in the mandate and has provided the basis of the policy since pursued by every British government in turn.

"What we regret is that His Majesty's government would appear now to have abandoned that policy," the letter says.

"Without giving either Jewish or Arab opinion an opportunity to express itself or allowing the voice of the British Parliament to be heard, they have laid down a policy of so definitely negative a character that it appears to us to conflict not only with the insistence of the Council of the League of Nations that it would be contrary to the intention of the mandate if the Jewish National Home was crystallized at its present stage of development, but with the whole spirit of the Balfour declaration and of the statements made by successive governments in the last twelve years."

MASS MEETING CALLED TO REGISTER PROTEST

"Great Britain's Betrayal of the Jew" will be discussed by Jacob M. Alkow, secretary of the Pacific Coast Zionist Organization, at a mass meeting to be conducted this evening at Rodef Sholom Temple, Jefferson and Cimarron streets.

"England's recent prohibition of immigration of Jews to Palestine has stirred the Jewish communities of Los Angeles and of the entire Pacific Coast," said Mr. Alkow. "Economically, Great Britain's action is a blow to the world. Palestine today is one of the few spots in the world in which there is no unemployment. Hundreds of thousands of Jews are ready and anxious to go there and their migration would help to relieve the distress caused by lack of employment in other parts of the world."

According to Mr. Alkow, tonight's meeting is the first of a series of protest meetings under the auspices of the Pacific Coast Zionist Organization.

BRITISH CONSULATE IN WARSAW ATTACKED

WARSAW, Oct. 23. (AP)—Windows were smashed today in the building of the British consulate in renewed anti-British demonstrations organized by Hechaluts, Zionist youth pioneer organization, in protest against the British statement of policy on Palestine.

Demonstrations took place in front of the British Embassy and the British Consulate. Strong detachments guarded the buildings and prevented the crowds from entering.

In the afternoon a second demonstration took place outside the consulate building under the auspices of the Zionist Labor party, Poale Zion. Shouting "down with the British government" the demonstrants hurled stones at the consulate building but were dispersed by police.

Four jews were arrested. The Embassy and Consulate now are under guard.

PROTEST OF JEWISH NATIONAL COUNCIL FILED

JERUSALEM, Oct. 23. (AP)—Pinchas Rutenberg, chairman of the Jewish National Council, today officially submitted to high commission chancellor the council's protest against the British government's new statement of its future Palestine policy requesting that a copy of the protest be forwarded to London. The official protest reads as follows:

"We have no confidence in British administration governed by this statement of policy. We will not take any part in nor shall we recognize any parliamentary institution set up to prevent us from rebuilding our country."

LUCK RIDES WITH MAN IN CRASH

Car, Struck by Train, Lands on Speeding Engine with Motorist Unhurt

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 23. (Exclusive)—W. R. Holt, a railroad man of Colfax, today has qualified as the luckiest motorist in Indiana.

Holt's car was struck on a grade crossing near Dale by a speeding passenger train. The automobile was flung into the air and came down squarely on the pilot of the engine.

Holt, unhurt, clung to the pilot while the train speeded another quarter of a mile before the engineer stopped it.

DRIVE LAUNCHED FOR PROSPERITY

decided also to leave to the United States State Department the question of relinquishment of American extraterritorial rights in China.

Representative Englebright, father of a fire prevention bill now pending in Congress, addressed members of the conservation committee on the measure and the committee heartily indorsed the bill.

At a luncheon following the morning sessions, A. J. Mount, president of the Bank of Italy and chairman of the chamber's finance committee, issued a plea to California's fifty-eight counties for co-operation with the chamber in its drive to raise $500,000 by 1932 to finance campaign projects. Other speakers were:

Leland Cutler, president of the San Francisco Chamber; Shannon Crandall, vice-president of the Los Angeles Chamber, and Angelo J. Rossi, representing Mayor Rolph.

The committee will report on today's deliberations at a board of directors' meeting tomorrow. Action will be taken at that time on committee recommendations.

FIGHT FOR IMPERIAL HAY RATE CUT INDORSED

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23. (Exclusive)—Imperial Valley hay producers today won the indorsement of the agricultural committee of the State Chamber of Commerce in their efforts to get a rate concession from the Interstate Commerce Commission so they can help relieve drought conditions in the Middle West by shipping alfalfa hay to farmers and cattle raisers badly in need of it for winter forage. The committee undoubtedly will recommend its adoption by the board of directors tomorrow and the board is expected to grant it.

The hay producers of the Imperial have won, in fact, I.C.C. sanction of approximately the Yuma rate of $13 a ton, the Imperial rate being $13.40, effective November 1.

The Arizona Hay Traffic Association, however, has protested the rate with the contention it is discriminatory and is seeking to have the Interstate Commerce Commission rescind its action.

Arizona's attitude in the matter is considered ill-advised, at the least, as an actual surplus of alfalfa exists in the Imperial and the Middle West needs it. There are approximately 200,000 acres of alfalfa in the Imperial, yielding six to seven tons an acre, or more than is needed to care for dairying needs of the coastal plane and Southern California, according to Robert Hayes, secretary of the El Centro Chamber of Commerce. That organization initiated the move for the rate concession.

once the Gallic invasions of Asia Minor, the Cappadocian Kingdom and the Phrygian.

Downward, farther away and longer ago, come the strata of the new Hittite empire, and downward again, leaving the Iron and coming to the Bronze Age, appear the remains of the great first Hittite empire, which rose to power in the second half of the third millennium, B. C., and fell somewhere around 1800 B. C. Piercing below this great treasure house for Hittite study, the American expedition passed the strata of men of the Copper Age, and so at last reached Neolithicum, exposing the wooden roof-support of a dwelling inhabited by man 12,000 years ago.

For thirty years scientists have been seeking the key to the Hittite riddle. The Bible gives little more than the name of the mighty, mysterious warriors whose sway over Asia Minor extended even to Egypt and Babylon, and whose subsequent disappearance from history has not yet been explained.

TABLET RECORDS

Hittite tablets which have been deciphered give brief light upon great men and great events. There stands out the name of the Hittite King Kusharra, who in the third millennium, B. C., conquered far and wide and made Hattushash (the modern Turkish village of Boghaskeuy) the capital of the Hittite empire. From a Babylonian chronicle it is known that Hittites sacked Babylon and ended the great Hammurabi dynasty.

Greatest of Hittites, the scant records show, was King Shubbiluliuma, who brought the empire to its greatest height around 1400 B. C.

After the year 1200 B. C., all records of the Hittites suddenly cease. By some still unknown catastrophe, their empire was obliterated from the face of the world and from the annals of history.

How this lost race lived in the days of its power is being brought to light by the American expedition in Anatolia.

SHULER'S RADIO UNDER INQUIRY

Federal Commission Delves Into KGEF Charges

License Extended One Month Pending Decision

Pastor May Be Called for Regular Hearing

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—The Federal Radio Commission today granted a thirty-day extension from November 1 of the license of Station KGEF at Los Angeles pending an investigation of charges brought against the station. The station is operated by Rev. Robert P. Shuler of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

The commission did not make public the charges against the broadcaster.

The charges against Shuler and Station KGEF were filed with the commission by George D. Lyon of 809 South Los Angeles street, Los Angeles.

Radio Commissioner Harold Lafount, whose territory includes California, said the charges so far placed before the commission are numerous but general. He said word was received from Lyon today that affidavits and more specific charges are being forwarded.

It has been reported that Shuler, through Station KGEF, has attacked city judges, the heads of various city departments and various religious, fraternal and other organizations. He was reported also to have given fiery political talks over his station.

Lafount said if the commission's investigation warrants further action Shuler will be called for a regular meeting.

He said action either positive or negative can be expected before the expiration of the thirty-day license granted.

NIX ENCOURAGED IN FIGHT ON SHULER

Lloyd S. Nix, former City Prosecutor, associated with George D. Lyon, who has filed a complaint against Rev. R. P. Shuler's radio station with the Federal Radio Commission, issued the following statement concerning it last night:

"I am advised the Federal Radio Commission this afternoon granted Shuler a temporary permit to operate his station for thirty days only, pending investigation preceding hearing of the charges filed by George D. Lyon.

STATION "ON TRIAL"

"Ordinarily permits are issued for ninety days. A station on a thirty-day temporary privilege is in a precarious position. It signifies the Federal Radio Commission is taking every orderly step toward determining what discipline, if any, should be meted out to the offending station. This is the first time during its hectic career that Mr. Shuler's station has been officially placed on trial. This means the Federal government has taken cognizance of his violence and recklessness and is considering Shuler's offenses against public decency and public interest. It is one of the necessary steps to bring the agitating preacher before the national bar of justice.

"I do not know what form his discipline may take. We—speaking for the complainant, Mr. Lyon—have not asked for the revocation of his license. We have not asked for interference with the legitimate freedom of speech, but we have submitted legal evidence in support of our contention that he destroys confidence in courts, law and constituted authority and institutions; dangerously inflames the public mind, as evidenced in the murder of Motley Flint by Keaton; incites race hatreds by setting Negroes against whites, gentiles against Jews, and native born against foreign born; stirs up religious animosities, pits massesagainst classes; maligns persons in private and public life; uses his radio to vent private grudges; broadcasts misstatements directly and by innuendo. He has recklessly attacked civic, social and commercial organizations, as well as churches, schools and relief organizations.

"SOILING" REPUTATIONS

"I charge that mainly for selfish and mercenary reasons, with the great prestige of his sacred calling, and backed by the authority of his powerful and respected denomination, for three years, he has been harmfully and heedlessly soiling reputations and wrecking the honorable business of the community.

"I know public sentiment is overwhelmingly opposed to Shuler's practices. We appreciate the countless evidences of public support that have come to us, and will be grateful for the continued manifestation of approval. The more this support is crystallized in some definite form of expression, the greater value it has in aiding us to win our fight."

been waged since September 13, last, when the proprietors issued orders that one instead of two operators would be employed in the projection rooms of the Mission, California, Sequoia, Del Paso, New Roseville and Liberty theaters. The operators struck.

This move was followed by the beating of nonunion operators and the picketing of the theaters. Superior Judge Shields issued an injunction forbidding the picketing, but permitting the unionists to sell papers presenting their side.

In the cases of assault a number of arrests were made on charges of disturbing the peace.

"Amish" Believers Send Food To Two Hundred Hungry

CLEVELAND, Oct. 23. (AP) Two hundred hungry Clevelanders were thankful today for the teaching of the Amish religion that it is wrong to let a fellow-man starve. Fifteen Amish families of Millersburg, O., sent chickens and other farm produce here last night to feed the 200 hungry ones.

The Amish plan to send another load of food about Christmas.

RICH WIDOW GIVES AID IN CANCER WAR

Mrs. W. J. Conners Offers Palatial Home in East to Dr. Coffey for Research

NEW YORK, Oct. 23. (Exclusive) The chance meeting in San Francisco recently of Dr. Walter B. Coffey and Mrs. Grace I. Conners, widow of William J. Conners, Sr., Buffalo capitalist and political leader, resulted today in Mrs. Conners offering her palatial residence on Long Island to the surgeon for cancer research purposes.

Dr. Coffey, chief surgeon of the General Hospital of the Southern Pacific Railway in San Francisco, and his assistant, Dr. John Humber, startled the medical world during the last year with the development of a new treatment for cancer.

Mrs. Conners announced that she made the offer of her home, the Monastery, at Huntington Bay, and the fifteen acres surrounding it to the two surgeons.

Mrs. Conners said she will endow the clinic on Long Island if it is acceptable to the trustees of the cancer fund in California.

BILLINGS CASE EVIDENCE FILED

Three Affidavits Presented to Supreme Court

Two Deal With Photographs Taken of Parade

Documents Presented by Court's Attorney

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23. (Exclusive)—Three additional affidavits in the Billings pardon application hearing were filed with the State Supreme Court today by Fred L. Barry, acting as investigator and attorney for the court.

Two of them deal with photographs taken on the day of the Preparedness parade explosion in 1916 and the third with the credibility of John MacDonald, recanting witness.

C. M. Myers, photographer of this city, declares in one of the documents that he was approached late in July or early in August after the explosion to work over a camera film so it would show the face of a clock.

"If you can bring out the time on the face of the clock," he said he was told, "we will make it worth your while." He said it was impossible for him to do so. The photographs are those purportedly showing Thomas and Rena Mooney on the roof of the Ellers Building.

Charles M. Fickert, District Attorney during the prosecutions of Mooney and Billings, submitted an affidavit saying he had seen a printed photo from a motion-picture reel showing what he believes was the auto of Israel Weinberg, one of the defendants in the four trials. All copies, he learned later, were purchased by the International Workers' Defense League.

GREAT ACTIVITY

...discloses that while this region's ...ation is only 4.7 per cent of ...ation's total in an area that is ... per cent of continental United States, its progress has been remarkable as indicated by the following excerpts, the percentage figures of which mean in each instance the proportion of the national total:

Number of farms, (1925,) 226,574; 3.6 per cent. Total farm population (1935,) 954,145, 3.3 per cent. Farmlands (1925,) 90,329,000 acres, 9.8 per cent. Crop lands (1925,) 14,700,000 acres, 3.8 per cent. Total value of crops (1924) $273,548,000, 3.7 per cent. Value of live-stock products (1924) $159,089,989, 6.8 per cent. Value of dairy products (1924) $75,982,469, 8 per cent; poultry and eggs (1924) $54,428,849, 5.5 per cent; wool and mohair (1924) $28,676,680, 30.8 per cent. Estimated cash income on farms, yearly average, 1922-1925, $684,370,000, 7.2 per cent. Farm values as of January 1, 1925: live stock on farms, $365,641,000, 7.5 per cent; land and buildings, $3,979,602,000, 8 per cent; all farm property, $4,503,967,000, 7.9 per cent.

There were some 267,024,285 acres of Federal, State and railway lands in 1928. "More than 40 per cent, or approximately 60,000,000 acres of the area of natural forests in the United States, and more than 70 per cent, or about 141,000,000 acres, of the public domain, is within the Pacific Southwest," says the report.

The manufacturing situation is shown to be as follows:

Manufactures, 1927: Number of establishments, 11,295, 5.9 per cent; average number of wage earners, 293,345, 3.5 per cent; wages, $416,395,000, 3.8 per cent; cost of material, $1,686,479,000, 4.8 per cent; value added by manufacture, $1,185,298,000, 4.3 per cent; value of product, $2,871,677,000, 4.6 per cent.

Mining, 1927: Value of products, $692,875,000, 17.9 per cent; number of employees, 42,958, 4.4 per cent.

Bank deposits: Total January 1, 1928, $3,929,394,000, 6.6 per cent; savings, 1929, $2,071,845,000, 8 per cent. Postal business, total receipts, 1927, $39,526,278.

CLIMATE AND AGRICULTURE

There is a considerable variation of temperature in the Pacific Southwest, says the report. "California alone has all the temperature regions generally recognized except the truly tropical."

"Agriculture is today the supporting framework for the commercial structure of the Pacific Southwest," the report asserts.

"Because of the many factors involved in this industry, in the Pacific Southwest," it says, "no other region of the world has a more widely varied agriculture. California alone is said to produce 180 commercial crops, exclusive of live stock and live-stock products. While the other States of the Southwest do not produce crops in such great variety as California, they nevertheless surpass in this respect many of the States east of the Rocky-Mountains." It is pointed out that "the farm income of this region as a whole is more evenly distributed throughout the year than in any other section of the United States.'

The agricultural leadership of California "is not dependent entirely upon a greater area devoted to farming," says the report, "but to a higher value per acre."

"Ninety-six per cent of the water consumed in California is utilized in irrigating farm lands," the report states, quoting the California State Department of Public Works as authority, "and this ratio probably applies as well to the other States of the Pacific Southwest. Water is available for 22,362,000 acres in the Pacific Southwest, according to the survey.

The large importance of the citrus fruit crops is shown by the statement that California, in the 1919-1927 period, produced 99.6 per cent of the oranges grown in the Pacific Southwest, which produced 67.8 per cent of all the oranges grown in the United States. California also produced 85.1 per cent of all the grapefruit grown in the Pacific Southwest, which produced 7.4 per cent of all the grapefruit grown in the United States. "California," says the report, "produced practically all the lemons grown in the United States. The growing of lemons, like that of oranges, is concentrated in a few counties in Southern California."

Regarding grapes it says:

GRAPES AND FRUIT

"The importance of the grape crop to certain sections of California, particularly the Fresno area, is strikingly emphasized by the fact that nearly 50 per cent of both grape production and shipments in the United States are accounted for by California; and grapes rank next to apples in all fruit shipments originating in the United States, averaging 16 per cent of the total carlot movements of all fruits. In California the grape crop ranks third in value, exceeded only by hay and oranges. California produces about one-third of the total pear crop of the United States, and supplies over 60 per cent of the nation's pack of canned pears, about 42 per cent of the car-lot shipments of fresh pears, and practically all the commercial output of dried pears."

OTHER ITEMS

The report also shows the following facts:

The Pacific Southwest accounts for 50 per cent (51.38 per cent average for 1923-1927) of the total gold production of the United States.

Petroleum is the outstanding mineral product of the Pacific Southwest, averaging from 1923 to 1927 about 30.5 per cent of total quantity produced in the United States.

The fisheries of California rank second (from point of value to the fishermen) among those of the United States.

Of the visitors to national parks, 1913-1928, 43.6 per cent came to those in the Pacific Southwest.

The railways of the Pacific Southwest consist of more than 18,000 miles of lines, not considering trackage rights of switching or terminal roads.

BULLETS REMOVE "PUBLIC ENEMY"

Joe Aiello

CHICAGO GANG LEADER SLAIN

Joe Aiello Riddled by Hail of Machine-Gun Bullets

Underworld Baron Once One of City's Most Powerful

Decline Came After Defeat in Clash With Capone

CHICAGO, Oct. 23. (AP)—Joe Aiello, once of gangland's royalty, fell dead before enemy machine guns tonight, wearing a cheap suit that testified to the decline of the North Side mob in the face of "Scarface Al" Capone's merciless opposition.

He dropped under a veritable stream of machine-gun bullets poured into his body as he walked out of the courtway of the building where he had been living.

Officers searching a "death flat" across the street found about seventy-five machine-gun shells and a litter of cigarette stubs indicating the killers had lain in wait for their prey for some time.

ONCE BUSINESS MAN

Aiello is one of the twenty-eight men listed last April by the Chicago Crime Commission as "public enemies." He, his brothers, and George (Bugs) Moran, who was released under $10,000 bond today on a vagrancy charge, long reigned supreme in the North Side of Chicago in the traffic in liquor, gambling and vice.

Prompted by an insatiable thirst for power, Aiello has deserted a comfortable importing business to lead a ruthless mob into the Chicago gang wars.

The Aiellos were people of rank in Sicily, whence came Joe and his four brothers to seek their fortunes in Chicago. Joe established an importing business and grew wealthy.

But Aiello dreamed of power. He watched, speculatively, his friends, "Scarface Al" Capone and Dion O'Banion, become rich and dreaded chieftains in liquor commerce. Suggestion was strong and, ultimately, he plunged into bootlegging and gambling activities.

CLASHES WITH CAPONE

The Aiello organization trafficked on the North Side but, expanding steadily, pushed across Madison street into the Capone domain. The move meant war. Aiello was prepared, having marshaled the largest band of guerillas in the history of Chicago's crime.

Meanwhile, Dion O'Banion, captain of the other North Side crowd, had been shot to death for encroachments on Capone preserves. The slaying not only opened the quarterless gang vendetta but brought about a merger of the Aiello and O'Banion forces, the latter then directed by George "Bugs" Moran.

With Jack Zuta as chief counsel the new entente challenged the scarfaced king's eminence in the half world. Only Moran remains alive among the leaders.

JURYLESS TRIAL PLEA PRESENTED

Supreme Court Ruling on Petty Offenses Sought to Expedite Justice

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—The Supreme Court was asked today to decide what constitutes petty offenses triable without a jury. Should it give a broad decision on that question it would go far, lawyers believe, toward solving some of the troublesome questions arising out of prohibition enforcement.

In bringing up the question, Robert E. Lynch, as counsel for the District of Columbia, suggested it would be particularly helpful in relieving court congestion to have the highest court hold that petty offenses, such as reckless driving, which was involved in the case the city brought against William H. Colts, could be disposed of without jury trial.

Members of the court pressed Lynch to define petty offenses and he proposed they include those not indictable. He suggested the rule laid down by Congress for the district defining these offenses as involving a fine of less than $300 or imprisonment for less than ninety days might be followed.

Supporting the decision of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals holding reckless drivers must be tried before a jury, William B. O'Connell, counsel for Colts, contended Congress was without authority under the constitution to declare what offenses could be tried without a jury.

Book Discusses Episodes From Hoover's Past

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (Exclusive)—Considerable mystery surrounds publication of a book entitled "The Great Mistake," which purports to be written by John Knox, an admitted pseudonym, and to be published by the National Foundation Press, Inc.

The book sketches the life history of President Hoover, dwelling particularly on his connections with litigation in London involving a Chinese mining venture, his British affiliations during his career as a mining engineer, and effects of Hoover food control policies during the World War. The writer represents that the President accumulated his fortune, not as a mining engineer, but as a promoter of stocks in mining companies. The Chinese and other matters were exploited by Mr. Hoover's political opponents during the 1928 campaign and the book apparently contains nothing that was not brought out at that time.

H. Ralph Burton, an attorney whose name was furnished at the office from which the book was issued, declined to supply any information as to the backers of the enterprise or the identity of the author.

Sargon Brings First Relief In Fifteen Years

"Sargon is the only medicine that ever gave me satisfactory relief in my fifteen years of suffering," recently stated John Steiner, 873 S. Fair Oaks, Pasadena, who has lived in the Los Angeles District for fifty-one years and is a member of the Pasadena Lodge of Odd Fellows.

"My whole system seemed in bad condition, but the worst trouble I had was with indigestion. I couldn't eat anything hardly without suffering afterwards. My legs would become stiff and numb from poor circulation; I was very nervous and slept miserably.

"Three bottles of Sargon have done me so much good that I eat whatever I want, take a good bit of exercise and enjoy long walks without getting tired out like I used to before I started Sargon. My circulation is greatly improved; I'm no longer restless and nervous and I sleep the whole night through, and get up mornings feeling fine.

"Sargon Pills don't irritate or upset like other laxatives I've taken, but they ended my chronic constipation and are the best all around laxative I ever took. I am glad to give this statement to show my appreciation for what the Sargon treatment did for me."

Sargon may be obtained at all Owl Drug Stores and Liggett Drug Stores in Los Angeles and other cities.—[Advertisement.

RED INDUSTRIAL PLAN LAGGARD

Soviet Organ Admits Failure to Reach Schedule

Collective Farming Called Gigantic Success

Increases in Cotton and Sugar Beets Cited

MOSCOW, Oct. 23. (AP)—Izvestia, organ of the central executive committee of the Communist party, admitted today the soviet five-year industrialization plan finished its second year the 1st inst., 5 per cent below schedule, yet in an editorial the paper claims a great victory all along the line for Communist government.

The greatest deficiency was shown in the light industries, which showed only an 11 per cent increase, against the 23 per cent planned. The newspaper calls attention to a 38.1 per cent increase in industries to which the government devoted greatest attention, this being only 2.6 per cent under the increase expected.

FARMING EXCEEDS

The paper is jubilant especially at what it terms the great success of collective farming, and it claims during the year a total of 128,700,000 hectares were cultivated, of which 38,000,000 were cultivated in collectivist fashion. (One hectare equals 2.47 acres.) The figures are asserted to exceed the five-year plan by 23,000,000 hectares.

Izvestia also calls attention to 12,000 tractors and 400,000,000 roubles (about $240,000,000) worth of machinery distributed during the year. Failure of the light industries to achieve the schedule figures is laid to lack of raw materials, a lack which it is expected to overcome during the third year of the plan.

CROP INCREASES

Attention is called to an increase of 6 per cent in the 1930 cotton crop and of 150 per cent in the sugar-beet crop.

"The national income for 1930 is 33,000,000,000 roubles," (about $19,800,000,000) the paper said, "of which two-thirds are in the hand of socialized sectors. Conditions necessary for a wide socialistic advance on all fronts are fully ripe. The Bolshevik five-year plan is achieving great victories. It could and must be carried out in four years."

GLASS MURDER DETAILS SOUGHT

Attorney Interrupts Quizzing of Denver Woman

Child's Uncle Seized After Asserted Confession

Stepbrother of Victim Tells of Forbidden Dish

DENVER, Oct. 23. (AP)—As 10-year-old Leona O'Loughlin went to her grave today police continued the relentless grilling of her stepmother, Mrs. Pearl O'Loughlin, for an elaboration of her statement in which Detective Captain Clark said the woman assumed responsibility for the child's murder.

Mrs. O'Loughlin's statement to Clark also caused the police to take Frank O'Loughlin, her brother-in-law, into custody for questioning.

The five-day interrogation of the woman was interrupted by a court order from Judge Starkweather which dissolved the barrier of incommunicado which police established last Sunday when she was arrested. Her attorney, John M. Keating, arrived at police headquarters just as police announced they were about to reach a solution of the case after questioning Mrs. O'Loughlin and Frank O'Loughlin.

Frank O'Loughlin was taken into custody as he was preparing to attend Leona's funeral. Detectives found him at the O'Loughlin home, where he has been living. He was talking with Detective Leo O'Loughlin, father of the slain child, who also was fed ground glass which laboratory tests showed the girl had swallowed before being thrown into Berkeley Lake last week.

Douglas Millican, 8-year-old son of Mrs. O'Loughlin by a previous marriage, was questioned today by investigators for the District Attorney. They said Douglas related details of the meal at the O'Loughlin home last Tuesday night, shortly before Leona disappeared. The girl and her father both were fed some rice, Douglas said, which his mother warned him not to eat.

"She told me I had already eaten too much other food," Douglas said his mother said, when he asked for a bowl.

Workman Plunges 175 Feet From Bridge and Swims Ashore

SYDNEY (N.S.W.) Oct. 23. (AP) — While working on the great new Sydney Harbor bridge, said to be the world's largest arch bridge, a workman named Kelly today fell 175 feet into the harbor.

He hurtled down feet first, and as he struck the water a column of spray twenty feet high shot into the air. Kelly swam ashore, not much worse for his experience, and is now wondering whether he established a high-plunge record.

STIMSON TELLS ARMS BAN BASIS

Brazil Embargo Declared to Be Fully Justified

International Law Cited as Requiring Such Action

Similar Steps Taken During Other Revolutions

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—A formal statement intended to clarify the intent of the United States regarding arms shipments to Brazil was issued tonight by Secretary Stimson.

Stimson said the embargo placed upon such shipments was without precedent in that it was the first occasion in which a ban had been placed on shipments of munitions and arms to a South American country, but added, "It is misleading to call it an unprecedented action, as it is our regular action under similar circumstances. We are acting according to general principles of international law," Mr. Stimson said.

"Those principles declare that where we are in friendly relations through diplomatic channels with a government which has been recognized as the legitimate government of a country that government is entitled to the ordinary rights of any government to buy arms in this country, while the people who are opposing and trying to overthrow that government and are not yet recognized as belligerents are not entitled to that right.

"It is not a matter of choice on our part but is a practice of mankind known as international law. We have no personal bias and are doing nothing but attempt to carry out the law of mankind."

EFFECT OF EMBARGO DISCOUNTED BY REBELS

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 23. (AP)—Lindolfo Collor, Argentine representative of the Brazilian insurgents, today said he believed President Hoover's embargo on arms shipments to the rebels from the United States will only slightly affect progress of the revolution.

He repeated emphatically that all debts currently incurred by the Federal government for purchase of arms and munitions in the United States will be repudiated by the revolutionary government.

RAIN-SWOLLEN RIVER AIDS FEDERALS' DEFENSE

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 23. (AP)—Heavy spring rains today brought a new defense to the aid of the Federals who are opposing revolutionists in the Sao Paulo-Parana sector, scene of the hottest fighting in the Brazilian civil war.

At Itarare, around which heavy conflicts have centered for more than a week, the river Parana-Panema has swolled until it provides a natural defense for the government troops and has halted attempted forays by the rebels. Itarare is on the lower Parana-Sao Paulo border.

PERFECT HOSTESS APPEARS

Mrs. Doran Invents New Model Who Will Dispense Only Lawful Hospitality

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—Claiming success for her nonalcoholic cocktail launched a year ago, Mrs. James M. Doran, wife of the Commissioner of Industrial Alcohol, now plans to introduce to the country a new concept of the perfect hostess.

The new model will make her debut at the national convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union in Houston November 14. She has been evolved as the result of a nation-wide symposium of women conducted by Mrs. Doran.

In contrast to the perfect hostess of years gone by whose chief duty was to please her guests the new 1931 pattern will: First, put her guests at ease and make them feel at home; second, so tactfully but firmly imprint her own personality on any function in her home that her guests will take what she serves and like it; third, dispense only the hospitality which conforms with the laws of her city and State.

She will not be stingy with drinks. On the contrary, she will serve them continuously throughout a meal. But they will be drinks which depend on their tastes and color and not their alcoholic content to make them popular.

A new slogan will be launched at the convention by Mrs. Doran. It is "fill the national goblet legitimately."

Mrs. Doran said her book, "Prohibition Punches," filled with fruit-juice recipes from prominent women, has gone into its second edition. Half of the States, she added, have reported widespread use of the nonalcoholic cocktail, Illinois being one of the leaders.

Some of the W.C.T.U. leaders, Mrs. Doran said, were fearful of having the word cocktail used in connection with any temperance activity.

"But I pointed out to them," she added, "that they have served oyster cocktails for years. The 1930 cocktail which I introduced is just as harmless."

DEFEATED CANDIDATE CHARGES LAW BREACH

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23. (AP)—Robert Fry, defeated by J. P. Hayes as a candidate for Assemblyman from the Thirtieth District in San Francisco county, today petitioned the State Supreme Court to remove Hayes's name from the ballot and substitute that of Fry. He charged Hayes had not been a resident of the district one year, as provided by law. Fry was defeated by thirty votes.

Monarch Sends Message of Reply to Hoover

ADDIS ABEBA (Abyssinia) Oct. 23. (AP)—To the booming salute of seventeen guns, H. Murray Jacoby, special Ambassador of the United States for the coronation of the Emperor Haile Selassi, today presented to His Majesty the greetings of President Hoover.

Mr. Jacoby conveyed to the ruler of one of the world's most ancient empires the President's "most friendly greetings and confident hope for the great prosperity of Ethiopia and the happiness of its people under the benign reign of Haile Selassi."

The Emperor thanked Mr. Jacoby and then, speaking in the Ethiopian language, said with great earnestness:

"Your safe arrival in Ethiopia affords us much pleasure. We beg you to convey our best wishes to the President of the United States, his family and the American people."

Mr. Jacoby then presented Brig.-Gen. Harts and the other members of his official party, and all chatted with the Emperor.

The Emperor's reception to the Americans had special significance because they were the first delegation to be received officially.

MRS. HOOVER WILL SEE NAVY-PRINCETON GAME

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—Although President Hoover will be unable to attend the Navy-Princeton football game at Princeton Saturday, Mrs. Hoover will go as the guest of President and Mrs. Hibben of the university. She will be accompanied by Capt. Russell Train, the White House naval aide, and a few friends. She has accepted an invitation to luncheon from Dr. and Mrs. Hibben and will go directly from there to the stadium.

MacDonald Meets Privately With Premiers

Dominion Problems Taken Up in Conference

Canada's Tariff Program Not to Be Accepted

LONDON, Oct. 23. (AP)—MacDonald, British Prime Minister, hopes by personal negotiations to solve the problems of the Imperial conference.

To this end Mr. MacDonald began private and unofficial conferences with the prime ministers of the various dominions. He had the first such talk with J. H. Scullin of Australia.

Meetings with R. B. Bennett, Canadian Premier, and the other chief delegates will follow.

The conference with Mr. Bennett will largely be devoted to the tariff question. While it is said that Australia's definite proposal for a preferential tariff is not likely to be accepted by the home government, the Canadian delegation expects to achieve its objective by the British government's proposed quota system for imports.

HOOVER WANTS TIMBER BOARD

President Will Create Body to Study Resources

Similar Groups Urged for All Basic Industries

Coal and Steel Suggested for Supply Survey

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—President Hoover plans to create a National Timber Conservation Board to make a broad study of forest resources and means to conserve and perpetuate them.

The announcement the Chief Executive would set up such an agency was made at the White House today after he had received from Dr. Wilson Compton of the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association a suggestion that similar fact-finding commissions be named to study all of the nation's basic industries.

One such commission already is at work studying oil conservation. The lumber proposal has been before Mr. Hoover and Cabinet members for several months. Dr. Compton also suggested studies be made of coal and steel, with the aim of conserving all of the nation's resources and recommending long-term programs for their development.

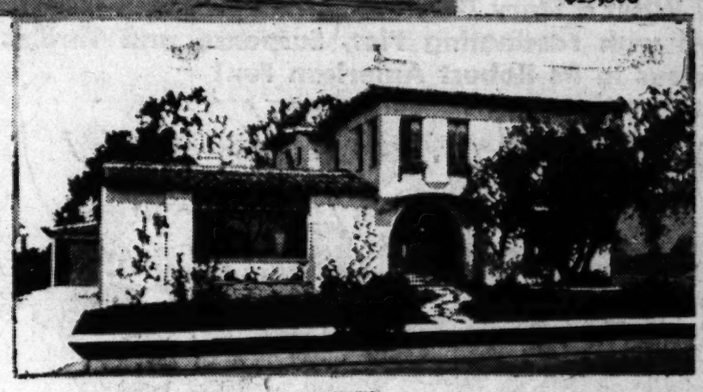
Ten Room Home, a real value for $19,500

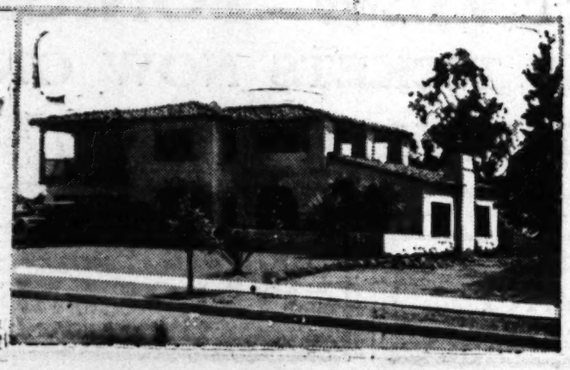


NOW IS THE TIME TO BUILD!

MONEY has more value in building today than it has possibly had in any time in the last twenty-five years. You can get more for your money now than you are likely to get again in the next twenty-five years.

Money can be had for building at better rates and on easier terms than for many years. If you contemplate building anywhere in Southern California NOW is the time to do it. Today's best investment in the United States is the building of homes in Southern California, at present low market value of vacant property and of building materials.

This attractive Spanish Home, Only $18,000



Eight Room Spanish Home $16,000

Because of the value of our property, the class of improvements, the character of the homes, the nearness of our properties to downtown Los Angeles and to the Universities, the climatic conditions and the immediate proximity of both ocean and mountains, we believe that the best investment in Southern California is "HUNTINGTON PALISADES".

Soon, the dam will break and there will be a flood of buying of both homes and vacant property in Southern California.

Now is the time to buy in Huntington Palisades and build to save money.

TROOPS THRONG WEDDING TOWN

Soldiers Drill for Part in Royal Ceremony

King Boris and Giovanna to Be Married Tomorrow

Assisi Full of Visitors for Gala Nuptials

ASSISI, Oct. 23. (AP)—This gentle little town, tonight resembled a city occupied by general headquarters in a zone of war.

All day long detachments of troops that will line the way of the bridal couple were sternly drilled in the crisp October air that they might be certain of their position to the inch for the gala events of Saturday, when King Boris of Bulgaria and Princess Giovanna of Italy will be married.

The town is crowded with visitors. Since there was a school holiday, children made a special excursion here to go through the church where Princess Giovanna will be married.

SCHOLARSHIP WILL BE IN PRINCESS' HONOR

ROME, Oct. 23. (AP)—The Italian War-wounded Association today notified Princess Giovanna it has established an annual scholarship in her name for Bulgarian students who wish to finish their education in Italian universities. The award will be made on each anniversary of Princess Giovanna's marriage to King Boris.

Two Destroyer Seamen Hurt in Collision at Sea

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 23. (AP)—Two seamen aboard the United States destroyer Claxton were injured last night in a collision at sea between the Claxton and the United States destroyer Badger, it became known today, when the two vessels came into port.

The injured men are William D. Dodd, seaman, first class, fractured skull, and Carl E. Buckley, chief machinist's mate, fractured rib.

The collision is said to have occurred during maneuvers, neither ship being seriously damaged. The cause of the collision has not been given out by navy officers.

CAMPAIGNER LINKED WITH NORRIS QUIZ

Seymour, G.O.P. Worker of Colorado, Named as Man Who Paid Grocer

LINCOLN (Neb.) Oct. 23. (AP)—The name of Victor Seymour, who until recently was associated with the Republican National Senatorial Campaign Committee headquarters in Denver, was linked today with the filing of the second George W. Norris for the Republican Senatorial nomination in Nebraska last summer, by the testimony of State Treasurer Stebbins before Chairman Nye of the United States Senate investigating committee.

Stebbins, a candidate for the Republican Senatorial nomination which was won by Senator George W. Norris, testified that after he approached Seymour the latter investigated the availability of the second Norris, a grocer from Broken Bow. Seymour, Stebbins said, later called him and said Norris wanted a $500 bond and $50 in cash. Stebbins said he got the bond and turned it over to Seymour.

The State Treasurer said he had heard rumors an effort was under way to find another man named "Stebbins" to file against him.

Stebbins testified he believed Senator Norris was not a good Republican and that he believed the second Norris's filing would cause Nebraska's senior Senator to withdraw from the race and run for reelection as an independent.

Walter B. Head, Chicago banker and official of the Nebraska Power Company, told Senator Nye that his opposition to Senator Norris was a personal matter and the power company was in no way involved.

Chicago Mayor Openly Fights Mrs. McCormick

CHICAGO, Oct. 23. (AP)—Mayor William Hale Thompson tonight assumed responsibility for the preparation and circulation among Negro voters of circulars attacking Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican candidate for the United States Senate.

Amplifying on the circular, the Mayor said: "As long as I am permitted to live, I will never betray the people of Chicago by voting for any member of the McCormick family for anything."

BIDDLE HEIRESS VISITS DIAMOND

Social Leader Chummy With Wounded Gangster

Nice, at Least Intelligent, She Comments

Good-by Jack, and Luck, Parting Salutation

NEW YORK, Oct. 23. (Exclusive) Jack (Legs) Diamond, the racketeer, had a visit this afternoon from a social queen, in the person of none other than the former Cordelia Biddle of the aristocratic and wealthy Philadelphia Biddles. And what a chummy little visit it was.

Cordelia, leader in the best of New York's best sets, was calling Diamond, leader in the worst of New York's worst sets, by his first name when she left him.

"Good-by, Jack, and lots of luck," she said to him, sweetly.

And Jack was just as sweet.

"Thanks, kid, come again," said he.

"Really, he's such a nice little fellow," gurgled the Biddle heiress to her present husband, Thomas Markoe Robertson, as they left Metropolitan Hospital.

Then she thought a moment and hedged a bit. "what I mean, he's such an intelligent sort of person, isn't he?" she added.

The meeting between the ultra-fashionable society matron and the notorious gangster came about in this wise: She felt a sudden craving to look at some prisoners, and so visited Welfare Island with her husband. But the prisoners behind the bars there failed to appease her. She appealed to Warden Joseph A. McCann, and word was sent up to Diamond to learn if he would receive the Robertsons. It was the first time in her life that Cordelia had ever had to ask anybody's permission to call.

Jack sent back word that it was o.k. with him, but Cordelia and her husband had to cool their heels in a waiting room while Jack was moved into a room more suitable for the meeting.

Adventist Hits Jazz Broadcast

OMAHA (Neb.) Oct. 23. (AP)—Radio broadcasting of jazz music was flayed here today by Rev. Oliver Montgomery of Washington, as the president's council of the Sev- of the world.

enth Day Adventists' Church opened its annual session.

"The Godless jazz music that is being hurled through the air into the homes of the people is doing more to drive men, women and children away from the church of God than any other single thing in this world," Rev. Mr. Montgomery told the council.

The meeting was attended by leaders of the church from all parts

CANCER INSTITUTE RAIDED

Berkeley Establishment Invaded, Arrests Made by Posse of State, County and City Officers

BERKELEY, Oct. 23. (AP)—A posse made up of State, county and municipal officials crashed the doors of the Bohannon Cancer Institute here today, removed six patients to hospitals and arrested Grover Bohannon, proprietor, and Dr. Dion A. Crew, licensed physician, on charges of violating the State Medical Practice Act. Bail was fixed at $5000 each.

The raid was conducted by Dist.-Atty. Warren and Sheriff Driver of Alameda county, with the aid of Berkeley police. J. W. Davidson, special agent for the State Board of Medical Examiners, and three members of the State Narcotics Bureau were present.

Investigation of the institute began a week ago, when Mrs. Mamie L. Davis, a nurse in the place for the last three months, told the District Attorney she was "sickened and horrified by the inhuman and brutal treatment of patients."

According to Davidson the institute has an unsavory history. He said moles, warts and other growths were diagnosed as cancer and burned away with nitric acid Persons believing they had been cured of cancer were quick to praise the institute's methods, he asserted.

Mrs. Grover Bohannon said:

"My husband is using a legitimate cancer cure, only doctors won't recognize it. It was discovered forty years ago by his father, J. L. Bohannon, a veterinarian."

Angeleno Killed in Accident at Santa Barbara

SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 23. (Exclusive)—A. Gaudard, 60 years of age, of 439 West Forty-fifth street, Los Angeles, came here today to visit his wife, who is employed at Cottage Hospital.

Tonight he died on his way to the hospital after being struck by an automobile. His wife, who was walking with him, was also injured and is near death.

The accident occurred at Cota and De La Vina streets, here, the driver of the automobile being Arthur E. Mitchell, 21, of 117 West Mission street, this city, who is held pending investigation.

WILBUR'S LEAVE EXTENDED YEAR

Stanford Trustees Grant Secretary's Plea

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23. (Exclusive)—The board of trustees of Stanford University today unanimously accorded President Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, another leave of absence, from September 1 of this year to August 31, next. Dr. Robert E. Swain continues as acting president.

Members of the board refused to comment after the meeting, but a statement was issued on behalf of the board, headed by William Mayo Newhall, which said, in part:

"Dr. Wilbur has requested this leave in order to be able to carry on a number of highly important national activities embraced within his duties as Secretary of the Interior. These activities are so complex and so broad in scope as to engaged all his time and energies."

The board, as predicted by President Newhall of the trustees, took the action following an editorial outburst in the Stanford Daily, student publication, calling upon Dr. Wilbur to give up his Cabinet post or the university presidency.

This Woman Fat and 40 Tells How She Reduced

Her Physical Attractiveness Compels Admiration

It was this way—I was reading the evening paper and right before my eyes was an article headed "How one woman lost 47 pounds of fat in three months" and you can just bet I woke up and got interested right away.

And all this woman did to lose all that fat was to take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast.

That seemed easy to me—I was sold on Kruschen Salts and took my first dose the next morning—that was four months ago.

Well, as you can all see, my fat is gone—I've gained a shapely figure—bright eyes—clear skin—and tireless energy—and I never felt better in my life.

Kruschen Salts (It's the Little Daily Dose That Does It) brings activity to mind and body—its invigorating influence causes the stomach, liver and bowels to do their work naturally and healthfully.

There is nothing so good as Kruschen—(remember the name) taken every morning—it cleanses every organ, nerve, gland and tissue in the body to function naturally. One woman lost 19 pounds in two weeks.

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks cost but 85 cents at any Owl & Liggett Drug Store or at any drug store in the world.

Mrs. Betty Luedeke of Dayton writes, "I am using Kruschen to reduce weight—I lost 10 pounds in one week and cannot say too much to recommend it." — [Advertisement.]

GREEN LANTERN FOUNTAINS

The telltale shower

that betrays men and women

How to get rid of it quickly—pleasantly—inexpensively

Listerine, noted antiseptic, found highly successful

If your scalp itches or burns, if your hair is thinning or you are troubled with loose dandruff, begin using full strength Listerine, systematically, as an antiseptic shampoo. Simply douse it on and massage the scalp as vigorously as you can.

Literally tens of thousands have rid themselves of a dandruff condition with Listerine. They are simply amazed by the speed with which it gets results—often in cases where other, more complicated, treatments had failed. One or two applications are frequently found sufficient.

What loose dandruff is Loose dandruff is the visual evidence of a diseased or infectious condition of the scalp. It is most likely to manifest itself when the seasons change.

Evidence seems to point that the condition is of germ origin. At any rate, the fat glands about the hair become over-active, throwing off a disgusting, greasy, whitish substance known as sebum. This forms in crusts and scales that betray you as a careless and unhealthy person.

Neglect is dangerous

The hair, meanwhile, seems literally to be stifled. It grows lustreless, lifeless, falls out. The scalp feels hot and itchy. If the condition is not treated promptly, eczema and baldness may follow, and usually do.

At the first symptom of trouble, the fight against loose dandruff should begin. Consider Listerine's effectiveness against this condition.

Why Listerine succeeds

If infection is present on the surface of the skin, Listerine attacks it. A powerful germicide, it kills bacteria in 15 seconds.

Listerine helps to dissolve oily crusts and quickly removes them, as well as horny scales. And Listerine quickly relieves that burning, itching sensation. It soothes inflamed or irritated areas of the scalp.

If scalp is dry

If scalp is excessively dry, a little olive oil may be used in connection with the Listerine shampoo, or independent of it. The oil aids in dissolving crusts and scales and keeps hair from drying out.

Get a bottle of Listerine tonight and try it if your scalp is troubling you. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Missouri, U. S. A.

FESS PREDICTS G.O.P. CONTROL

Seats in Congress to Be Held, Says Chairman

Senator Asserts Democrats Overshooting Mark.

Joy Over Depression Sure to React, He Declares

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—Republican control of the next Congress was predicted tonight by Chairman Fess of the Republican National Committee as the two major parties intensified their efforts to gain votes in the November 4 election.

"The country is Republican," Fess asserted, declaring that Democrats never win "except when Republicans are divided or in some off-year when political interest is inactive."

"In this off-year," he added, "the Republican party is not divided. Local issues here and there divide Republicans, but not more so than Democrats."

A claim that Democrats would gain control of the House was made last Sunday by Chairman Shouse of the Democratic National Executive Committee.

RESENT DEMOCRATS

"General apathy incident to an off-year election," Fess continued, "is rapidly being dissipated by the character of the campaign conducted to break down the program of the President of the United States.

"Democratic leaders, in their anxiety to win, and knowing their only chance is to capitalize the depression, are not only willing to exaggerate the situation as they have been doing from the beginning, but are unable to conceal their actual pleasure over such an issue."

Fess said, "At such a time of world crisis the least that ought to be expected from every citizen is co-operation with the President to mitigate the distress of unemployment."

PEOPLE AROUSED

"The American people," he asserted, "too well understand the political motives of the absurd charge that the President is responsible for world conditions, and will resent the Democratic leaders' assumption of their lack of ordinary intelligence."

The Republican chairman charged Democratic leaders "omitted no step in Congress to impede the President's legislative program while their campaign strategy outfit, with headquarters in Washington, had worked overtime in an effort, first to embarrass, then to break down the head of the government."

BOWERS DECLARES G.O.P. ADMINISTRATION FAILURE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—Describing the Hoover administration as "nineteen months of faithlessness and failure," Claude G. Bowers of New York, keynote speaker of the 1928 Democratic convention, tonight called upon the nation to "rebuke those in power" by the election of a Democratic Congress on November 4.

In a radio speech over the Columbia Broadcasting System, Bowers characterized farm relief as a "mockery," the tariff bill as "robbery," and asserted that "no government on this earth has done less to meet the problems of the unemployed."

"Never in the annals of the nation," Bowers said, "has any administration suffered such a complete collapse within two years of its inauguration as that of Mr. Hoover. Never has one failed so flagrantly in the fulfillment of its pledges to the public. And never have the people suffered such dire disaster because of ineptitude in statesmanship, incapacity in leadership, and indifference to the welfare of the average man on the part of those in power."

GOVERNOR GOES UNDER KNIFE

BISMARCK (N. D.) Oct. 23. (AP)—Gov. Shafer entered a hospital here today for an operation for appendicitis tomorrow.

SCIENCE GREAT FOR FEMALES

It Makes Women Beautiful but Puts Poor Male Out of Job

CHICAGO, Oct. 23. (AP)—Science, after all, should get the feminine vote, thinks N. A. Oatridge, Cambridge University debater.

Meeting the representatives of the University of Chicago in debate last night, he heard them charge that science had destroyed individuals and had put a lot of men out of jobs.

"But," interposed the Cambridge scholar, "science has fixed it so that a lot of women are now getting two glances from men where before they never got one. Take face lifting, take the permanent wave, take scientific complexions. That's science. It's made the world more beautiful."

CHINA PREPARES FINAL RED DRIVE

Entire Nationalist Army to Be Employed

Warning Given Foreigners in Danger Zones

Responsibility Denied for Those Who Remain

SHANGHAI, Oct. 23. (AP)—The Nationalist government, said Foreign Minister Wang today, "plans to throw its full strength into crushing the Reds" who recently despoiled foreign missions in several cities, as a part of their campaign of wholesale murder, robbery and incendiarism in Kiangsi province.

The minister insisted, however, the government can not be held responsible for the safety of foreigners who persist in remaining in dangerous areas.

Informed that several American and other foreign missionaries had been forced to flee from Jaochow, Kingtechen and Kian to save their lives from Reds waging bitter warfare upon foreign and Chinese Christians, Wang said:

"Communism at present is an abstract problem in America and other nations. It has become an active menace in China, therefore the government plans to throw its full strength into crushing the Reds."

Writing from his place of concealment in the area about the large Poyang Lake in Northern Kiangsi, Father Verdini, an Italian priest, gave details of the looting by Reds of the Lazarist mission at Jaochow and the flight of himself and other missionaries.

Verdini's letter, dated the 14th inst., said the writer knew of no missionaries being killed, but several were in hiding in dangerous Red-infested areas.

Five thousand Communists, said Verdini, descended upon Jaochow the second week in October after Nationalist guards had fled. All mission property, except the church itself, was destroyed by fire in a three-day raid. Shops and townspeople were robbed and many residents were slain.

Vote "NO" on $13,300,000.00 POWER BONDS

BECAUSE this bond issue has absolutely NOTHING to do with bringing water from Boulder Dam.

BECAUSE the official report for the year ending June 30, 1930, shows that the Bureau of Power and Light has on hand $3,000,000.00 of unsold bonds, and in addition $4,238,027.11 in cash. This $7,238,027.11 should be used before the taxpayers are asked to vote more bonds.

BECAUSE the same report shows that the Bureau of Power and Light has received $3,720,050.61 from taxes paid by the people.

BECAUSE the Power Bureau pays no taxes, the taxpayers pay the $1,500,000.00 a year which, through exemption, the Power Bureau evades. Who can say that power bonds do not cost the taxpayer a cent?

BECAUSE taxes and assessments in Los Angeles are high enough and we must conserve our bonding capacity for the development of water, for schools, police and fire department requirements, sewers and other things that are real necessities.

BECAUSE LOS ANGELES HAS PLENTY OF POWER AVAILABLE TO TAKE CARE OF ITS GROWTH FOR MANY YEARS TO COME.

BECAUSE next year you will be asked to vote from $200,000,000.00 to $250,000,000.00 in bonds for the Boulder Dam aqueduct. THAT IS THE BOND ISSUE WHICH IS BEING WATCHED BY CONGRESS AND OTHER AUTHORITIES AT WASHINGTON AND HAS NOTHING TO DO WITH THE PRESENT PROPOSED BOND ISSUE.

APPLE SHOW IN OPENING DAY

Yucaipa's Sixteenth Annual Event Welcomes Throng

Attendance Initial Day Best in Exhibit's History

Deciduous Fruit on Display Rivals Previous Years

BY BURTON L. SMITH
"Times" Staff Representative

YUCAIPA, Oct. 23.—It is apple time in Yucaipa and the best proof of the fact is the sixteenth annual Apple Show, which opened here this afternoon. Racks of ripened fruit, displays of garden triumphs, and a holiday crowd in its gayest mood, make of this show a festival of thanksgiving for the bountiful crops and perfect season combined with an exhibition extraordinary of the perfect products of the deciduous fruit orchards with which this beautiful valley abounds.

The show is the outstanding event on the calendar of the Yucaipa Woman's Club, which each year sponsors the exhibition, in addition to serving a noonday and evening turkey dinner each day of the show.

Today is far ahead of any previous opening day as far as attendance is concerned, and the enthusiasm of the great crowd that filled the big dining-room of the Woman's Club at noon and milled through the vast tent the rest of the day guarantees the patronage and attendance so necessary to make the event a success.

COMEDY OFFERED

Tonight and tomorrow night the Yucaipa Community Players will present "The Ghost Parade," a popular farce-comedy which presents a most creditable amusement feature. After the theatrical performance the auditorium is given over to show visitors who care to dance, thus extending the day's program until late in the evening of each day of the show.

Grounds of the Woman's Club have been converted into a great amusement park where a large number of concessionaires offer a variety of diversions to visitors. This section of the grounds leads to the entrance of the main tent, where the show proper is in progress and where great banks of fruit, vegetables and grains are exhibited. Booths that fill the space around the side walls of the canvas are given over to industrial displays which show to good advantage the industry and progress of this community. In a separate tent which adjoins the main stretch of canvas the automobile show is staged, which in a big way adds to the general interest. Latest models of high-class motor vehicles, displayed in a most attractive manner, attract large numbers of show visitors, to whom the active attendants sing loudly the praises of their various cars.

SCIOTS HAVE DAY

This year's show is under the management of Harry R. Shepherd, whose tireless efforts have culminated in a program much larger and much more filled with interest than any which have been offered by past exhibitions in this community. This afternoon was given over to the Sciots, of which a large number from Redlands and other surrounding towns were in attendance. The high school band of Redlands furnished music this afternoon, and this evening the glee club of the same institution was in attendance.

Tomorrow a juvenile band and orchestra, a group of strolling Spanish players from Riverside, and the Redlands Municipal Band will appear on the day's program. Saturday a special vaudeville program, made up of high-class numbers, will be presented, and Sunday, known as Chamber of Commerce day, an unusual number of talented artists will be introduced. A public-address system is centered in the stage erected in the rear of the main tent, making it possible for all the vast audience to hear the programs offered without crowding close to the stage.

The show will be open through next Sunday and it is fair to presume that the efforts of the management to provide an exhibition far above the average and decidedly worth while, will be rewarded by the capacity attendance which is more than merited. If nothing more has been accomplished than to show to the world that citrus fruits are only a part of Southern California's ranch products, the Yucaipa Apple Show is worth all the effort it has cost and is sure to receive that co-operation which has given this wonder land its place in the sun.

MODERN PRESS INSTALLED

"Open-House" at Inglewood "News"

Friends of Pioneer Daily Felicitate Owners on Acquisition

Close to 1000 friends of the Inglewood Daily News gathered to congratulate the proprietors, Thad N. Shaw, and his son, Hubert H. Shaw, on the installation of a new $25,000 plate-perfecting press, with a capacity of 25,000 sixteen-page papers an hour. In keeping with the occasion, a buffet luncheon was served to the guests from the steel "turles," or make-up tables, in the composing-room. Mr. and Mrs. Thad N. Shaw are seen in the foreground as they stood to receive guests on this occasion, while their son is seen immediately back of the new press.

INGLEWOOD, Oct. 23.—A throng estimated at close to 1000 persons attended the formal dedication of the new $25,000 Hoe plate-perfecting press which has been added to the equipment of the Inglewood Daily News, last evening.

Publishers of the Daily News, Thad N. Shaw and Hubert H. Shaw, declared open house for the occasion and friends of the paper enjoyed a dedication ceremony which included greetings from many organizations.

Speakers on the program included Congressman Joe Crail of the Tenth Congressional District, Mayor Hugh B. Lawrence of Inglewood, Assemblyman-elect Sam M. Greene, a former publisher of the News; Frank D. Parent, president of the Inglewood Rotary Club; Marc N. Goodnow of the school of journalism of the University of Southern California, Paul West of the M. C. Morgensen agency, Miss Edith Allen of the California Newspaper Publishers' Association, and Roy Rosenberg, city editor of the News.

SOUVENIR EDITION GIVEN

At a given signal the great press was set in motion, and the hundreds were given a souvenir edition of the News.

The occasion also marked the sixteenth year that the paper has been under the ownership of Thad N. and Hubert H. Shaw, who came to Inglewood from Washington State, and acquired the News when it was a weekly poultry journal.

In the intervening years Inglewood has grown from a hamlet of less than 3000 population to one of the most important cities in the Southland, with a population in excess of 30,000 in its natural trade territory.

The News has kept pace with that progress, according to the various speakers on the dedication program, who lauded the publishers for their enterprise and display of faith in the future.

LUNCH ON "TURTLES"

As a climax to the dedication ceremony, a buffet luncheon was served from the "turtles," or steel make-up tables in the composing rooms.

The new press permits the Daily News to print from eight to sixteen pages daily, and delivers them printed, pasted, folded and cut, at the rate of 25,000 an hour. It replaces an eight-page flat-bed press that had a capacity speed of only 3000 an hour.

GARDENANS ENTERTAIN LEGION MEN

District Convention and Municipality Dedication Includes Parade, Program

GARDENA, Oct. 23.—In a program which combined the district convention of the American Legion and the official dedication of this place as an incorporated municipality, members of the local American Legion post were hosts at a rousing community meeting here last night. Two hundred visiting Legionnaires were present for the event.

A parade from the downtown district to the auditorium of the high school, where the program took place, was marked by the participation of a drill and drum corps representing twenty-five posts. B. W. Gearhart of Fresno, State Commander of the Legion, here to install a post at Lennox, was a speaker. Frank Shofstall of Lynwood presided as master of ceremonies and arrangements were in charge of W. J. Whittington.

South Bay in Chamber Meet

REDONDO BEACH, Oct. 23.—Members and officers of the South Bay District Chamber of Commerce will meet at the Airport Cafe at Los Angeles Airport on November 10, next, for a general reorganization and election meeting.

The organization, formed last year, is made up of representatives of the chambers of commerce of the Centinela and South Bay District cities and expects to center its objectives around the industries which will be attracted to Los Angeles Airport and this vicinity as time progresses.

The meeting has been set for 7 p.m. and will be a ladies' night and dinner meeting. James H. Dalton, secretary of the Redondo Beach chamber, who is also secretary of the district chamber, issued the meeting notices, which provide also for the nomination of officers now being received.

Don Hays and George Evans have been nominated as directors from the local chamber.

EAST WHITTIER OPENS SCHOOL

WHITTIER, Oct. 23.—The public is cordially invited to attend the "open house" for the new East Whittier school Saturday night. The building will be thrown open for general inspection at 7:30 p.m. At 8 o'clock the program will commence, including the appearance of the boys' and girls' glee clubs, presentation of an American flag by the Woman's Relief Corps and a dedication program carried out by the pupils of the school.

Following the program the visitors are invited to look over the new plant and meet the teachers of the school. The P.-T.A. has arranged the refreshments to be served in the cafeteria.

WAITER ACCUSED OF GANGSTER ACTIVITY

REDONDO BEACH, Oct. 23.—Wanted by Long Beach police officers on charges connecting him with eastern gangster activities, Andy Scaramucci, 26-year-old Italian waiter of San Pedro, was arrested here last night.

Scaramucci was first taken in custody on a charge of disturbing the peace, the officers establishing his record later through fingerprint identifications.

A companion, William Travis, is held with him.

DEADLOCK ON CANAL BROKEN

Imperial Irrigation Board Votes for Big District

Coachella to Have Equal Share in Waters

Valley to Get More Than Secondary Right

EL CENTRO, Oct. 23.—Breaking a deadlock which has threatened to delay Imperial Valley's all-American canal plans indefinitely, a majority of the directors of the Imperial Irrigation District today passed a resolution directing attorneys to draft a contract to be submitted to the Federal government, which will place all lands to be watered by the canal in one big district.

During the two-day discussion which preceded today's action, Directors Earl Pound and C. W. Brockman insisted that Coachella Valley should be granted only a secondary right to water delivered through the all-American canal. Under the resolution passed today by Directors Mark Rose, W. O. Blair and Ira Aten, this demand is waived and the Coachella Valley is to be granted equal rights with other water users in the enlarged water system.

The contract to be drafted by attorneys for the two districts is to be submitted to the Department of the Inerior and when finally approved, will be referred back to the voters in the area affected.

EXHIBITION OF BLOOMS NEARS END

Pasadena Flower Show to Conclude This Evening; Attendance at New Mark

PASADENA, Oct. 23.—More than 10,000 persons have viewed this city's fall flower show to date, and when the exhibition closes tomorrow at 10 p.m., it is anticipated by S. T. Jarvis, display manager, that all records for attendance at local shows will have been shattered. School children will be admitted free tomorrow when accompanied by parents.

The sweepstakes prize, it was announced today, has been awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McNaughton of 2 Oak Knoll Terrace, for their collection of rare orchid blooms.

The Los Angeles Country Club won first prize for its gladioli exhibit. Other feature awards were: Adolph Laesser of 400 South San Rafael avenue, first prize for a thirty-foot-square collection; Dr. Leroy B. Sherry of 675 South San Gabriel avenue, first prize for decorative dahlias; Mrs. Irving Walker of Bel-Air, first prize for twenty-five potted zinnias; Arthur Cook of Monterey Park, first prize for the best twenty-four chrysanthemums; Col. J. H. Poole of Altadena, first prize for pompons and anemones, and Mrs. J. J. Mansar of Altadena, first prize for the best twelve varieties of roses.

Three garden clubs which a few months ago declined to enter the fall show are reported to have reconciled their differences with the show sponsors and to have agreed to enter the spring exhibition.

MERCHANTS TO AID IN THEATER OPENING

HUNTINGTON PARK, Oct. 23. While the date of opening of the new Warner Brothers Theater Building here nearing completion, has not, as yet been announced, although it will be set for the early part of November, members of the Huntington Park Retail Merchants' Better Business Bureau decided at their meeting yesterday to have a "Warner day" among the business concerns of the city. On this day they will have special displays in their windows, welcoming the new addition into the amusement field here. The new structure is rapidly nearing completion, and it is planned by Warner Brothers to have a number of their motion-picture stars here on the afternoon and evening of the opening.

SHORTRIDGE TO SPEAK

FONTANA, Oct. 23.—Senator Samuel M. Shortridge has accepted the invitation of the Fontana Chamber of Commerce to be the principal speaker at its annual banquet, the latter part of the month.

Dainty Maidens to Depict Valley History

Ancient Vehicle to Figure in Pageant

They are seated in or on one of the first automobiles in Imperial Valley, the property of George Donley of Imperial. Below, Miss Marjorie Cass, who will dance in the pageant.

IMPERIAL PLANS PAGEANT

Freight Trains, Covered Wagons, Horseless Carriages and Stage Coaches Props in Production

IMPERIAL, Oct. 23.—Playing on a five-acre stage, with freight trains, covered wagons, "horseless carriages" and stage coaches for props, 400 citizens of the Imperial Valley will next month perform as actors in a huge pageant which will reflect the history and romance of their valley from the days of pre-historic man up to the day of the modern woman.

Indians, scouts, cowboys, senoritas and pioneer settlers, many of these roles played by men and women reliving in pageantry stirring episodes in which once they played actual parts, will lend color to the pageant, which was written by Phil Witing and J. S. Cameron, with music specially composed by Fannie C. Dillon, internationally renowned composer.

An entire Southern Pacific work train will steam across the vast stage in the scenes which depict the mending of the break in the Colorado River which once threatened disaster to the entire Imperial Valley.

The pageant will be presented at Imperial county fairgrounds here, lighted by one of the most remarkable theatrical lighting systems ever installed, on four successive evenings, November 6 to 9, inclusive. Prominent people from Mexico and from widely separated parts of the United States are planning to attend the pageant.

FONTANA TO BE HOST TO ASPIRANTS

Mayor Rolph and Frank F. Merriam Will Speak There Next Monday Night

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 23.—The Republican nominees for Governor and Lieutenant-Governor, Mayor James Rolph, Jr., of San Francisco, and Senator Frank F. Merriam of Long Beach, will be the guests of San Bernardino county next Monday night, speaking at the Woman's Club at Fontana. It will be the only speaking engagement for Rolph in the county during the campaign.

The occasion will be the annual meeting of the Fontana Chamber of Commerce. The dinner will be served promptly at 7 p.m.

The Republican County Central Committee will assist the Fontana chamber in the arrangements for the meeting, at which 200 or 300 guests will greet Rolph and his running-mate, State Senator Merriam.

Superior Judge Marsh Resigns

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 23.—Gov. Young has received the resignation of Spencer M. Marsh as judge of the Superior Court, it was announced today by George Edward, clerk of Judge Marsh's court, following receipt of a letter from Marsh at his home in Marshfield, Wis.

As reason for his resignation Judge Marsh gives ill health. A few months ago he had a relapse from an illness which caused him to go to his old home for an extended rest. Mrs. Marsh went with him.

They are planning to leave Wisconsin tomorrow and will return here, where Judge Marsh will engage in light practice of law some time after January 1.

INSURANCE ON LIFE NOT ATTACHABLE

Appellate Court Rules in Ingalls Case That Such Money Not Part of Estate

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 23.—Establishing a point never before carried to the Appellate Court of California, the Fourth District Court of Appeal today ruled that life insurance received by a widow for her mate's death cannot be attached by creditors.

In brief, the court ruled that life insurance money is not a part of the estate and, therefore, is not subject to attachment by creditors.

The ruling was announced when the Appellate Court upheld a decision by Superior Judge Charles L. Allison in denying judgment to five insurance corporations against Mrs. Ruth L. Ingalls of Ontario, for $28,000 which, it was asserted, represented the debts of her late husband, J. S. Ingalls, an insurance broker, to the corporations.

Ingalls died insolvent on November 26, 1924, leaving an estate valued at $17,000 with a total indebtedness of $44,000, of which the life insurance corporations claimed $28,000. Ingalls was the Ontario representative for the insurance companies.

Mrs. Ingalls received $67,000 in insurance from policies held by her husband, it developed during the case. The insurance companies immediately filed suit to collect the $28,000 in debts and the widow refused to pay.

The corporations contended in the suit that Ingalls and his wife had conspired to defraud the insurance companies by investing his wealth in insurance and ignoring his bills. The court ruled, however, that the paying of the insurance was occasioned by Ingalls's death, an involuntary act, and that no fraud could exist between the act of death and the passing of the insurance money to the widow.

The case may be carried to the California Supreme Court.

ARMORY BROADCASTS FIRST PROGRAM SOON

LONG BEACH, Oct. 23.—Opening of the radio station of the new Long Beach armory was set for December 1, by State officials today. Frank F. Merriam, Republican nominee for Lieutenant-Governor, who was instrumental in obtaining the $75,000 appropriation for the armory, will deliver the principal address at the ceremony.

CARELESSNESS TO BE CURBED

Five Recent Traffic Deaths in Pasadena Reported

Mahlon Stambach, Veteran of Civil War Latest Victim

Concerted Drive Against Recklessness Planned

PASADENA, Oct. 23.—[illegible] stances of the traffic accident resulted in the death last night of Mahlon D. Stambach, 86, Civil War veteran, will be held at an inquest to be held this morning in the Ives & Company mortuary.

Stambach was the [illegible] to meet death in a local traffic accident within the last seven days, each death occurring as the result of a separate accident. Chief of Police Charles H. Keller announced today that the city has experienced the worst series of traffic accidents recently in the city's history and that a campaign to drive against reckless drivers and careless pedestrians will start tonight.

The latest victim was struck by an automobile late yesterday afternoon as he was crossing the intersection of Molino avenue and California street. The driver of the automobile, Jay Boisot, 15 years of age, of 100 block Grand avenue, was questioned by detectives and released to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Boisot. Eyewitnesses reported that Stambach was outside the safety zone and that the boy was driving too fast at the time.

Stambach, who had resided at 703 East California street for [illegible] years, had long been active in the local G.A.R. organization. He was a member of Company F of the Thirty-third Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry. At the expiration of his enlistment in 1865, he was discharged from the Army and served in the Navy during the balance of the war on the U.S.S. Bermuda.

He was a native of Pittsburgh and lived for many years in Louisville, where he was an official of the Kentucky Woolen Mills.

He leaves a daughter, Julia Stambach, a son, C. Mahlon Stambach, and two grandchildren, Elizabeth and Mary Stambach, residents of this city. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Valley Road in State System to Be Urged

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. [illegible] Inclusion of the Valley Boulevard from Ontario to Colton in the State's secondary highway system will be advocated at the Citrus Chamber of Commerce annual meeting, which opened in San Francisco today.

Supervisors C. E. Grier, John Anderson and Arthur Dorsa, accompanied by County Surveyor Howard L. Way, left today for the conference where the Supervisors will point out that the Valley Boulevard is an interstate road, carrying much of the traffic between southern California and Arizona, and that, its maintenance should, therefore, be borne by the State.

Grier will also ask the chamber to indorse amendment No. 21 on the November ballot, which provides for the reimbursement of counties whose revenues are slashed by the state taxing of public utility corporation owned properties, as provided in Amendment No. 1 to the State Constitution.

San Bernardino county loses approximately $300,000 a year by the existing system, by which all taxes on utility properties are paid directly into the State Treasury.

Petition Asks Improvement of Alondra Park

GARDENA, Oct. 23.—A petition asking the immediate improvement of Alondra Park as a county playground, has been placed in circulation and is expected to be ready for presentation to the County Board of Supervisors within a short time.

The petition asks that the park, a tract of 300 acres, being purchased by an assessment district, be improved from the general county fund.

Income from the park, if sufficient, will be paid on the principal and interest on the bonds, with the plan advanced by sponsors of the improvement.

PLANS FOR GYM TO BE DRAFTED SOON

VENTURA, Oct. 23.—Drafting of plans for the new $40,000 girls' gymnasium to be built fronting Santa Clara street at the Junior High School will be started at once, City Superintendent of Schools E. L. Van Dellen announced today after a conference with Roy C. Wilson, Santa Paula architect. Construction will get under way in January, Superintendent Van Dellen believes.

KIWANIANS ELECT

HUNTINGTON PARK, Oct. [illegible] Joseph H. Hillis has been elected as president of the Huntington Park Kiwanis Club, his official term to begin on the first day of January, 1931. Other officers elected for the new year are Fred J. [illegible] first vice-president; Arthur C. [illegible] more, second vice-president; Dr. Harold Klinker, secretary; Dr. [illegible] treasurer; Maurice J. Sugg, [illegible] trustee; Grover Dunford, Arthur Paine, Leo Pinnell, Paul [illegible] George Laws, Wallace M. [illegible] and Verne Guthrie, directors.

YACHTING HARBOR IN BEGINNING

Notables Invited to Dine in Celebration of Driving First Piling for Project

SANTA MONICA, Oct. 23.—Three hundred invitations have been mailed to Southern California's most prominent business men to attend a dinner to be given next Tuesday evening at the Deauville Club here, by the Santa Monica Harbor Company, Ltd., commemorating the driving of the first pile in the new Santa Monica yacht harbor.

The pile-driving celebration, which will be held Tuesday afternoon, is being sponsored by various civic organizations and the city of Santa Monica. Between 8 and 9 p.m. a fine display of fireworks will be seen on the various points of the beach.

It was announced that Owen P. Churchill, one of California's most prominent yachtsmen, was elected to the board of directors.

Among the prominent guests expected will be Frank A. Garbutt, Harry Chandler, William May Garland, Norman Chandler, Frank E. Garbutt, Claude I. Parker, Gov. Young, Lieut.-Gov. H. L. Carnahan, Mayor James A. Rolph of San Francisco, Frank A. Jordan, Secretary of State; Dist.-Atty. Buron Fitts, Frank Merriam of Long Beach and many others. Many well-known people in cinema circles will also be guests.

It is estimated that more than 25,000 people will participate in the afternoon and evening festivities.

GOOD NEWS FOR HAY MEN

Scott B. Foulds of Imperial County Farm Bureau, Says Survey Shows Market in Middle West

BRAWLEY, Oct. 23. (AP)—Scott B. Foulds, manager of the Imperial County Farm Bureau, announces that as a result of freight-rate adjustments to go into effect November 1, a survey indicated Imperial Valley hay growers will find markets in Middle-Western centers. Foulds said the new transcontinental schedules will place the valley on a virtual parity with Salt River Valley in the matter of shipping hay to Kansas City, Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana and Western Tennessee.

Rate reductions, coupled with the established reputation of Imperial hay, Foulds said, is expected to open the markets wide to Imperial hay in such a way as to furnish competition to that shipped from Phoenix.

The new rate, Foulds said, will constitute a differential of from 80 cents to $1 a ton in favor of Phoenix shippers. The differential, however, he said, is proportionate to the difference in hauling distances. The present differential is about $8 a ton.

The rate reductions ordered for valley hay amount to a reduction approximating $7 a ton, or about one-third. This will make the valley rate to Kansas City $13.80 a ton.

Representatives here indicated the California Commerce Bureau may send a man east to markets affected by the valley rates to develop a demand for local hay by educational efforts. Bureau representatives are here from Sacramento to cooperate with the Farm Bureau in promoting shipments to Kansas City in competition with Phoenix.

The Imperial County Farm Bureau already has launched its campaign to interest middle western and southern farmers in Imperial hay.

The rates to become effective November 1 will be permanent.

CIVIL WAR DECISION ON LINKS

Respective Fighting Abilities of Grant and Sherman Veterans to Be Decided by Bantam Golf Tourney Slated for Next Thursday

WEST LOS ANGELES, Oct. 23.—The putt-putt craze has hit the National Military Home in West Los Angeles with a vengeance. So hard, in fact, that on next Thursday grizzled warriors of the armies of Grant and Sherman will stage a tournament for the miniature golf championship of the institution.

The play, sponsored by Lieut. Fred D. Hoyt Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, of the Bay district, will be over the course of the Beverly-Wilshire links on Wilshire Boulevard and Camden Drive in Beverly Hills.

A handsome trophy will be awarded to the "dashing Yankee boy of '61" whose score for twenty-seven holes is low. There will be a trophy, too, for the runner-up, and a souvenir for each entry.

A battle royal will rage in the match trophy play between Civil War veterans who served under Grant and Sherman. Which has the greater general may never be settled by daily argument on the grounds of the National Military Home, but which had in his ranks in '61 the best miniature golfers of 1930 will be determined once and for all on next Thursday.

Robert D. Locke, commander of Fred D. Hoyt Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, is chairman of the Civil War Vets tournament committee. The civic committee is headed by S. H. Fish of Beverly Hills.

The hoary-haired "Bobby Joneses" of the home will be taken to the Beverly-Wilshire course in big parlor busses. Steaming hot coffee and refreshments will be served to them as they putt for fame and glory over the greens.

And, as if miniature golf were not enough to rekindle the flame of youth in the breasts of the old soldiers, a huge fireplace is being erected at the course so that the "vets" may pop corn and toast marshmallows during the play.

SUBSTATION TO BE OPENED

Parade From Alhambra to Temple City Saturday Night to Mark Branch Sheriff's Office Dedication

TEMPLE CITY, Oct. 23.—A motor caravan headed by Sheriff [illegible] will parade from Alhambra to Temple City Saturday night when the formal opening and dedication of the new local Sheriff's substation will be held. The Los Angeles County Fire Department Orchestra will furnish music during the evening and a formal program will be presented.

Roy Teeters, secretary of the Temple City Chamber of Commerce, will preside. An address will be given by B. K. Wilson, chamber president, and Sheriff Traeger will make the dedicatory address.

Visitors will be shown through the new $7000 building by Capt. [illegible] Conly and his force of deputies. The building is located on Las Tunas Drive at Cloverly avenue and is one of the most modern and elaborate substations in the county.

NEW DISCLOSURES IN BLAST

Solution of Garment Capitol Building Explosion Mystery Indicated by Latest Developments

New disclosures yesterday indicated the possibility of a quick solution as to the cause of the mystery blast of last Friday in the Garment Capitol Building that injured two-score persons and caused a loss estimated at $1,000,000. The new developments are these:

(1.) Investigators located a man known to be the last person to have worked officially on the gas fixtures on the fifth floor, where the explosion originated. Eighteen months ago, it was declared, this man moved a gas boiler from the fifth floor to the eighth floor. He asserts he closed the exposed pipe on the fifth floor with a specially fitted stop-valve.

If this statement is true, and the investigators place considerable credence in it, a piece of pipe about eight feet long, containing the stop-valve, had since been removed, releasing a volume of natural gas that would approximate 800 cubic feet per hour.

(2.) Figuring the gas pressure through the pipe with the cubic-foot space of the fifth floor, plus what could have escaped into the elevator shafts and other openings, gas experts then estimated that the pipe had only been open for approximately ten hours before the explosion took place. The time element is based on the known explosive strength of natural gas in different air ratios or mixtures. The mixture on the fifth floor, it is asserted, was at about its peak explosive strength, when the blast was set off.

(3.) These conclusions having been reached, it is stated, it remains to be ascertained whether the missing length of pipe was removed with criminal intent or through ignorance, with investigators about evenly divided in their opinions.

Whether Hyman Schulman, proprietor of the frock shop that occupied the fifth floor for the past eighteen months, will be able to tell the police whether the gas fixtures were intact when he left the place last Thursday night, was a matter of conjecture last night. Still under the care of a physician in the Hollywood Hospital, he is too seriously ill to be interviewed. Schulman's dress factory, however, used no gas in its operations.

Although secrecy has cloaked a large part of their investigation, it is known that the police have not yet entirely discarded the supposition that a textile strike that affected many shops in the Garment Capitol Building might have had some bearing on the explosion.

Another open-shop worker reported to the police that he had been attacked by union sympathizers. Charles E. Taggert, 421 San Morena street, South Alhambra, told officers yesterday that while he was en route home Wednesday night he was assaulted and beaten near his home by three men who had followed him in an automobile. Taggert works in a cloak and suit manufacturing plant on West Third street.

BONDS TO BE DISCUSSED

The Home Defense League will discuss the proposed power bonds and transportation tunnels at a meeting at 7:30 p.m. today at 650 North Hoover street. President Johnson of the league announced last night it is important all members attend.

A homing pigeon recently flew 900 miles from Rennes, France, to its owner, Gus Collard, at Rhayader, Wales.

LIGHT HEARING CONTINUED

After considering a fresh outpouring of protests against proceedings for the lighting of Griffith Park Boulevard between Los Feliz Boulevard and Edgecliffe Drive, the City Council yesterday continued the hearing until January 22, next. The modified assessments for the improvement of Fifth street between Grand avenue and Hope streets were confirmed. The hearing of protests against the improvement of Denker avenue between Eighty-fifth street and Manchester avenue was continued until November 26.

Junior League Plans Theater for Children

Plans for the establishment in Los Angeles of a children's theater, to be affiliated with the Bowl Theater Association and the Civic Repertory Theater, will be laid at the joint reception of these organizations at the Music Box in Hollywood tomorrow afternoon, according to Mrs. Walter H. Leimert, president of the Junior League of Los Angeles.

"We hope to found a permanent theater for children, similar in organization and equal in excellence to those already established in other parts of the United States," Mrs. Leimert said. The theater will be conducted under the auspices of the Junior League.

Resolution Due on Power Bonds

City Attorney Werner's office this morning will present to the City Council a resolution in confirmation of a measure adopted yesterday by the Board of Water and Power Commissioners under which the board purposes to pay all interest and sinking funds charges on the $13,300,000 power bonds at the November 4 election, provided they carry.

As explained by Assistant City Attorney Neal, this action on the part of the Council will make it binding upon the board to pay the bond charges, in line with promises already given.

Airplanes and fifty tanks gave a display to entertain Prince Takavisit to England.

AMOS 'N' ANDY'S CAB GETS CITY PERMIT

The Fresh Air Taxicab Company was granted permission to compete with other transportation concerns in the city for two hours tonight, by action of the City Council yesterday. The more-or-less well-known Amos 'n' Andy vehicle will parade in connection with the release of a motion picture at a local theater.

BURGLARS TAKE JEWELRY

Burglars effecting entrance by use of a pass key, ransacked the apartment of Dr. N. S. Reingold, dentist, at 900 South Serrano street, late Wednesday night, and obtained $3000 in jewelry, Dr. Reingold reported to police yesterday. The burglary was discovered by the dentist upon his return home shortly before midnight.

Bowman Burial to Be Tomorrow

Funeral rites for Dr. William B. Bowman, nationally known X-ray specialist, who died unexpectedly Monday in his apartment at the Country Club Manor, a victim of a heart attack, will be conducted at 10 a.m. tomorrow at Garrett Brothers' mortuary, 921 Venice Boulevard. Interment will be in Forest Lawn Mausoleum.

Dr. Bowman, who was 44 years of age, apparently died as he slept. He came to Los Angeles in 1910 from St. Louis. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge, the Los Angeles Rotary Club, Wilshire Country Club, University Club and Uplifters Club. He leaves his father, William R. Bowman of Washington, D. C., and a brother, Charles C. Bowman, Los Angeles manufacturer.

Drawings for Dormitory at U.C. Approved

Architect's sketches for Mira Hershey Hall, new women's dormitory to be erected on the campus of the University of California at Los Angeles, have been approved by the Board of Regents, it was announced yesterday by E. M. Underhill, assistant comptroller.

The dormitory was made possible by the will of the late Mira Hershey, which bequeathes $300,000 for its construction. A gift of $100,000 to be used as a student loan fund was made at the same time.

The new structure will have three stories and will house seventy women. Dining facilities will provide for meals for 140 women.

Approved plans will be forwarded to George W. Kelham, supervising architect of the university, for ratification.

Pacific Highway Topic of Dinner

The blazing of the trail for the International Pacific Highway will be shown in motion pictures at the luncheon next Wednesday at a meeting of the Pacific Geographic Society. Harry Carr of The Times will be toastmaster at this dinner, which is given in honor of Mexico and the Mexican people.

Carr, who was one of those who helped blaze the trail, will conduct the gathering on a "trip through Mexico" by means of the pictures.

Carr will be the trip as the Automobile Club of Southern California traveled it months ago, showing the route along which, one day, the International Pacific Highway will be...

DRUGGIST NOTES BUSINESS GAINS

President Gales of Liggett Company in City

Says Public Confidence Has Improved

Conditions in England on Upward Trend

Growing public confidence is bringing about an improvement in business conditions, according to George M. Gales, vice-chairman of Drug, Inc., and president of the Liggett Drug Company of New York, who is a guest of the Biltmore.

Confidence by the general public in the business outlook is essential for better business, said Gales, stating that in his tour around the country he has found evidence of increasing optimism. Conditions in California, he added, are better than in most parts of the nation. He reported pronounced improvement in the New England district.

Gales is on his first trip to the west coast since Drug, Inc., acquired the Owl chain of drug stores. His primary purpose, he said, in coming to California, is to meet with executives of the company. He was accompanied to Los Angeles from San Francisco by William M. Berg, head of the Owl Company.

Better news is coming from England, where Drug, Inc., has several hundred stores, Gales said. A definite turn for the better was noted in England in August, the visitor reported.

Gales will leave tonight for Kansas City.

EILEEN PERCY WINS DECREE

Eileen Percy, former screen actress, otherwise known as Mrs. Eileen Busch, was granted a divorce in Superior Judge Jones's court yesterday on grounds of cruelty and neglect, from Ulrich B. Busch, film location manager, who was ordered to pay his wife $50 a month for support of their 3-year-old child.

Mrs. Busch testified that her husband lived apart in the same house for eighteen months before they separated. He would also stay out late nights, it was said, and not explain to his wife where he had been.

Detectives Find 'Leak' in Store and Arrest Pair

For seven months Mrs. Lottie Rabin, widow, pondered over her account books and wondered why her little business of selling imported sardines and cheese and such articles at 2110 Brooklyn avenue, was going on the rocks. She had many customers,—trade was good, and yet the end of each month brought her closer to bankruptcy. She appealed to police.

Detective Lieutenants Reavis and Thompson following investigation, found that hundreds of dollars' worth of articles were missing from Mrs. Rabin's stock. They questioned Raymond Rodriguez, 17 years of age, employed in the store, and his asserted friend, Joe W. Smith, 27, Negro.

The pair admitted, the detectives said, having taken the missing goods. About $20 worth of imported sardines and olives were found in Smith's room at 1311 East Twenty-first street, the detectives said. The two were arrested on a charge of petty theft.

Romola Buyers to Have Meeting Sunday Morning

An inspection of the company's Riverside holdings planted to figs and grapes, the committee announced further, has revealed splendid crops. Harvesting of the grapes has not been completed, but part of the fig crop has been sold to a Hemet cannery.

DIVORCE GRANTED TOREADOR'S WIFE

Francisco Cruz, toreador, left his home for his public, Mrs. Carlotta Cruz, yesterday told Superior Judge Hazlett in asking for a divorce. The wife offered in evidence a letter which her husband's twin brother, Jose Flores Cruz, had received from Francisco. The letter, sent from Mexico, contained the following: "Pardon me, my brother, for not writing to you for so many months, but my firecrackers and my sweethearts have me by the head. At this moment I am going to take a drink of pulque to your good health." Judge Hazlett granted a decree on grounds of desertion.

BOY NAMED BY TWO AS PURSE THIEF

Police Say Accused Youth Was Once Committed for Plot to Wreck Train

At 18 years of age, James Hedrick is reputed to have served a term in a reform school for attempting a train wreck, to have stolen automobiles, to have proved his business ability by conducting with profit two shoe stands in Los Angeles and to have been active at purse-snatching.

Two women yesterday identified Hedrick at City Jail as one of two youths who waylaid them on the 19th inst. and snatched their purses. One is Miss Carmen Fisk of 446 South Norton avenue and the other Mrs. Mathilda Rollins of 605 South Normandie avenue.

Hedrick, who gave his home address as 615 South Westlake avenue, was arrested by Officers Cromwell and Newman on the 20th inst. on the charge of stealing an automobile belonging to Thomas Sawyer of 1341 East Colorado Boulevard, Pasadena. Detective Lieutenants Wilson and Moran began an investigation which resulted in the two women making their identification.

Hedrick's attempt to wreck a train took place in Arizona, police records show, and he was sentenced to the reform school. Then he came to Los Angeles.

COURT RULES MINOR CANNOT SUE FATHER

A minor child cannot sue her father for personal injury damages, Superior Judge Burnell ruled yesterday in dismissing the unusual suit of Mary Jeanne Lambert, 12 years of age, against Howard J. Lambert, salesman, for $10,000 damages. The girl complained that her right arm was fractured June 8, 1928, when her father's car was driven against a road bank at Rosencranz street and Pacific avenue, Manhattan Beach. Mary Jeanne, through her mother, Mrs. Emma Lambert, guardian ad litem, sued her father and F. A. Zalabak and Alice Zalabak, owner and driver of the car which is asserted to have forced the Lambert car into the bank.

Attorney Samuel A. Rosenthal, for the child, argued that a child had a right to sue a parent. He cited that, while California has no law governing the case, this State should not follow English and New York precedents which, he said, give greater protection to a donkey or an oyster in the bed, than to a child.

Judge Burnell held that a minor could not collect from her father for a tort, this being against public policy. He added that the court is not here to make law, but to interpret it. The judge dismissed the suit against the father, and then gave a verdict for the defendant, Zalabak, because of insufficient grounds.

Attorney Paul Nourse, for the father, argued that, if a child could sue a parent, children would be suing for spanking. Attorney G. E. Delavan represented Zalabak, a chemical works foreman.

Woman Prefers Term in Jail to Domestic Duties

Announcing that she would rather go to jail than work as a domestic in the home of a Glendale physician as one of the conditions of her probation, Nona May Walton appeared before Superior Judge McComb yesterday and requesetd that she be sent to jail.

Mrs. Walton, who is 21 years of age, last April with her husband pleaded guilty to burglary charges. James Walton, the husband, was senetnced to Folsom prison for a term of from seven to fifteen years. Nona Walton was released under fifteen years' probation upon the condition that she remain under the supervision of a reputable Glendale physician.

Yesterday, however, Judge McComb modified the woman's probation, granting her wish by permitting her to spend the first of her fifteen years' probation in the County Jail.

WITNESSES SAY WOMAN WAS DRUNK

Policemen Testify Against Mrs. Heidt, on Trail as Intoxicated Driver

Mrs. Bertha Heidt, wealthy matron of 800 Hauser Boulevard, was drunk after her automobile crashed into another at Temple and Virgil streets, seriously injuring two women, witnesses called by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Sullivan in Municipal Judge Frederickson's court yesterday testified.

Sullivan called Detective Lieutenant Burris and Police Surgeon Kirkpatrick as his chief witnesses on the drunk-driving charge. Both said Mrs. Heidt was drunk. Mrs. Fannie Porter, 69 years of age, and Mrs. Alice P. Mentzer, 56, both of 120 West Laurel street, Glendale, were injured when Mrs. Heidt's expensive automobile struck theirs, turning it over, testimony disclosed.

The case, unfinished yesterday, was continued until today for defense testimony by Judge Frederickson. The defense attorney contends that Mrs. Heidt was a victim of a nervous breakdown and that the liquor which officers said she admitted drinking had nothing to do with the crash.

Elizabeth Arden

Cleansing

THE initial requirement for a fine and glowing skin is exquisite cleanliness.

Elizabeth Arden has perfected a method of cleansing which leaves the skin fresh and freed of all dust and make-up particles.

With a bit of absorbent cotton, squeezed out of cold water and dipped in Ardena Skin Tonic, Cleansing Cream is added and the face and neck thoroughly "washed." The face is then wiped with Cleansing Tissues.

Venetian Cleansing Cream at $1.00, $2.00, $3.00 and $6.00.
Venetian Ardena Skin Tonic, 85c, $2.00, $3.75, $9.00 and $15.00.
Venetian Cleansing Tissues, 40c, $1.50 and $2.25.

Toning and Nourishing

WHEN toning and nourishing, after thorough cleansing, is done according to the Elizabeth Arden Muscle-Strapping Skin-Toning Method, the result will be gratifying.

A pad of absorbent cotton squeezed out of cold water is dipped in Special Astringent and patted on the face. Orange Skin Food should then be patted in (the Arden Patter is helpful); or Velva Cream if the face is full. For the thin, lined face, Muscle Oil is excellent.

Venetian Special Astringent, $2.25, $4.00, $20.00 and $35.00.
Venetian Orange Skin Food, $1.00, $1.75, $2.75, $4.25, $8.00.
Venetian Velva Cream, $1.00, $2.00, $3.00, $6.00.
Venetian Muscle Oil, $1.00, $2.50, $4.00.
Arden Venetian Patter, $5.00.

For the Bath

VENETIAN VELVA BATH is a cream soap, in tube form, beautifying to the skin. $1.50.

VENETIAN VELVA LIQUID used after bathing, prevents redness and roughness. $1.00, $2.50.

SOAPS include: Geranium, $1.50 to $3.00 a box, 50c and $1.00 a cake; Jasmine, $3.75 a box, and Allamanda, $3.75 a box.

BATH SALTS are Russian Pine, Rose, Nirvana and Balsam Puffs.

VENETIAN DUSTING POWDER, $3.00. Talcum, $1.00.

Finishing

THE protection of the skin the accenting of the natural contour and coloring gives the final beauty to the face.

VENETIAN AMORETTA CREAM is a lasting and attractive powder base. $1.00, $2.00.

CREME DE FRANCE, blended in the palm of the hand with a few drops of Arden Skin Tonic makes a smooth, flattering powder base. Tube, $1.25.

LILLE LOTION, mildly antiseptic and especially good for the oily skin, is a finish for both day and evening. $1.50, $2.50.

To give the final accent, Elizabeth Arden offers Powders, $1.75 to $3.00; Rouges, $1.00 to $4.00; Lip Sticks and Paste, 75c to $2.00; Eye Sha-do and Cosmetique, $1 and $1.25.

Special Remedies

FOR particular conditions of the skin Elizabeth Arden has devised special remedies.

NOSHINE, applied to the nose, banishes shininess. $1.00.

SPOTPRUF CREAM and Spotpruf Lotion are correctives for skin eruptions and blemishes. Cream, $5. Lotion, $3.00.

VENETIAN ANTI-WRINKLE CREAM if applied for half an hour when resting, will eliminate lines of fatigue. $2.00, $3.50.

VENETIAN SPECIAL EYE LOTION, used with an eye cup, cleanses and rests the eyes. $1.00, $2.50.

Bleaching

VENETIAN BLEACHINE to keep the neck and face white, should be applied once a week; on the hands, every night. $1.25.

ARDENA BLEACH CREAM is a more pronounced bleaching agent. $1.50.

VENETIAN ANTI-BROWN SPOT OINTMENT is smoothed on the face in the form of a mask. It rejuvenates amazingly and, more important, erases marks of tan and sallowness. $2.50, $5.00.

CHARM AND TASTE IN THE APPOINTMENTS OF THE BOUDOIR, AND MORE PARTICULARLY THE DRESSING TABLE, ENHANCE IT AS "THE SHRINE OF BEAUTY."

Beautiful imported pieces of fine materials and workmanship and smart domestic articles are selected in view of their beauty and individuality. Included are perfume bottles, powder boxes, jewel boxes, toilet sets, atomizers, bottle sets and many others.

Appreciated Christmas gifts may be well chosen from among these lovely things.

Perfume Bottles

INDIVIDUALLY styled Perfume Bottles are a charming adornment of the dressing table and highly appreciated as gifts by fastidious women.

In onyx with carved crystal glass stoppers or in colored crystal glass ornamented with filigree French gilt and motifs in enamel and colored stones, these offer quaint or modernistic shapes.

LALIQUE Perfume Bottles or Powder Boxes with beautifully modeled figures and designs are new and much desired.

Beauty Ensembles

AMONG the most exquisite of boudoir fancies is a miniature secretary of French bronze finished in rose enamel and delicate hand-painted pastoral scenes on the doors of the cabinet.

A small clock is mounted on top and the leaf is opened to a tune from the little music box. It is fitted inside with two boxes for powder and rouge, lipstick holder and two cut-glass, enamel topped perfume bottles. A mirror is set behind the bottles. $250.00.

Mirrors

THE beauty of woman, the daintiness of the boudoir, are portrayed in symbol by the mirror.

Thus, the mirror itself is developed as an object of art as well as to reflect beautiful faces.

Lovely in shape and design are mirrors backed with French enamel, framed in French bronze. They are long handled, of a size most easily held.

Mirror illustrated of coral enamel and French bronze, decorated with miniature. $75.

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Tribal wars, Tarzan had heard, had waged fiercely during his long absence. Had his own Waziri warriors remained faithful to him and their trust? A few days now would bring the answer. Hope and fear unspoken were in the hearts of all three. Each day Jad-bal-ja became more accustomed to them and to his foster mother who came to accept the lion as flesh of her flesh. As the moment came when the trail would break from the dense jungle, Jane, Korak and even Tarzan were filled with suppressed excitement. Would not the jungle have claimed again all that the ape-man had cleared away to build his home when first he came there with his bride? Was it too much to hope that savage blacks had remained loyal to him? At last they stepped from the concealing verdure of the forest, to look out across the plain. There in the distance the outline of the bungalow stood as of yore amid its beautiful surroundings. The huts of the natives and the cultivated fields. It seemed too good to be true.

Tears welled in Lady Jane's lovely eyes as she beheld the sight. And Tarzan's voice was husky with emotion as he cried: "My good and faithful Waziri." Among the first to welcome them home was old Muviro. "Ah, Bwana," cried the loyal black, "my old eyes are made young again at the sight of you. Many have doubted that you would return, but old Muviro knew the great world held nothing that might overcome his master. Great shall be the rejoicing of the Waziri this night. The earth shall tremble with our warriors' dancing feet."

And in truth great was the rejoicing. Not for one night but for several. There was feasting on boar and antelope. Barbaric dancing and weird jungle songs. The heavens echoed with the glad cries of the women because the three they loved most on earth had returned to them. Za the dog and Jad-bal-ja the Golden Lion had never witnessed such a party! At last Tarzan was compelled to put a stop to the festivities in order that he and his family might gain a few hours of unbroken slumber.

I CAN'T GET HER OUT OF MY MIND — HEAVEN EYES — I WOULD GLADLY DO ANYTHING SHE ASKED IF SHE'D ONLY COME BACK — I SIMPLY POSTPONED THE WEDDING SO THAT I COULD FIND THAT DIAMOND AND GIVE IT TO HER AS A WEDDING PRESENT —
IT'S PROBABLY THE BEST THING THAT COULD HAVE HAPPENED TO YOU — A BLESSING IN DISGUISE —
JUST TO THINK OF IT — NOW — WE WOULD HAVE BEEN ON OUR HONEYMOON — IF IT HADN'T BEEN FOR THAT HATEFUL MOGUL DIAMOND — WHY DID I BUY IT? WHY DID I WAIT? RICHES — WHAT A CURSE — AGAIN THEY COME BETWEEN ME AND HAPPINESS — SHE'S GONE —
CHEER UP NOW OLD BOY — DON'T TAKE IT SO HARD —

SECURITY LOANS APPROACH LOW

Total Within $300,000,000 of Record Bottom

Week's Decline Sets Figure at $2,613,000,000

Drop of $609,000,000 in Four Weeks Shown

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York Federal Reserve member banks for the week ending the 22nd inst., were announced by the Federal Reserve Board today as $2,613,000,000 representing a decrease of $139,000,000 from the preceding week. The loans for the week ending October 23, 1929, were $6,634,000,000.

The detailed distribution of the loans over the three weeks dealt with in the board's report was:

	22nd inst.	15th inst.	Oct. 23, 1929
For own account:	$1,300,000,000	$1,702,000,000	$1,077,000,000
For account of out of town banks:	$ 511,000,000	$ 514,000,000	$1,733,000,000
For account of others:	$ 513,000,000	$ 536,000,000	$3,823,000,000

The Federal Reserve Board adds or subtracts odd thousands of dollars not shown in its report, so addition of the columns will not always equal the board's total.

Brokers' loans as reported yesterday by the Federal Reserve Board at $2,613,000,000 represent the lowest total since late in 1926, and are approximately $300,000,000 within striking distance of the record bottom since the figures have been compiled by the board beginning early that year. The record high total is $8,804,000,000 hit October 1, 1929.

Wednesday's total also marks the fourth successive weekly drop of more than $130,000,000 in the loan figures, the aggregate decline for the four weeks being $609,000,000.

EARNINGS OF PHILLIPS OIL LOWER

Company Plans Payment of Regular Dividend for November Meeting

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Phillips Petroleum Company for the nine months ended September 30, last, today reported net profits of $7,664,768 after Federal taxes, depreciation, depletion and amortization, equal to $2.60 a share on the 3,942,992 average shares outstanding during the period and to $2.27 a share on 3,367,366 shares outstanding at the end of the period.

In the corresponding 1929 period the company reported profits of $15,029,588 after charges and Federal taxes but before depreciation and depletion.

Frank Phillips, president, stated that it is the unanimous opinion of directors that the usual quarterly dividend of 50 cents shall be declared at the meeting in the latter part of November.

The earnings figures just released do not include those of the Independent Oil and Gas Company, as these properties will not be actually taken over until the last quarter of this year.

As capital expenditures for the year have not yet had an opportunity to show much earnings and with prospect of continued low prices in the last quarter, it is anticipated earnings for the full year on the average amount of stock outstanding, including stock paid for Independent Gas and Oil Company properties, will be less than earnings per share for 1929, Mr. Phillips said. Net earnings in 1929 totaled $13,212,591, equal to $5.39 a share on 2,450,430 average shares outstanding during the year.

Oil Company Tells Profits

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Net profits of Mid-Continent Petroleum Corporation for the quarter ended September 30, last, totaled $1,290,387 after surrendered and abandoned leaseholds, depreciation, depletion and Federal taxes, equal to 69 cents a share on 1,857,912 shares. In the third quarter of last year the company reported profits of $4,892,248 before depreciation, depletion and Federal taxes.

Net profits for the first three quarters of this year aggregated $3,987,446, equal to $2.14 a share on 1,857,912 shares. In the corresponding period of last year, the company reported profits of $10,879,647 before depreciation, depletion and Federal taxes.

Phone Security Issue Out Soon

In connection with installation of new automatic equipment in central stations and the acquisition of new telephone company holdings, Telephone Bond and Share Company will issue next week 15,000 additional shares of 7 per cent preferred stock. The offering will be made through Telephone Securities Company at 105 and accrued interest to yield 6.67 per cent.

The company, formerly Diversified Investments, Inc., controls all the telephone companies in the United States operated by the Theodore Gary organization, serving a population estimated in excess of 1,250,000, chiefly in the Central West and Southern States.

CENTRAL PRINTING INK EARNINGS UP

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—General Printing Ink Corporation in its September quarter earnings report today showed net profits of $215,548 after charges and taxes, equal after dividend requirements on the $6 preferred to 81 cents a share on 185,000 common shares, as against 71 cents a share in the preceding quarter. Net profits for the nine months' period were $628,710, equal to $2.34 a common share.

IVEY ON PROGRAM OF NEVADA BANK MEETING

Herbert D. Ivey, president of the Citizens' National Trust and Savings Bank, left last night for Las Vegas, Nev., where he will today address the Nevada State Bankers' Association, which is now in convention. Mr. Ivey is to speak on general business conditions.

BOOST IN AIR RATE LIKELY

Western Air Rate of 60 Cents Should Be in Line for Increase Sometime in 1931

BY EARLE E. CROWE

While this is not the popular time to talk about dividend increases, it is reasonable, nevertheless, to look for some action along this line by the Western Air Express Corporation during the coming year.

Western Air's annual rate is 60 cents a share, or 15 cents a quarter, a basis established in May of last year when the par value of the stock was reduced. Against this small dividend, the company earned approximately $9 a share in 1929 on the average number of shares outstanding.

EARNINGS AFFECTED

It is true that most of the 1929 earnings were produced by the $3 rate on the Salt Lake mail contract. This rate extended over for about the first half of this year before it was reduced under the compensation allowed under the new air-mail law. For the last half of this year the company undoubtedly will report sharply lower revenue from its air-mail business.

But the theory of the new compensation basis is that increases in volume of business and substitution of the space for the poundage rate will allow the carriers a fair return. By the early part of 1931 at least, the business on the Los Angeles-Salt Lake and Cheyenne-Pueblo routes should be adjusted to the point where the mail will show Western Air a satisfactory operating profit.

Only $97,217 is required to meet the annual dividend charge on the 162,029 shares of $10 par value outstanding. Last year's net profit from operations was roughly, $995,000. It is hardly conceivable that the new rates on the Salt Lake and Cheyenne routes will so affect net income that the 60 cent dividend will be endangered.

Assuming that these two contracts will at least take care of the present dividend requirements, probably with a comfortable margin to spare, the company also should profit substantially from its interest in the new transcontinental mail contract over the central route. Time will be required to put this operation on a paying basis, but it was not contemplated when the bid was entered that the route would prove a financial failure.

PROFITS EXPECTED

As a matter of fact, this route has been regarded as the plum of the air-mail business. Original expectations pointed to profitable operation from the start, but these hopes probably have been revised as the result of the business depression which affects air mail as much as any other business.

Western Air's interest in the line, which is reported to amount to 40 per cent, the same as T.A.T.-Maddux, will likely produce sufficient profit to justify consideration of a higher dividend some time in 1931. Heretofore, the company properly has plowed back the major portion of earnings into improvement and extension of lines, but most of this work has been completed. The company should now be in the position where capital expenditures might well be financed through the sale of securities to the public.

Estimates of $3 to $4 a share in 1931 may come close to actual figures, which would allow sufficient margin to permit at least the doubling of the current rate.

In addition to expectations of profit from operations, Western Air also will report as "other income" a substantial sum received in payment for the sale of its El Paso line to the Aviation Corporation of Delaware. The consideration has been reported around $250,000.

SULPHUR UNIT REPORTS

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Texas Gulf Sulphur Company reported today third-quarter net equal to $1.31 a share, against $1.43 a share in the preceding quarter and $1.58 a share in the third quarter of 1929.

This large public utility operates chiefly in the San Francisco-Sacramento section of California, serving more than 1,200,000 customers. The company owns and has developed large hydroelectric resources which normally furnish over 75 per cent of power requirements, and is constantly adding to its steam generation facilities. Although 95 per cent of the revenues are derived from the sale of gas, water transportation and steam services are also available in some of the communities served. Large natural gas reserves in the Kettleman and Button-Willow fields have been connected with metropolitan areas by more than 750 miles of pipeline. By the recent acquisitions of the western subsidiaries of the North American Company, through an exchange of capital stocks, Pacific Gas and Electric has built up one of the largest interconnected power systems in the country.

In 1929 earnings continued the steady upward trend of the past decade. Net income for the first six months of 1930 shows a good increase of 12.5 per cent over the same period of last year, though the larger number of outstanding shares as the result of recent new financing makes the per share figure at $1.60 somewhat lower than the $1.83 returns of the 1929 half-year.

TRACTOR BOARD TO PAY EXTRA

Caterpillar Continues 25 Cent Payment; Decline in Earnings Reported

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23. (AP)—Caterpillar Tractor Company today declared the usual dividend of 75 cents a share, along with an extra of 25 cents. The payments are due November 29 to stockholders of record November 15.

At the same time the company released its balance sheet and financial statement for the first nine months of this year, showing net sales of $37,319,910.38 compared with $38,346,300 for the like period of last year.

Earnings per share on the 1,882,240 shares outstanding were $3.26 after provision for Federal income tax, in comparison with $4.01 last year on the identical number of shares. This was based on a net profit in the nine months of $6,137,301.35 as against $7,550,855.08 last year in the same months.

B. C. Heacock, president, was hopeful for the fourth quarter, saying "dealers' estimates of sales for the fourth quarter, in addition to orders on hand, indicate total sales for the year 1930 will not be far short of those made in 1929, which was the largest year in the company's history."

Jantzen Plant in England Will Start Work Soon

Production in the London (Eng.) plant of the Jantzen Knitting Mills is expected to be started within the next ten days, the company announced yesterday. The rate of production will be gradually increased so that by the season of 1932 the bulk of merchandise for continental business will be fabricated in London.

European business constituted 15 per cent of the company's total during the fiscal year ended August 31, last, and showed an increase of $181,200, or 36 per cent. Consistent gains in this field have led to the opening of the new manufacturing facilities.

The London plant is operated by Jantzen Knitting Mills, Ltd., incorporated under the laws of Great Britain, which is practically an entirely owned subsidiary of the parent company.

Texas Oil Cut to Be Enforced

AUSTIN (Tex.) Oct. 23.—Notice was served Wednesday on oil interests of Texas by R. R. Neff, chairman of the Railroad Commission, that the body will come to grips with all producers and common purchasers who refuse to obey the State-wide proration order and the law which requires common purchase of oil by pipe-line companies. He stated the commission stands ready to test in the courts its authority to promulgate and enforce its order.

His statement was addressed to more than 200 oil producers who were gathered in conference with members of the Railroad Commission to discuss and consider the asserted failure on part of some operators to observe allotments made to them in the different fields. All major companies operating in Texas were represented.

DR. LUTHER CANCELS VISIT

Action of Reichsbank Head Likely to Cause Calling Off International Bank Conference

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

[Copyright, 1930, by the North American Newspaper Alliance]

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Dr. Hans Luther, president of the Reichsbank, has canceled his passage to the United States "for the present." American business leaders, who have been preparing for this visit of the former German Chancellor, successor to Dr. Hjalmar Schacht as president of the Reichsbank, will be surprised at this announcement.

Just what caused this sudden change in Dr. Luther's plans has not been stated, but many factors may have influenced him. The vote of confidence in Premier Bruening at his first Reichstag test may have led Dr. Luther to decide to remain in Germany until the more important financial questions involved in the drastic cuts in government expenses have been taken care of. Another factor may have been the possible embarrassment caused by the omission of some of the larger American banking houses in the new $125,000,000 German short-time loan.

No matter what the reason was, the proposed meeting of the central bank leaders of the world in New York is very likely to be called off. Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve board, announced almost immediately after his appointment that he could not attend any meeting with central bank leaders. However, with Dr. Luther absent, New York Federal Reserve Bank officials can confer with the officials of the Bank of England and the Bank of France.

And it is not at all sure yet that the governor of the Bank of France will attend. So the meeting is gradually fading away.

A. T. Miller, New York economist, thinks "that the common knowledge that the banks of the United States have a stake of from $10,000,000,000 to $15,000,000,000 in the future of the stock markets of the country has had a disquieting effect both in and out of Wall street."

"Banks are interested in the stock market, not as owners of stocks, as some people seem to think, but as so-called "potential" owners.

"An example will show how banks become interested in the stock market. Say Mr. Jones has $10,000 in cash and decides to buy 200 shares of a certain stock quoted on the New York Stock Exchange at $100 a share, the total cost being $20,000; the stock is a high-grade stock, earning big money, and so Mr. Jones's bank agrees to loan him the $10,000 he needs and take the $20,000 in stock as collateral for his note.

"Let us further suppose that Mr. Jones is a salaried man, making $400 a month, with living expenses of $300 a month. So he agrees to pay $100 a month toward liquidating his indebtedness.

"Now let's suppose that this note was made just before the break last fall. Mr. Jones's stock keeps dropping in price from $100 to $90, to $80, to $70, to $60. When it reaches that point—perhaps a little before—the banker becomes interested. Mr. Jones has no more money to put up.

"What's the banker to do? Should he agree to carry that loan without any margin of collateral, or should the banker tell Mr. Jones that he would have to have more collateral or that the bank would have to sell the Jones stock at the market price?

"The banks of the United States loaned hundreds of millions of dollars on stock exchange collateral last year. This has been a problem ever since. Every time a stock goes down one or two points in value from the present levels it brings new complications.

"When one talks about banking support coming in to help the market it really means that the banks have decided to carry over certain customers, backed up with their stock-market collateral, in the hope that market prices will improve.

BUSINESS OF NEVADA UTILITY UP

Southern Sierras Group Reports Sharp Increase for September

September consolidated net profits of the Nevada-California Electric Corporation and subsidiaries increased $21,775.84, or 68 per cent, over earnings for the same month last year, amounting to $53,993.54 after all charges, including taxes and depreciation, against $32,217.70 a year ago. The statement was released yesterday.

Nevada-California Electric is the holding company for a chain of utilities stretching throughout the entire length of California and including the Southern Sierras Power Company. The greatest proportion of its operations is centered in this State.

September gross earnings increased from $390,862.57 last year to a total of $408,920.43 for the month just closed, while operating expenses, maintenance and taxes were reduced from $201,446.93 to $178,546.84, leaving a balance as net operating income of $230,373.59, an increase of $40,957.95, or 21 per cent.

Gross earnings for the twelve months ended September 30 amounted to $5,638,721.55, against $5,589,084.80 a year ago, and the net operating profits were $2,902,023.21, against $2,924,377.55. Net income after all charges totaled $898,821.11 as compared with $968,272.13 a year ago.

Net Profits of Packard Motor Company Lower

DETROIT, Oct. 23.—Packard Motor Car Company today reported net profits for nine months closed September 30, of $6,680,193, after all charges, equivalent to 44 cents a share on the 15,000,000 shares of capital stock outstanding, against $16,369,840, or $1.09 a share a year ago.

September quarter net profits totaled $1,153,771, or 8 cents a share, against $2,872,175, or 19 cents a share, in the preceding quarter and $1,694,699, or 11 cents a share, in the third quarter of 1929.

Directors will meet before the end of the month for declaration of dividends payable in December. Dividend action was not scheduled for the meeting of the board held yesterday.

REGULAR VOTED

CINCINNATI, Oct. 23.—Kroger Grocery and Baking Company today declared the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents on the common stock, payable December 2 to stock of record November 10. Action on the 5 per cent stock dividend will not be taken until the next meeting.

DRIFT ON STOCK MARKET UNEVEN

Industrials Gain and Rails Register Losses

Van Sweringen Shares Top Sharpest Setback

Twenty-Point Drop Recovered by Pere Marquette

NEW YORK, Oct. 23. (AP)—Weakness of the railroads, notably of the Van Sweringen group, and strength in the industrial securities gave a clouded appearance to the stock market today.

Trading seemed to assume a more professional character than of late recently and much stock changed hands, brought on the rally early in the week before the close. Volume of trading was comparatively light, aggregating 2,664,520 shares.

September railroad earnings showed shrinkages in comparison with a year ago and some of the executives willing to comment on prospects said none too enthusiastic about the next few weeks immediately ahead. Chesapeake Corporation, Allegheny Corporation and Nickel Plate dropped 3 points more, and Chesapeake and Ohio lost 2 3-4. Pere Marquette broke more than 3 points, falling below par for the first time in four years.

National Biscuit's report showed the earnings statement, equal to $1.01 a share for the third quarter against 86 cents a year ago. Hershey Chocolate's statement was also favorable.

Philipps Petroleum announced the 50-cent quarterly dividend would be paid.

Estimates on United States Steel's earnings for the third quarter, to be published Tuesday, ranged around $2 a share, while the estimate for the year favor about $8.

The $139,000,000 decrease in Federal Reserve Brokers' loans for the drop in the last four weeks to $609,000,000 and put the total at the lowest since November 14, 1928.

The reserve statement showed discounts had fallen $18,000,000 for the system but $36,000,000 of local bank. Government security holdings were unchanged, while the total of bills and securities was nearly $25,000,000 for the Federal banks.

Stocks pushed ahead early in the day, points in the early trading, but receding slightly when the rails met with poor a showing. However, the recovance was resumed in the afternoon and gains of 3 to 5 were frequent. United States Steel, which had been up 4 points, closed fractionally higher. General Electric, General Motors, American Telephone, American Can, Westinghouse, Sears Roebuck, Eastman Kodak, Allied Chemical, Hershey, Radio, Johns Manville and Standard Oil of New Jersey held 1 to 3 points of their advances. Atchison had a fractional gain.

Foreign exchanges were unchanged with the exception of the yen, which touched par for the first time since the war.

PACIFIC COMPANY AGENT FOR TRUST

Pacific Company has been appointed a sponsor for Investors' Trust in the Los Angeles territory, it was announced today. The trust was formed in 1929 and was the seventh of its kind to be organized in America.

DIVIDENDS

Directors of Globe Grain & Milling Company have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 43 3-4 cents on the first preferred, 50 cents on the second preferred and 50 cents on the common stock, all payable January 2 to record December 20.

Tax-Free vs. Taxable Bonds

For the information of corporations and large individual investors, we have prepared the following list of our current municipal bond offerings, showing in the right-hand column the equivalent yield on a taxable bond if owned by a corporation paying a flat 11% Federal Income Tax. This is the same rate which applies to individual incomes of $24,000 and $28,000; and persons having a larger income will find the purchase of tax-free municipals even more advantageous.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 23. (AP)—An irregular opening was followed by an increasingly active and firmer market in cotton here today, on continued trade buying, covering and some indications of a broadening commission house interest. The steadier ruling of the stock market and relatively steady Liverpool cables probably contributed to the advance which carried new December contracts up to 10.92, or about 37 points net higher. The demand tapered off somewhat at these figures, however, while there was a little more southern selling or realizing, with the midafternoon market showing reactions of some 6 or 7 points from the best.

The plant is capable of ...treating 100,000,000 cubic feet of gas ...per day.

Gas in Production

...The Venice field has recorded a ...new burst of production and is put-...ting out more oil at present than ...it ever has previously, according to ...Eugene Nell H. Anderson.

...Only one new completion was re-...ported yesterday. It was the Cali-...fornia Northern Oil Company's No. ...1 and no estimate was made on its ...flow. The entire Venice field yes-...terday was yielding at the rate of ...9100 barrels daily and if the shal-...low zone continues to hold up, in-...dications are that the field will ...reach the 30,000-barrel figure in a ...day or two. Since discovery of the ...gas last December by the Ohio Oil ...Company, seventy wells have been ...brought in at Venice. Yesterday, ...there were fifty-seven wells produc-...ing, 12 active drilling projects and ...forty-seven derricks and locations.

Completes Another

...Another producer was brought in ...yesterday by the Two and One Oil ...Company. Its Hughes No. 1 in the ...Los Cerritos field, northwest of the ...Signal Hill field recorded an initial ...flow of 1000 barrels of oil a day. ...In the southeasterly portion of Sig-...nal Hill, E. B. Campbell's No. 4 was ...opened to production and is put-...ting out about 450 barrels daily. ...Richfield's Haas No. 2 near the ...Kennedy pool is flowing at the rate ...of 1200 barrels daily. Signal Hill ...yesterday produced 97,100 barrels, ...or against a quota of 95,000 barrels ...daily.

Nearing Completion

...The Union Oil Company's Towns-...end No. 8 will probably be the first ...of the company's Townsite projects ...to go into production in the extreme ...westerly portion of the Ven-...tura field. This project is drilling out ...ahead and is expected to make a ...production test within a week, with ...bottom of the hole at 4500 feet.

...Union's Townsite property is near ...the Del Rey No. 1 lease where Del Rey No. ...1 has built up good production from ...the shallow zone. In the same ...general vicinity a number of wells ...have been brought in recently. The ...Randall-Cypress combination plans ...several projects on the Gage lease ...and these will probably test the ...deeper zone.

LOS ANGELES MARKET

CATTLE—Although there was less action in the market yesterday, prices held about steadily, although some instances of weak to slightly lower prices were noted. The supply was made up largely of intermountain cattle.

Two loads of Idaho steers overrunning slightly over 1000 pounds sold at 8.40 and a load of 1025-pound fed California steers sold at 8.35. Several loads of mostly steers scored 7.25@8.00 and fed Arizona steers sold at 7.25. A load of Idaho feeder steers sold at 7.40.

A few cows were good enough to sell at 6.50@7.00, with bulk of common and medium cows at 4.75@5.75. Bulls sold at 5.25@6.00. Low cutters and cutters brought mostly 2.50@3.50. A load of Montana-Utah heifers brought 7.25, with several small lots at 6.00@6.50.

CALVES—Calves were largely of common and medium quality, with southwesterns mostly from 6.00@9.00, and native yearlings quoted at 10.50@12.00, with odd selected yealers up to 13.00.

HOGS—Receipts of hogs were limited to about 300 head. Arrivals were picked up in good season at prices around 10c lower. Yesterday's five top was 11.05, paid for a load of 164-pound Nebraska grain fed butchers, and a 156-pound load mixed 180-pound heavy butchers sold at 9.85@10.75, and packing sows, 250 to 500 pound load of 194-pound feeder pigs sold at 10.50.

SHEEP—There was active demand for fat lambs yesterday and the market was unevenly higher, with 8.00 paid for choice 72-pound Idaho lambs, the highest price paid on the market for some time. Two hundred head sold at 8.00, with 100 cut at 7.90. Medium to choice ewes are quoted at 2.75@3.75.

CHILE COPPER RATE HIT BY FRESH CUT

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Chile Copper Company declared yesterday a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share, against 62½ cents a share three months ago, and 75 cents six months ago. Previously quarterly payments were 87½ cents. The new dividend is payable December 20 to stockholders of record December 3.

Grain Futures Turn Off After Early Advance

CHICAGO, Oct. 23. (AP)—Sudden upturns in all grain prices late today, reaching a maximum of 2¾c a bushel from the day's bottom level, aroused much interest among traders. The advance was largely ascribed to reports current changes in prospect would permit manufacture of 4½ per cent beer, and would afford an additional outlet for millions of bushels of grain. No satisfactory confirmation of the reports was obtainable, however, and the upturns in grain quotations mostly failed to hold.

Wheat closed irregular, at ⅛c net decline to ½c advance, corn closed ⅝@1⅛c down, oats ⅛@⅜c off, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 15c.

A lively transient increase of buying by houses with eastern connections preceded the late advance of wheat.

"TIMES" THEATER GUIDE

MOTION PICTURES

Bard's, Eighth, between Broadway and Hill—Anybody's Woman, Ruth Chatterton and Clive Brook enact romance pleasingly.

Boulevard, Washington at Vermont — "Se Fiala," in London. Will Rogers's wit is still good for a couple of hours.

California, Main near Eighth—"Estrellados," in Spanish today.

Carthay Circle, Carthay Center—"Just Imagine." A fantasy and simply swell. El Brendel and Maureen O'Sullivan.

Chinese, 6925 Hollywood — "The Big Trail," spectacular in setting and photography; this production demonstrates the power and sweep of Grandeur.

Criterion, 643 South Grand—"Up the River." A funny satire on prison life with a fine cast, headed by Spencer Tracy.

Egyptian, Hollywood Boulevard—"Monte Carlo." A delightful Lubitsch satire with Jack Buchanan and Jeanette MacDonald.

Figueroa, Figueroa at Santa Barbara—"Paid Admission." The crook story, with that distinguished presence, Ronald Colman.

Filmarte, 1228 North Vine—"South Sea Sea." Opens tonight.

Forum, Pico at Norton—"Dixiana." Nice music and Bebe Daniels might attract.

Los Angeles State, Broadway at Seventh—"Love in the Rough." Reviewed in today's Times.

Majestic, Broadway at Ninth—"The Girl of the Golden West." The old melodrama re-told good reason. Ann Harding.

Million Dollar, Broadway at Third—"Follow Thru." The musical comedy of golf and Buddy Rogers; but it's pretty endless.

Pantages, Hollywood at Vine—"The Big Fight." Reviewed in today's Times.

Paramount, Hill at Sixth—"Laughter." Reviewed in today's Times.

Rita Wilshire at La Brea—"Let Us Be Gay." Norma Shearer gives a good performance in a made-over musical comedy.

R.K.O., Hill at Eighth—"Brothers." Reviewed in today's Times.

R.K.O., Orpheum, Broadway at Ninth—"Lady Surrenders." An interesting film, with excellent portrayal by Genevieve Tobin and Rose Hobart.

Tower, Edwr at 6th—"Extravagance." Reviewed in today's Times.

Uptown, Western at Tenth—"Rain or Shine." Joe Cook and his nonsense are good for a lot of fun.

United Artists, Broadway near Ninth—"Whoopee." Eddie Cantor in the best of screen musicals.

Warners' Downtown, Hill at Seventh—"One Night as Susie's." Opens today.

Warners' Hollywood, Hollywood Blvd. at Wilcox—"Maybe It's Love." Or maybe it's college days you can see the all-American football team, and if you like, Joe E. Brown.

Wilshire, 8440 Wilshire Boulevard — "The Santa Fe Trail." A western and not so bad; with Richard Arlen.

STAGE

Belasco, Hill at 11th—"Young Sinners." More of youth; wild doings which should prove popular. John Darrow.

El Capitan, Hollyw'd Blvd. nr. Highland —"Parlor, Bedroom and Bath." Charlotte Greenwood strides onto the stage, and the play matters not at all. Destined for a healthy and wealthy run.

Figueroa Playhouse, 940 S. Figueroa—"Cue of sugar." Dorothy Mackaye returns with clever farce in which she recently scored a personal hit.

Hollywood Playhouse, Vine near Hollywood Blvd.—"Little Orchid Annie." Fast farce about a half-wit ex-dancer. Betty Bronson and a veteran supporting cast.

Mayan, Hill near 11th—"Temptations of 1930." A modern revue exhibiting some tuneful songs, clever dancing and colorful ensemble work.

Vine St., Vine near Hollywood Blvd.—"My Girl Friday." A fast and funny picture of the business man at play. With John T. Murray.

BURLESQUE

Follies, Main at Fourth—Burlesque.

Fleeing Driver Loses His Life

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 23. (AP)—Speeding away after his automobile had been involved in a minor traffic accident, Clyde A. Barton met death at midnight when his car went out of control as he was trying to elude pursuers.

Barton's car had caught the bumper of another driven by Alfred Moline an hour earlier. Moline called to him to stop, but Barton sped away, Moline after him. Moline lost sight of him after a half-mile chase, but a few minutes later found the wreckage of Barton's car. Barton was dead.

Three Children Burn to Death

EAST LIVERPOOL (O.) Oct. 23. (AP)—Three children were burned to death and their parents and another child injured in a fire that started in their home when their mother poured kerosene into a stove last night.

The dead: Anita, 8 years of age; Russel, 7, and Robert, 5, were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Keenan, who reside near here. The injured child is Edward Keenan, 12.

HE WOULD KNOW HOLLYWOOD

French Scribe to Seek Out Its Secrets

City of Dreams Studied
M. Maurice Dekobra, author and traveler, gets his first glimpse of cinema capital that he has heard so much about.

"WHAT is this Hollywood?"—and with that M. Maurice Dekobra, French author and traveler, arrived in the film capital yesterday for a month's stay. "I will see for myself," he said, "what this is that I hear so much about."

"For twenty years," M. Dekobra continued, "I have been a newspaper man. I care not a whit about politics and such as that. My interest lies in human life and the things that make it do this and that. Will I find something in Hollywood?"

"Shake," said the newspaper boys when they learned he is one of them in more ways than one. And then they predicted he'll find plenty in Hollywood of interest to the student of life. Fact is, they told him so.

Said the monsieur:

"Your American life intrigues me. I have been here many times, but never before was I west of the Rockies. Let me tell you what I intend to write about now.

"I will write the story of the son of one of America's greatest captains of industry or business magnates who has millions and millions. With his money he realizes that he can buy friends, public officials, entertainment, in fact, America is at his feet.

"But this young man, he has brains. He leaves it all and goes to Paris. There he takes quarters in a shabby part of the city. He goes to work at something and he carves a name for himself without his money in a place where the American magic of his name means nothing."

"Wait a minute, monsieur," cried his interviewers, "you know that could not be. Always they come to this country to carve their way. Would you picture France as a land of opportunity for Americans?"

"Ah, ha," replied Dekobra, "there is where I fool you. It is the difference."

Dekobra arrived here from San Francisco. He is author of "Madonna of the Sleeping Cars," "The Perfumed Tiger," "The Sphinx Has Spoken," etc. He is at the Roosevelt.

MAYOR OUT OF WALKUP QUIZ LINE-UP

Grand Jury Likewise Will Not Call Mosher, Stewart Announces

Mayor Porter and his confidential investigating secretary, W. J. Mosher, will not be called before the grand jury in the Police Commissioner Walkup "frame-up" investigation now under way, according to Chief Deputy District Attorney Stewart.

Mosher, named by several of the witnesses who have testified before the grand jury as having had some knowledge of the affair, and Mayor Porter on Wednesday admitted for the first time that they had undertaken some kind of an investigation regarding Walkup out of which the frame-up charges grew. Both expressed willingness to be called before the grand jury.

Walkup himself several weeks ago started the investigation of the asserted plot to lure him into a compromising position with a pretty young blond woman and then arrest him. Miss Helen Lee, the asserted lure, later was taken in custody and made a complete statement to the police. She implicated a number of others and mentioned names of certain City Hall officials, the police say.

Last Tuesday ten witnesses, including the Lee girl, told their versions of the asserted plot to the grand jury, and next Tuesday additional witnesses will be called, according to Stewart.

Horses Vanish County Pound Report Shows

Horses in Los Angeles county are traveling the same trail as the vanishing American Indian, according to a quarterly report from John L. Ewing, superintendent of the pound at Lynwood, filed yesterday with the Board of Supervisors. Only two were in the pound during the quarter ending September 30, last. They were sold at auction, the report says.

In the years gone by horses made up the bulk of the population in the pounds. Today it is dogs and cats that fill it.

Ewing's report shows that during the quarter 622 dogs were brought in, of which 208 were placed in homes and the remainder destroyed.

During the quarter the pound housed 519 cats, all of which were destroyed with the exception of two.

WORKER KILLED IN VENICE BLAST

Another Critically Injured as Huge Tank Blows Up

Loud Explosion Terrorizes Stock "Prospects"

Fires Quickly Extinguished; Auto Demolished

With a roar that was audible blocks away a 1000-barrel reserve tank of crude oil in the Venice oil fields exploded late yesterday, making human torches of two workmen, terrorizing a near-by assemblage of stock "prospects" and threatening destruction for a time to the entire industrial district.

One of the injured men died last night of his burns at Santa Monica Hospital, where he was taken after the blast. He was E. C. Allen of 1523 Marchant avenue, Gardena. The other man, P. F. Brown of 3205 Ocean avenue, Venice, while burned less seriously, is in a critical condition at the same hospital.

CAUSE UNDETERMINED

The cause of the explosion remained undetermined last night, pending an investigation; but members of the fire department stated unofficially they believe the blast had its origin in a welding operation.

Brown and Allen, employees of the Boyce & Allen Pipe Construction Company, had completed erection of the tank for the S. L. R. Petroleum Properties, Ltd., on a lease at Avenue 37 and the Speedway. While the huge metal receptacle was being filled, it is believed they continued to apply their acetelyne torches to an unfinished pipe connection, and the jets of flame probably came into contact with gases generated by the oil flow.

Suddenly the tank exploded, the force being principally downward and laterally, for it blasted away the bottom and bulged out the sides. Blazing oil flew in all directions, drenching Allen and Brown and starting numerous small fires within a radius of about fifty feet, and scorching two dwellings at No. 21 and No. 25 Avenue 37.

AIDED BY OTHERS

With their clothing aflame, Allen and Brown staggered blindly about until other workmen took them in hand and wrapped them in blankets. Then they collapsed and did not regain consciousness until given first-aid treatment at the hospital.

The cottage at No. 21 Avenue 37 was occupied at the time of the blast by nearly two-score men and women "prospects" who were listening to a sales talk by oil company representatives. They were terrified by the concussion and rushed panic-stricken into the open. Some narrowly missed injury from flying fragments of the metal tank. An automobile parked near the house was demolished.

Prompt response by the Venice fire department prevented what might have become a conflagration of alarming proportions. Three units arrived quickly on the scene and in a few minutes had quenched the many small blazes that had broken out in the vicinity.

Heat Expected to Continue; Rain Lacking

The maximum temperature in Los Angeles yesterday was 92 deg., 16 deg. above the average for maximums in October. Today will be about as warm, says the forecaster.

High air pressure in the interior is blamed for yesterday's heat and for the continuation of the warm spell predicted for today.

Figures of the United States Weather Bureau show this has been an unusual month for weather. An average of 1.5 deg. above normal on the temperature chart has been recorded.

In the matter of rain it has been deficient. So far .1 of an inch of rain has fallen, as compared with .68 normal.

Second Jury Selected for Damage Suit

A new jury was obtained yesterday to try the $25,000 suit for asserted damages instituted by Harvey Tuttle, Jr., 7 years of age, against the Columbia Laundry Company and others, in Superior Judge Keetch's court. One jury was dismissed Wednesday before the case got under way, Judge Keetch granting a motion for a mistrial because of improper questioning of a juror.

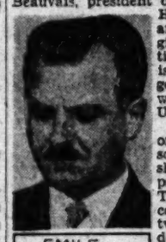
Young Tuttle is suing the laundry concern, J. J. Hutchinson, an official, and A. Barkin, a driver. The youth's complaint asserts that one of the laundry trucks collided with a car driven by Mrs. Tammie Tuttle, his mother. Harvey received injuries including concussion of the brain and severe lacerations and bruises, his counsel asserts.

NEW BOB WINS BY HAIR LENGTH

It's Neither Too Long Nor Too Short

Miss Corday Gustafson With Latest Hairdress

A QUESTION of unusual moment to the female of the species—the styles in feminine hairdress for the coming year—was answered yesterday by Emil Beauvais, president of the National Hairdressers' and Cosmetologists' Association, Inc., who is in Los Angeles on a good-will tour of the United States.



EMILE BEAUVAIS

Long hair is officially taboo, so are mannish, shingled or earparading bobs. The verdict is a compromise between a shoulder-length and short bob.

The national bob, chosen by the hairdressers at their convention in Washington last month as the most perfect and best adaptable form of hairdress, is now being popularized. The national bob is a long-hair bob, with many styles of dress. It may be changed for sport, afternoon and evening wear. It has large, loose waves, which may be swirled on either side of the head.

All feminine adornment is now more womanish. Of all the past summer's fads only the sun tan remains in good style.

"Hollywood sets the style for the entire fashionable world," Beauvais declares, "and all the latest designs and improvements in feminine beautifying styles originate there."

Accompanying Beauvais on his good-will tour is C. W. Godefroy, past president of the association. They are registered at the Alexandria.

POLE FLYER NAMED FOR AIR AWARD

Capt. Parker, Byrd Pilot, Now Living in Alhambra, Cited for Flying Cross

Capt. Alton Parker, one of the heroes of the Byrd South Pole expedition, now a resident of Alhambra, has been recommended for the Distinguished Flying Cross by the Board of Awards of the Navy, it was reported in a Washington dispatch last night.

Since returning from the Byrd Antarctic adventure, during which he flew with Rear-Admiral Byrd and Bernt Balchen over the icy wastes of the polar region, Capt. Parker has piloted one of the giant air liners of Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., on the run between here and Albuquerque, N. M. He was chief test pilot on the South Pole trip and previously had flown Byrd on the latter's North Pole expedition.

Capt. Parker received his training in the United States Marine Corps as a flyer and has approximately 5000 hours in the air to his credit.

He was born in Hazelhurst, Miss., and the Governor recently declared a State holiday in his honor and promoted him to the rank of colonel in the National Guard. Capt. Parker is 35 years of age, is married, has one son, 7-year-old Jack Parker, and resides at 204 South Olive avenue, Alhambra.

PEST-HOUSE TREASURE TIP REACHES COUNCIL

The offer of Carlos V. Newton to take the city in on a gold-digging exploit in the pest house in Chavez Ravine was referred by the City Council yesterday to its Finance Committee. Newton wrote City Health Officer Parrish that an old woman told him there were "millions in it," and offered the city 15 per cent of the take. Dr. Parrish embraced the offer and transmitted it to the Council.

Port Commerce Reports Back on Monthly System

Monthly reports on harbor commerce, issued for many years but which were dropped recently for a condensed report, are to be resumed because of the demand for them, General Manager Edwards of the Harbor Department announced yesterday.

The monthly reports were dropped in July as an economy measure. Since then many letters from steamship and business firms demand that they be continued, according to Edwards.

In order that there may be no gap in the series, the compilation of commerce statistics reaching back to July, involving much detail work, will be undertaken, according to Edwards.

FLEET INVITES VISITS TO SHIPS

Open House Will Be Held at San Pedro Navy Day

Admiral Schofield Extends Personal Greetings

Service Termed Agency for Peace, Not War

A personal message to the people of California inviting them to be the Navy Day guests of the battle fleet at San Pedro next Monday was delivered yesterday by Admiral Frank H. Scofield. The local base will this year be the center of the celebration on the Pacific, with ten battleships, the aircraft carrier Lexington and a half-dozen ships of the fleet train all present to receive visitors.

The day will also be the seventy-second birthday anniversary of Theodore Roosevelt, "Father of the Modern Navy." The fleet returns from sea this morning after monthly tactical exercises and all ships will immediately begin preparations for their respective Navy Day shows. Visitors will be received aboard from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., and at night the fleet will combine in a spectacular searchlight drill that will flood the heavens with flashing beams. Eleven boats will be operated from the Fifth-street landing at San Pedro and as many more from the Santa Barbara-street landing at Long Beach; the San Pedro boats plying to and from all ships except the Lexington, while the Long Beach boats will carry visitors to and from the Lexington and all battleships. No boats will operate from the Pine-avenue pier this year.

DRILLS PLANNED

Catapulting of Corsair observation planes from battleship decks, drills with the giant turret guns and less-spectacular five-inch batteries, band concerts and exhibits of projectiles, torpedoes and diving gear will be some parts of the various programs. At Troma Field at 2 o'clock there will be two football games by battleship teams, the U.S.S. Mississippi vs. U.S.S. Tennessee and U.S.S. Nevada vs. U.S.S. West Virginia.

Ships receiving visitors will include the battleships California, West Virginia, Maryland, Tennessee, New Mexico, Idaho, Mississippi, Nevada, Oklahoma and New York; the aircraft carrier Lexington, the hospital ship Relief, the fleet repair ship Medusa and the train flagship Procyon.

ADMIRAL'S MESSAGE

Admiral Schofield's message to the public regarding Navy Day follows:

"It is the custom of the Navy to make special preparations for celebrating Navy Day, which is the 27th inst. On that date, above all others, opportunities are furnished to the public to visit the ships, to inspect many of the activities of navy life on board ship, to see how the men live, and to see many of the instruments we use in our profession. Of course, Navy Day is not the only day the public is welcome. They are always welcome in the afternoons when ships are in port. It is our custom in the battle fleet to allow visitors almost daily in the afternoon. Notwithstanding this frequent opportunity for the public to visit ships, we of the Navy desire particularly to see visitors on board on Navy Day. On Monday, the 27th inst., every ship of the battle fleet will be open to visitors, and boats will be run to and from the shore in accordance with schedules that have already been published.

"When you visit these great ships I hope you will bear in mind the history of your Navy during the 135 years of its existence. I hope that you will remember that it has always been a loyal service, that there never has been an occasion through all those years when any naval force has by its acts, either at home or abroad, embarrassed the central government; that it has on the other hand, invariably, loyally and fully supported the intent of the government of the United States.

NAVY WINS FRIENDS

"Although your Navy is an instrument of peace, I should like you to remember that its thought daily, from one year's end to another, has to be given principally to matters of training for the thing we dread most of all—war. It is natural, therefore, that our great concern should be that your Navy be strong enough to be a powerful argument for peace, and a strong arm of the government in re-establishing peace, once peace is ruptured.

"It is a remarkable fact that not-

BEQUEST OF $100,000 GIVES SCHOOL BOARD SURPRISE

An unexpected bequest which may amount to as much as $100,000 soon will come to the Los Angeles Board of Education as a result of the rise in real-estate values within the past thirty-three years, it was learned by the board yesterday.

The bequest is provided by the will of Dr. William F. Edgar who died in 1897, leaving an estate which consisted mainly of two parcels of real estate, one in this city and the other in Riverside. The local parcel is a lot, 60x165 feet on the west side of Broadway just north of Third street.

The terms of Dr. Edgar's will, as disclosed yesterday, reveal that he named the Board of Education as residuary legatee in a trust formed to dispose of a one-half interest in the two lots, but first made specific gifts to individuals and organizations, which totaled a great deal more than the value of the lots at the time.

His will gave one-half interest in the lots to his widow forever and reserved a life interest in the other half for her. Following her death that life interest was to revert to the trust, which was instructed to convert it into cash to pay the bequests specified. The widow, Mrs. Catherine L. Edgar, died recently, and Henry O'Melveny, who is the only survivor of the eight trustees named in 1897, informed the Board of Education of its interest in the estate. No one connected with the board knew anything of the bequest.

The board's residuary interest has become the greatest single portion of the trust and Mr. O'Melveny asked the board to join with him in recommending the appointment of Howard Surr of San Bernardino as a second trustee in order to dispose of the property. The will specifies that two trustees must act and it is implied that one should reside in San Bernardino. The board voted to join in the petition to appoint Mr. Surr.

In allocating the money to be received for the property after it is sold, Dr. Edgar's will first made gifts totaling $26,000 to various individuals or their heirs.

Then it specified that, if there is any money remaining, $1500 be given to the Historical Society of Southern California; $250 to a Roman Catholic orphan asylum; $250 to a Protestant orphan asylum; $500 to the Ladies' Benevolent Society of Los Angeles; $500 to the Chamber of Commerce; $500 to the Board of Fire Commissioners to be used for the welfare of firemen; and $2000 to the National Soldiers' Home near Washington. If all that money was not available, the amount available was to be divided among these beneficiaries in proportion to the bequests named. Of course, it is available and will all be paid now.

The will then takes cognizance of the possibility that the value of the property could cover the $31,000 already bestowed and then some, for it provided that if anything were left, $20,000 should be divided between the library and medical museum attached to the office of the Surgeon-General of the United States Army, and that $500 apiece be given to the public libraries of Los Angeles and San Bernardino.

After thus disposing of $52,000, the

POWER BONDS DISAPPROVED

Resolution Opposing Proposed $13,300,000 Issue Adopted by Commercial Board

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Commercial Board of Los Angeles held last Wednesday the following resolution was offered and adopted:

Whereas, a power bond issue in the amount of $13,300,000 is to be offered for approval or disapproval on the ballot on November 4, next; and

Whereas, the board of directors of the Commercial Board, after due consideration, finds that said bond issue is intended to further the confiscatory policy of the Bureau of Power and Light to the end that the capital of private enterprise in the utility field shall be confiscated and duplicated with public funds, and

Whereas, the board of directors feels that such a policy is diametrically opposed to the best interests of the members of the Commercial Board of Los Angeles and to the community at large; and

Whereas there is ample evidence that the Bureau of Power and Light has sufficient funds with which to continue its operations and its normal development without the proceeds from the proposed bond issue; and

Whereas, the proposed bond issue has no bearing whatsoever on the Boulder Dam situation; and

Whereas, the city of Los Angeles is officially on record with the Secretary of the Interior and with Congress to the effect that the Boulder Dam project can be carried through successfully without a power bond issue such as constitutes the proposed bond issue;

Now, therefore, be it resolved: That the board of directors condemn the proposed bond issue as unnecessary, unwise and thoroughly detrimental to the public interest, and that a copy of this resolution be spread upon the minutes of the board, and that a copy of same be forwarded to the officials of the city of Los Angeles, the press, and all interested governmental agencies and to the members of the Commercial Board of Los Angeles.

SYMPHONIC PROGRAM IDEAL

Opening Concert Triumphant Both in Musical Rendering and Public Interest

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

Virtually a new ideal for symphonic concerts here was established by Dr. Artur Rodzinski and the Philharmonic Orchestra last evening. The opening program of the organization, which is sponsored by W. A. Clark, Jr., assumed aspects triumphant, both in point of musical renditions and public interest. Applause reached a demonstrative peak practically unsurpassed in the history of this cultural institution, and became an amazing ovation following the giving the final number, Ravel's "Bolero," at Philharmonic Auditorium.

Prospects are for the renewed vitalizing of the entire symphonic enterprise, gauged by this initial conquest. A season that begins with such excellence and spirit would seem assured of the finest fulfillment. The concert was a distinguished augury of the future.

That Rodzinski already has his instrumental ensemble well shaped, smoothed and built up for the start of his second season was manifested at many stages of his varied and significant presentation—nowhere, perhaps, more strikingly than when he allowed them to go their own way, without the use of the baton, in the fascinating Ravel creation. Admittedly this composition may surge along of itself without direction, but it is great showmanship to permit it to do so, and to have the results so brilliant as they were on this occasion.

Bach in a Respighi arrangement, Brahms and Debussy besides Ravel, were the composer sources for the first symphony concert. The majestic Symphony No. 4 of Brahms was the main structure of the program, to which one may add that the Bach-Respighi "Passacaglia" was its corner-stone. The arabesques of Debussy's "La Mer" and the "Bolero" were the decorative embellishments—and the last more than that. The effect of the whole was architecturally complete—one of the

by Harry Carr

WHEN Eric Von Stroheim was in Austria twenty years ago, he occasionally snapped his flashing saber to "present arms" and stood as though some one had run a steel rod up his back. It meant that a grand duchess had hove in sight over the horizon.

Von has just returned from a visit to the home land. While there he was summoned to an interview with a grand duchess of the old regime. Arriving punctually at the hour, Von waited, stiff and punctilious. Finally a timid, shabby little woman touched him on the arm. She said that she had a great trouble, for which she implored his advice. It was the broken remnant of what had been the grand duchess to whom he had raised his saber.

Incidentally—looking for a sympathetic soul—she made a good pick.

KITCHEN SINGERS

Everyone else had gone home; the singers of the cafe in El Paseo were getting into their wraps. It was then that the Senora Bonzo brought two young Mexican boys from the kitchen—still in their aprons.

So shy that they could scarcely raise their eyes to look at us—twisting their nervous hands in their kitchen clothes—they sang to us—little songs of the soil and the ranches—songs that are never heard outside of Mexico. The best was "Tecolote" (the owl) with a quaint little refrain.

SONGS OF THE SOIL

With the exception of the Negro spirituals these Mexican songs are the only really characteristic music that has come to us. Most of what we call Mexican music is the Latin version of Tin Pan alley—made-up songs. No one knows where songs like "Tecolote" came from—some are older than the conquest—they have come welling up from the hearts of a people who are filled with art and music to the tips of their fingers—songs of the vaqueros riding night herd—songs sung by the peons as they drive their oxen through the lush tropic herbage of Sinaloa—songs of the burro packers in the mountains of Nayarit.

There are two such songs that were remembered rather than composed in the old town of Tepic—"Rancho Grande" and "Cuatro Milpas," the last a touching little wistful song of a man who comes back from the revolution to find the wreck of his little farm.

DARING DRAMATICS

I am very curious to know if Raoul Walsh's picture, "The Big Trail," will be successful in spite of his daring.

He has taken unusual liberties with the story-telling conventions. The motive of the story is a murder committed a long time before the story starts. Also he supplies the audacious touch of killing his villain—and the plot of the story—half through the picture. Griffith did the same thing with his heroine in "The Birth of a Nation." In both instances the theory of the dramatist was the same—that the importance of the epical motive transcended the importance of the story.

WHA'S A MATTER?

Whatever the significance of the movement may be is locked in the secret councils of the War College; but there seems to be an awful lot going on in the matter of the coast artillery defenses of the Pacific Coast. Antiaircraft batteries rattling the windows of

THRONG VIEWS CONSECRATION

St. Vincent's Church Scene of Solemn Ceremony

Bishop Cantwell and Other Prelates Participate

Cardinal Hayes to Celebrate Mass Next Sunday

While dew-drenched doves rested on the beams of the towering crosses and fluttered about the head and feet of the stone-carved Christ in the hush of yesterday's dawn, magnificent St. Vincent's Church received its consecration at the hands of Bishop Cantwell and his assisting prelates.

One by one the expectant throng began to gather until, when the chimes struck 7 o'clock, hundreds of worshipers stood on the broad walks and green lawn to watch the vested priests and their acolytes begin the ceremonies which set apart the edifice as a house of God and a refuge for His children.

Thrice around the church they walked, the bishops and their attendants, led by Bishop Cantwell, who sprinkled holy water upon the walls, blessing the building in the name of the Creator.

CONSECRATORS ENTER

The bishop then knocked upon the door, which opened to receive the consecrators. Consecration services within the walls were attended only by Bishop Cantwell, Bishop Francis C. Kelly of Oklahoma, Bishop John J. Mitty of Salt Lake City, Bishop J. Henry Tihen of Denver and Father William P. Barr, provincial of the Vincentians, and their attendants.

Ceremonies of consecration included intonation of the "Veni Creator Spiritus," the chanting of the "Litany of the Saints," the tracing by the presiding bishop of the Greek and Latin alphabets, in the form of a cross, in ashes on the floor of the center aisle, sprinkling of walls and floor with holy water and the blessing of the Gregorian water with which five crosses were traced upon the altar.

The sacred relics then were carried forward and placed within the altars. Following the anointing of the twelve crosses and the blessing of the ornaments of the altars, the doors were flung open to the public.

Five masses then were celebrated simultaneously by the five consecrators, each at the altar which he had consecrated. Announcement was made that indulgences will be granted all those who attended the services of consecration.

Life and death walked hand in hand in connection with the services of consecration. While Father Martin J. O'Malley, pastor of the church, was in Chicago yesterday to attend the funeral of his sister, Miss Mary O'Malley, a telegram was received following the services by Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Doheny, donors of the church, announcing the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Francisco Obregon at Mexico City. Mrs. Obregon formerly was Miss Erma Ordonez, Mr. Doheny's goddaughter, who was born in Los Angeles.

CARDINAL'S VISIT

Motoring down from San Francisco, Patrick Cardinal Hayes, Archbishop of New York, following his visit to Yosemite National Park, spent last night at Santa Barbara and is expected to arrive in Los Angeles this evening. Next Sunday at 11 a.m. he will celebrate solemn pontifical mass in the new church and the mass will be followed by a sermon by Archbishop Edward J. Hanna of San Francisco. Because of limited seating capacity, admission will be by ticket.

Bishop Cantwell is to officiate at solemn pontifical vespers at 8 p.m. Sunday, and the sermon will be by Dr. John J. Glennon, Archbishop of St. Louis. A dinner in honor of Cardinal Hayes and other visiting dignitaries of the church will be given at 1 p.m. Sunday at the Chester Place home of Mr. and Mrs. Doheny.

Solemn requiem mass for deceased priests and parishioners of St. Vincent's will be celebrated at 8 a.m. next Monday, with Mgr. John Cawley, V. G., in charge, and a sermon will be preached by Mgr. John McCarthy.

UNIQUE IN BEAUTY

"This church of St. Vincent de Paul is almost unique in the United States, in that it is complete in every detail," said Ralph A. Cram, of Cram & Ferguson, Boston architects, who designed the altars and pulpit. "The church was copied from no existing structure, nor are the altars, shrines or windows copies in any respect. However, everything is based on the American ideal, the Mexican Spanish Renaissance, which is a development of the Spanish Renaissance. One thing that has been done, perhaps for the first time, is the creating of the reredos and shrines entirely in gold and color. The glass is modeled on the finest Renaissance glass in the world, found in the Certosa di Pavia, in Italy. The woodwork in the choir and baptistry is of French walnut."

Albert C. Martin of Los Angeles was the architect for the church structure.

It was pointed out that only such churches as are constructed of lasting materials and are free from debt may receive the Roman Catholic ceremonies of consecration and that there now are only four such churches in the Los Angeles diocese, these being the Cathedral of St. Vibiana, consecrated in 1876, St. Clare's at Oxnard, consecrated in 1918, the restored Santa Barbara Mission, consecrated in 1928, and St. Vincent's, consecrated yesterday.

OF THE COMMUNITY CHEST

MORRIS SONTAG SAYS:

"Aside from the humanitarian object the Community Chest serves, which is not in question, since we all definitely accept the principle that the deserving poor and needy are to be helped in every enlightened community—we particularly indorse the work of the Community Chest because it is an effort which is organized in which there is no lost motion, and the maximum results are obtained from the money, by reason of systematic business methods and small overhead expended in the collection of funds, and in this manner passing to the charities practically dollar for dollar given by the more fortunate to the sick and needy."

PRIZE PONY MISSING SINCE STORM STAMPEDE

A recent blizzard in the high Sierras stampeded twenty-one of the horses of the Urban Boys' School from their corral, it was disclosed yesterday. All but one of the mounts were found at Hidden Springs, thirty-five miles from the corral, and were taken to the new site of the Urban school on Beverly Boulevard, Brentwood Hills. The horse unaccounted for is Panther, a prize pony which had been a frequent winner of events on the old Urban campus.

JURORS DISCUSS COUNTY PATROL

Transfer of Control to State Considered

Chairman Graves Opposes Proposed Change

Says Contemplated Economy Would Not Result

Discussion of a plan to turn over the county motor patrol to the State Motor Vehicle Department was taken up by the county grand jury yesterday as a possible method of reducing the annual expenses of the county.

The grand jury, however, does not have the power to order the action, but merely can recommend it to the Board of Supervisors.

During the discussion Chairman Graves of the Board of Supervisors spent some time in the grand jury room explaining his attitude on the matter.

Graves made it clear that he is opposed to the suggested move, asserting that the economy anticipated by those who favor the transfer is offset by the fact that the county then would be forced to employ additional officers to take over much of their work that the State officers could not do.

GRAVES'S STATEMENT

Graves's statement follows:

"For more than eighteen months the Board of Supervisors has been studying the subject of police protection in the county as it pertains to the Motor Vehicle Division.

"Under a State law, this division could be turned over to the State and operated and maintained by the State Department of Motor Vehicles instead of handled in the present manner as a direct branch of the county government.

"After weighing the present cost of maintaining the department as against the amount we would have to pay the State to take it over, it has been determined each year by the board to continue the squad as a county activity.

"Officers of this division are deputy sheriffs doing peace officers' services of all kinds, rather than merely motor vehicle enforcement, as would be true when they are State officers. While the State Motor Vehicle Division could handle the actual motor vehicle enforcement in the county for less money than it is now costing us to maintain our department, the additional men who would have to be added to the Sheriff's department for policing our agricultural area and those thickly populated parts of the county such as West Hollywood and Belvedere Gardens would, we feel, more than offset the savings.

REVENUE EQUALS COST

"The present department is operated at an expense of approximately $210,000 per year and the revenue of the department more than offsets this sum. It may be well to remember that this force is the only uniformed part of our peace officers' department and at times of such experiences as the hoof-and-mouth disease, the oil well fires in Santa Fe Springs and the St. Francis Dam disaster, they are the agency to which we find it necessary to turn."

FIRE BOARD TO DROP OIL-STATION FEE LEVIES

Finding that it is not authorized to collect license fees for permits to operate filling stations, tank trucks and trailers, the Fire Commission yesterday passed a resolution to discontinue the practice and directed Secretary McKeag to inform the City Clerk and Board of Public Works of this fact. The secretary also was instructed to furnish all data in connection with such collections to the city license division. The order goes into effect November 1, next.

CHAMBER WILL HONOR REAR-ADMIRAL REEVES

A prophetic picture of the future of American aviation with stress to be given the part which Southern California will take, providing proper development is followed to encourage its progress here, will be presented before business men at a big aviation and Navy Day luncheon to be given by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce next Monday in honor of Rear-Admiral J. M. Reeves, commander of the aircraft squadron of the United States battle fleet.

The program, to be held at the Biltmore, will be the most important event in the city for Navy Day, and will also be made the occasion to honor and congratulate officials of the Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., on the inauguration of their new all-flying service between this city and New York.

Lieutenant-Commander Ligon B. Ard will take charge of the luncheon program after the official welcome has been expressed by President Austin. He will introduce Admiral Reeves and his staff, together with Maj. Clarence M. Young, assistant Secretary of the United States Department of Commerce in charge of aviation, and others.

LONG BEACH WOMAN DIES OF HER BURNS

LONG BEACH, Oct. 23.—Burns suffered by Mrs. Leila Turner, 25 years of age, at her home, 1924 Lewis avenue, when gasoline used to clean clothes ignited yesterday, caused her death at Seaside Hospital this morning.

bonds and no one has been authorized to use my name," was the statement made in a telegram to Dr. John R. Haynes yesterday by George I. Cochran, director of the Southern California Edison Company and president of the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company.

This telegram was sent by Mr. Cochran to Dr. Haynes for the purpose of repudiating the use of Mr. Cochran's name in an advertisement used in the newspapers signed by the so-called "Taxpayers' Anti-Power Bond Association."

VOTES FOR HAREMS

Turkish men are absolutely right in their continued opposition to women exercising their voting privilege. Imagine a peaceful harem with a Democratic lady orator on a soap box at one end of the place and a G.O.P. steam roller going on. And imagine a candidate who saw flashed on the election night bulletin boards the embarrassing fact that he had failed to carry his own harem.

"TEMPTATIONS" CAST ENTERTAINS SHRINERS

Los Angeles Shriners yesterday were provided festive entertainment by the cast of "The Temptations of 1930," appearing as guest artists at the luncheon in the Biltmore. More than 1500 Shriners turned out. Al Malaikah's Potentate, Fred Wadley, Jr., presided, and Bob Weaver, chairman of the luncheon committee, conducted the festivities. The luncheon was sponsored by Nobles Coffman and Love.

Today's Bible Text

Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world.
—Jas. 1:27.

STOP

A writer says that youngsters today stop at nothing. That is the trouble and they stay there too long after stopping. However, there are some places worse than nothing, so we should take heart.

WHITE SEALS

The San Diego Zoological Society in its hunt for rare Townsend seals off the coast of Mexico reports finding white seals on the Guadalupe Islands. The prohibition enforcement officers might look into this.

WRITING A BOOK

It is said that Gen. Pershing's story of the World War will extend into a work of 260,000 pages. At that there will have to be a lot of condensation. He is the hero who could fill twice the space and still find an army of readers.

KEEPING QUIET

There are so many revolutions going on in the Latin republics that a good many folks are wondering when Venezuela will break out. The citizens there are not in the habit of taking a nap when there are disturbances all around them.

THE BOOKMAKERS

John Murray, the well-known publisher, says that a dose of poison does its work but once, but a bad book can poison the wellsprings of the human mind indefinitely. This is a matter that could be convincingly cared for by the publishers themselves if they would all make up their minds to be good and cease putting forth the obscene and the objectionable. The writers would be good if they knew they could not get their naughty stuff printed.

SEEING THE PARKS

During the year ending September 30 the visitors to the national parks totaled 2,818,628. This is an increase of 138,023 over the previous year, which is rather remarkable in the face of the fact that there has been something of a slump in the tourist trade all over the land. Naturally Yosemite is the favorite and leads with 458,000 admirers, but the greatest per cent of gain goes to the petrified forest of Arizona, which had over 105,000 callers this season.

WORK FOR THE JOBLESS

The new Mayor of Detroit was elected on a platform which promised relief for a great share of the unemployment existing in the motor capital. Mayor Murphy is now finding that the pledge is not easily fulfilled. There were 80,000 idle workers when his campaign began. Now there are more than 100,000. But the Mayor is doing what he can. He has appointed a public committee of 101 representative citizens to take command of the situation and make suggestions for relief. Other cities will watch the results in Detroit with interest.

SURGERY OR PROFIT

Nobody will wonder how to interpret the intimation made by Dr. C. J. Miller, president of the American College of Surgeons, at the clinical congress held last week in Philadelphia, when he referred pointedly to practitioners who perform surgical operations "to aid their bank accounts rather than their patients." It is to the credit of the assembled surgeons, who had come from nearly all parts of the world to attend the congress, that they loudly applauded the criticism.

The charge from such a source that there are surgeons who wield the knife at times for no other purpose than sordid gain tends to make the layman rather thoughtful, particularly if he has just been advised to submit to a major operation. That persons suffering from slight or imaginary maladies should be subjected to unnecessary pain and risk of life by surgeons who seek only their personal profit thereby is not pleasant to contemplate.

Dr. Miller suggests as one remedy for the evil that hospital staffs shall make the statistics of operations in their institutions a test of a surgeon's fitness, and that those surgeons who fail to meet the tests shall be excluded from practice. He also suggests a longer surgical apprenticeship for those adopting the profession.

VOTE THE SEWER BONDS

Sanitation is one of the chief functions of government under any theory, being necessary for the protection both of life and of property, and it is unnecessary to argue that the Los Angeles sewer system should be given whatever is required to make it meet the needs of the city. That it is at present inadequate is clear from the declarations of the City Engineer's office, which says that sewers designed for bungalow districts have been overwhelmed by apartment-house and other housing construction and are overflowing into storm drains, streets and even basements of buildings in some places. Every part of the city needs additional sewer construction.

In addition, it is necessary to make repairs on the central outfall sewer, which has been in use since 1907; and the north outfall sewer requires a treatment plant to prevent odors. At Hyperion, additions to the present treatment plant are required to prevent odors and to prevent the pollution of the ocean with oils and grease, which at present are washed upon bathing beaches. The harbor district has similar problems which must be solved. It is quite practicable under modern chemical methods of control to remove the offensiveness from sewage, and Los Angeles is morally bound to take every reasonable and practicable step to dispose of its wastes in such a manner that they will not be annoying.

The proposed $6,000,000 bond issue will provide for seven projects, of which the largest is $3,237,000 for relief sewers and is the most urgent. If these are not built at once, very serious results will ensue, and some parts of the city may be rendered dangerous or even uninhabitable. They will take care of the growth of the city for some years to come, however. Second in the list is the Harbor District treatment and disposal plant at a cost of $1,130,000. This also is a necessity to prevent harbor pollution, and here also failure to make the improvements now will be serious. Completion of the Harbor District collection system will require $303,200.

Provision of an outfall sewer system for San Fernando Valley is the next project and will require $363,400. This rapidly growing section of the city is entitled to and needs additional facilities. Reconstruction and repair on the central outfall sewer is estimated at $96,100 and a like amount is allocated to the north outfall sewer treatment plant. For the grease-skimming plant and for disposal research at Hyperion there is provided $369,700. This last item promises to be one of the best investments in the list, since there is a strong probability that through it water for irrigation, industrial and other uses, and valuable materials now going to waste in the ocean, may be reclaimed.

The time is rapidly approaching when Southern California must face this sewage reclamation problem seriously. There are several reasons for this, of which the most important are present ocean and beach pollution and the waste into the ocean of enormous quantities of water which can be put to beneficial use at less expense than water can be brought in from the outside. Water so reclaimed is as pure and good as any natural water, and only prejudice can find any objection to it for domestic use. There is and can be no objection whatever to it for industrial and irrigation purposes, and much of the Los Angeles water consumption at present falls into these classes. Such water can be stored in the underground gravels all over Southern California when not wanted for immediate consumption. From reclamation plants there is an incidental recovery of valuable fertilizer materials, which help to defray the reclamation cost. The discharge of sewage into the ocean is an economic as well as an esthetic mistake and vigorous protests from the Bay District cities will compel Los Angeles to cease doing it sooner or later. The present screening plant is only partly effective, and that louder howls over the situation have not been heard is due to a spirit of neighborliness on the part of the Bay District, which Los Angeles ought to reciprocate by removing the cause for complaint.

The provision for disposal research will make a start toward the solution of the problem which cannot be taken too soon.

If the bond issue fails, it will be necessary to put in new sewers by the assessment method, which will be vastly more expensive because of the high cost of collecting a vast number of small assessments, averaging around $10 a lot. These small cash assessments offer a fertile field for the activities of lien sharks and should be avoided.

There is hardly an item in this sewer program that can be postponed, and none that ought to be postponed. The work can be done more cheaply now than later, due to favorable prices for materials, and in addition to this saving much employment will be furnished to labor at a time when it is needed.

The sewer bond issue should be approved by an overwhelming majority.

BIGGER GOLF BALLS

A new and bigger ball is to appear on the golf links in January, next. Bobby Jones puts his stamp of approval on it. That would seem to settle the matter as far as the rest of the United States is concerned.

If Bobby likes it the multitudinous dubs ought to be ecstatic over it. The old ball was too small. It has often required two or three swipes to locate it. It seemed to shrink and shrivel at each effort. It had a way of robbing a man of self-respect.

The new ball will not go so far against the wind; but with the wind it will fly with full sails set and make up for distance lost in the other direction. Nor will it require as much wind for explanation.

This will be glad tidings for the entire fraternity of foozlers. The portly golfer may now be able to get a glimpse of the little pill over the ridge of his waistline. It will not be so much a game of hide and seek in the dark. It will not require as much faith to swing out into the future.

A larger ball will also cover more territory in trying to find the cup on the green. It will not circle the target so often and roll off into shame. The green keepers will not have to exercise quite as much discretion in trying to locate the cups where the golfers putt.

Bigger golf balls will bring Christmas cheer into many melancholy lives and the golf cup will help the Rose Bowl celebrate New Year's. Now if some genius will shorten the fairways, make all the greens slope inward like a funnel, enlarge the cup itself so that it will hold more hope, raise par above 100, clear out the jungles in the rough, fix a penalty for snickering and extend prohibition to sand traps, the funeral march up to the eighteenth hole will shift to a gallop and the nineteenth hole will cease to be a necessity.

OPTIMISTS

A preacher exhorts his flock to walk in the straight and narrow. Preachers are great optimists.

RENUNCIATION
By James J. Montague

I' is pleasant to stroll
Over grass-covered knoll
And out on the sheep-dotted leas.
And through leaf-sheltered nooks
Where the song of the brooks
I echoed by murmuring bees.
There's a tang in the air
That is stirring out there,
Which you miss in the hot city street,
But when spending my days
In the bright country ways
I run short of the wherewith to eat.

I would far rather loaf
Like a dull country oaf
Amid folk who are close to the soil
Than to put in my powers
Through long tedious hours
In any known form of hard toil.
But should I choose to spend
Joyous hours on end
Where the woodbine and bittersweet creep,
I could never afford
Either pillow or board
And I need both my victuals and sleep.

The song of the brook is alluring and sweet,
But it doesn't provide me potatoes and meat.
I am fond of the song of the birds overhead,
But far fonder am I of a nice easy bed.
And so, though my nature impels me to roam,
The state of my pocketbook keeps me at home.

(Copyright, 1930, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

MANY an Angeleno, touring Europe, has gone to considerable trouble to visit the sewers of Paris, made famous by "Les Miserables," but has never suspected, not even after getting his sewer tax bills, that the sewers of Los Angeles are in many respects the most remarkable in the world.

The widespread limits of the city, embracing more than 450 square miles; the topography of the city, embracing mountains, canyons and natural lines for swift drainage, the fact that most of our rains are heavy rains which run off quickly, the importance of turning no sewage into the sea which will damage beaches, and the natural wastefulness of our residents, who use an average of 125 gallons of water daily for every man, woman and babe in the city, all combine to give Los Angeles a double sewerage problem. Most cities can combine storm drains and sanitary sewers, but Los Angeles must have a double system. So this city has thousands of miles of sewers, one of them nearly thirty miles long, and so big that you could drive right into it in a motor car, if you yearned for that kind of a drive.

The Department of Water and Power recently figured that city water, delivered to the faucet, costs us less than 5 cents a ton—and you couldn't expect Americans to be careful with anything as cheap as that. Four-fifths of us won't even bother to put the plug in the bowl when we wash our hands, but just let the water run and use three times as much to save ourselves that effort. Now, don't you?

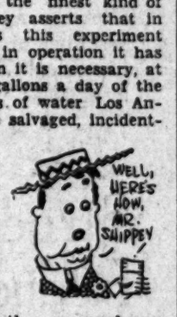
Hyperion!

Shakespeare, comparing the highest and the lowest, compared Hyperion to a satyr. Longfellow wrote a poem entitled "Hyperion." But they just didn't know nothin' yet. Had they only seen our Hyperion sewer they might have been inspired beyond all bounds. For the Hyperion sewer is fourteen feet in diameter and through it, rushing and gushing, flashing and splashing, whirling and swirling like the waters coming down at Lodore, flows 120,000,000 gallons of sewage every day—enough to cover 160 acres of ground to the depth of one foot. Out of that enormous volume are strained surprising quantities of cloth, cotton, wood, rubber and razor blades, which are pressed into bales by compressed air and then shot to the top of a high hill for destruction. The rest of the sewage is carried a mile out into the ocean through a tunnel. Hyperion is near El Segundo.

Water Salvage

That is the simplest and most elemental plan of sewage disposal. Twenty-odd miles away, at the Griffith Park water reclamation plant, you may see the latest ideas in the solving of this increasing problem. There, under direction of R. F. Goudey, sanitary engineer, 200,000 gallons of sewage daily is being diverted from the other end of that same Hyperion sewer—but you would not recognize it. Piped in under cover, it is strained and restrained and aerated and clorinated and flowed into a big sand basin into which it sinks and works its way through gravel for several months before it reaches a tunnel one and one-half miles below into which it flows, a stream of purer water than ever you could find in the Colorado River or the Missouri River or Lake Michigan or any other big city's water supply—purer, in fact, than the water which spurts from the faucet in your home. Goudey and his men keep a stack of paper cups on hand and drink it in preference to other city water!

The material strained out of it generates gas which runs the engines of the plant, and when it is entirely gasless and odorless is flowed out into reservoirs where it settles and dries—and is the finest kind of fertilizer! Goudey asserts that in the five months this experiment station has been in operation it has proved that, when it is necessary, at least 100,000,000 gallons a day of the 160,000,000 gallons of water Los Angeles uses can be salvaged, incidentally producing 1,250,000 cubic feet of gas for power purposes and a vast quantity of fertilizer and the pure water salvaged can be pumped twenty miles, to an elevation of 1000 feet, cheaper than an equal supply of water can be brought from any other place. He also believes that in less than five years Los Angeles will be doing it.



Important to All

"Don't forget," says Goudey, "that nowhere else in the history of the world has so large a population lived in the desert as now lives in Southern California. We are going to need all the water we can get, and it is folly for us to turn more than 100,000,000 gallons of good water into the ocean every day just because it is a little dirty. When your shirt is dirty you don't throw it away; you have it washed. Ninety-nine and ninety-six hundredths of all the sewage Los Angeles turns into the ocean is water, and this plant shows it can be cleaned till it is purer than the water the people of most cities get to drink. If it is used only for irrigation purposes, however, it will serve a great purpose. Water reclamation easily may become one of the greatest factors in Southland prosperity."

WHAT OTHERS THINK ABOUT IT

DAYLIGHT SAVINGS
(St. Helena Star)

Several persons have asked me to express myself on daylight-saving time and I do so with great willingness. I am in favor of saving as much daylight as we can. In steen billion years, we scientists have figured that the sun will wear itself out and we will be at the mercy of the power trust for both heat and light.

To guard against that day I recommend that each year we save several days of daylight and store them in Russ House's bank vault so that when the sun does go out of business we will be prepared for the emergency and be able to cope with it. This can be accomplished in several ways, but the easiest is to move the clock up about four hours. When it is now 7 a.m. it will be actually 11, and when it is 8 p.m. it will be midnight. This will put California time on a par with New York City, although why we want to be like New York in anything I don't know.

In order to simplify daylight saving the clocks ought to be set differently every day. In order to avoid monotony and habit, the hours can be changed around each week. I admit this will be confusing in railroad time tables, but no one understands them anyhow. It may also upset meal times a little, but most folks are dieting and won't care.

If we can pick up about sixteen hours of daylight a week and put it in storage at the end of a year we'll have 832 hours, unless figured by an election official. In ten years there will be 8320 hours and perhaps we can work up some compound interest from the bank and get some additional hours on top of that.

Give us daylight saving and guard against the future.—Senator B. U. L. Conner.

WHILE THE SILVER HELD OUT
[Kansas City Times]

Senator Pittman of Nevada, who always is interested in any chance to help the market for silver, now suggests an international loan of several hundred million ounces of silver to China. The loan would be used for productive purposes, with all four important war lords co-operating.

Various war lords have been bought off before by the faction that happened to have money. The trouble is they never stay bought. The Pittman plan would certainly help the Nevada silver-mine owners. Whether it would give more than temporary help to China is doubtful.

TOO OBVIOUS
[The Southwest Wave]

Laughable are the Hearst newspaper attempts to make a hero out of William Randolph Hearst, premier leader of all that smacks of sob sisters and sensationalism.

As a member of the journalistic profession, Mr. Hearst has learned to appreciate the worth of publicity and now seems determined to use it to his own advantage.

In Mr. Hearst's blundering style, he has again made his aims so obvious that they become ludicrous.

If William Randolph Hearst is our country's protector against all wrong, we should hesitate to see one of its enemies.

OUR "SOFT" CLIMATE

BY HARRY BOWLING

In its issue of October 18 the Saturday Evening Post paid our city a compliment by devoting many columns to an investigation of our extraordinary and unparalleled success in growth and development. The author, Garet Garrett, as was to be expected from so able a researcher, displayed considerable acumen and insight in marshaling his facts and arriving at his conclusions. He plumbed deep into the mystery of Los Angeles and brought to the surface many delectable paradoxes, calculated to create interest in and invite speculation on the wonder city of the West.

Had Mr. Garrett been content to attribute our biggest pulling power to the attraction of our climate, few residents of Southern California would have crossed swords with him on this contention. But when he qualifies this by calling that climate "soft" and emphasizes this supposed "softness" by iterating and reiterating it throughout his article—it seems not amiss to call to his attention some physical facts bearing on his assumption.

Brawn, physical stamina, strength and athletic prowess are not born of climates that soften and atmospheres that enervate. Yet distinctly they are products of the climate enjoyed by residents of Southern California, so exuberant and so irrepressible, that they have left their mark in every field of outdoor sport, national and international.

The Junior Olympic Games held at Atlantic City have supplied in the last three years irrefutable evidence of what our climate can do for vitalizing youth. In 1928 Southern California boys, competing against the pick of the rest of the country, won first, third and fourth places among the older competitors and first, second and fourth in the younger division. It was a Southern California runaway.

Again in 1929 five out of the ten trophy cups and twenty-two of the thirty-two gold, silver and bronze medals, awarded in national finals, were carried back to the Pacific Coast by Southern California boys. The results of this year's games are fresh in the memory of all who follow sport news. The eight boys with the Los Angeles label who brought away with them cups of victory form an aggregate of youthful athletes no other section of the country has so far duplicated. Joe Andrade won the junior championship, Sam Waxman was second and Louis Haley third, raised and trained on Southern California climate.

Among the winners on the diamond and the gridiron, at field games and track meets, in water sports, polo, golf, tennis and all outdoor athletics, "made by the climate of Los Angeles" is written in large letters. Surely Mr. Garrett failed to notice its main attributes when he so hastily branded it "soft."

The 1928 International Olympic Games threw considerable light on the brand of runners bred under the climatic "softness" of Southern California. In the Marathon, the most gruelling long-distance test for lungs and limbs, Harry Chauca of the Sherman Indian School proved himself one of the best endurance runners of the world. The three most famous sprinters of the century are Charles Paddock, Frank Wykoff and Charlie Borah, all sons of Southern California. Not much softness here, Mr. Garrett!

Tennis records are filled with the names of experts trained on Los Angeles climate. From the first woman champion, May Sutton, to the present one, Helen Wills, our girls have led the world as wielders of the racket. For Helen Wills, though not a daughter of Los Angeles, is the product of similar California climatic conditions. No one who finds Oakland bracing would contend that Los Angeles lacks the same Pacific tonic. Mary Browne, as famous on the links as on the tennis court, owes her physical stamina to Los Angeles ozone and sunshine. Other names suggest themselves—Bill Johnston, Maurice McLoughlin, Ellsworth Vines, Keith Gledhill, Midge Gladman, Ben Gorchakoff—all made by the climate of Los Angeles.

America this summer held the world polo championship against a crack British team. And the hero of the event was Eric Pedley of Los Angeles. Almost as prominent in international polo is Elmer Boeseke, scion of another Southern California city.

In the first rank of golfers we have George von Elm and Charles Seaver. As swimmers and divers Ludy Langer, Billy Williams, Mickey Riley, Dutch Smith, Georgia Coleman are some who have attained aquatic honors. Two heavyweight boxing champions, Jim Jeffries and Jack Johnson, developed their ruggedness in the Los Angeles climate, while in the lighter weight divisions Fidel La Barba, Jackie Fields, Mushy Callahan and many others recognized at once by ringsiders built up their physique under the same supposedly soft and slumberous skies.

Big league baseball, again, has received numberless recruits from the homes and schools of this balmy environment. Howard Ehmke, the Glendale high school boy; Babe Herman, Tilly Shafer, Snodgrass, Bud Teachout are a few that immediately occur to all baseball fans. All made by the climate of Los Angeles. In such rigorous forms of athletics as rowing and football, calling for teamwork rather than individual prowess, our success is equally well marked.

A team from the University of California, recruited largely from the southern part of the State, won the rowing championship in the 1928 Olympic Games. Our University of Southern California year after year puts football teams in the field able to hold their own with the best competitors from Eastern and Middle West States. No softness visible in our college athletes!

It is presumable that a soft climate might once in a great while produce a champion in one special line, but no soft climate could year after year send forth leaders and experts in every branch of athletics as Los Angeles is consistently doing.

Indeed, Mr. Garrett is the best witness against himself as to the vigorous qualities he failed to discover in this land of sunshine. He describes at length the number of weary or retired citizens from colder and harsher regions who come to Los Angeles to recuperate or to enjoy a dolce far niente existence. And he says that these sooner or later all get back into the harness and become energetic developers of the industrial and civic life of their adopted city.

Nor is the invigorating effect of the Los Angeles climate confined to the lords of creation. In "Lucky" Baldwin's day, the period when horse racing enjoyed its greatest popularity in the United States, horses trained in Southern California won everything in sight on eastern tracks.

Perhaps Mr. Garrett, in compiling his extremely interesting article for the Saturday Evening Post, slipped up on the use of the right synonym. Perhaps when he said "soft," he really meant "pleasant."

LETTERS TO The Times

From Barbers to Blue Laws

GLENDALE, Oct. 20.—[To the Editor of The Times:] May I be permitted space for a statement in opposition to measure No. 26 on the November ballot?

Put forward as a humanitarian measure in behalf of the barbers, it is in reality a Sunday-observance proposition backed by religious interests of the blue-law type.

It proposes to make crimes of acts perfectly proper in themselves and legal six-sevenths of the time, simply because they are done on the remaining one-seventh. Are we short on crime in this country, so that we must needs manufacture crimes out of proper acts?

The American doctrine is that civil government prohibits an act when and because it constitutes an invasion of individual rights; not because the act may be adjudged sinful. If measure 26 carries, the State will be stepping outside the realm of civil affairs into the realm of religion; and if the State takes this first step, will it stop there? Not, we may be sure, if the blue-law zealots have their way about it.

The liberty of conduct which is the natural right of the individual, will if this measure carries be surrendered, no matter what exemptions the law may contain. A Sunday-closing law with eighteen exemptions, which this measure has, and one with no exemptions, are in principle identical. Exemptions do not touch the principle of the law; they are a matter of policy only.

If the voters of California approve this measure they will thereby make Sunday closing the organic law of the commonwealth, incapable of repeal by the Legislature, and unchangeable save by their own votes after the trouble and delay of another initiative campaign; no matter what evils may follow in its train.

LEON A. SMITH.

Courage of Convictions

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 20.—[To the Editor of The Times:] All moral and law-abiding citizens of Los Angeles should take off their hats to Jackson A. Graves for having the backbone to resent the sponsoring of the public reception for William Randolph Hearst at the Biltmore a few evenings ago presided over by the president of the Chamber of Commerce, by sending in his resignation as a member of such organization. He but voiced the sentiments of hundreds of citizens who received invitations, but did not attend, and thousands who if invited would have refused to accept the invitation.

A newspaper baron who uses his newspapers to defend his own unpopularity abroad, and to court support of his own countrymen by self-imposed public receptions, is not worthy of the recognition of loyal Americans.

His newspapers which the public is asked to support would be better serving the public by giving the news than using pages of news space and pictures to exploit the manager and Marion Davies, a motion-picture actress.

Too Many Laws

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Your articles on "Daylight Saving" are splendid and I hope are making an impression. Such a law, with its companion foolishness, Sunday closing, will be the means of vastly increasing the so-termed "lawbreaking" class and sow seeds of revolution among working people. Let's get onto the ballot sheet the question, "No more laws to be passed for five years."

WRECKED SEDAN FOUND LYING ACROSS RAILWAY

Police of Los Angeles and Glendale joined forces yesterday in the investigation of a mystery involving a wrecked sedan which was found shortly after dawn on the Santa Fe Railway tracks in front of 1725 North Main street.

Ownership of the car was traced to Vernon P. Reden of Webster Grove, Mo., who, Glendale officers said, has been living at the Hotel California in that city. When questioned, Reden is said to have told detectives he lent the car to some friends Wednesday night who were planning a party. He knew no more about it, he said, until informed that the machine had been lying on its side by railway employees yesterday morning.

A woman's hat was found near the car and there were bloodstains both on the running board and on the pavement. There was no evidence that the machine had been struck by a train and detectives pointed out that this theory is eliminated by the fact that the car was still lying across the tracks when discovered.

Reden was inclined to treat the matter lightly, but Lincoln Heights detectives are still at work on the case.

SUIT ECHOES RECENT GAS PRICE WAR

Richfield Company Named as Breaking Contract and Station Men Ask Damages

Echoes of the gasoline price war were heard yesterday when David Grogin and Nathan Rose, proprietors of a filling station, filed a suit to compel the Richfield Oil Company to sell them gasoline, despite the fact they were selling another brand for 3 cents less than the standard price adopted by the companies.

The action of the defendant company is asserted to have been "illegal and void" because it was "against public policy," by reason of being "in restraint of trade."

Plaintiffs assert that the Richfield company, acting through a distributor known as the Henry Black Company, refused on September 14, last, to sell them any more gasoline or petroleum products, which refusal is in violation of a contract.

It was because the filling station sold El Camino gasoline at 16½ cents, 3 cents below the price of Richfield gasoline, then posted at 19½ cents, that the defendant company stopped delivering its product, according to the complaint.

Plaintiffs demand $20 a week for loss of profits from September 14, last, $1000 for the loss of customers that "had become habituated" to the use of Richfield products, $5000 for the loss of other profits and $5000 more, if the court does not force "specific performance" by ordering defendant company to supply the plaintiffs' filling station with gasoline.

The suit was filed by Attorney Albert A. Albeck.

SHE WILL BE HOST AT CHILD'S PARTY

Miss Jule Ingram

Because of the unusual interest evinced by Los Angeles children between the ages of 2 and 12 years, and their mothers, in the unique Halloween party tomorrow at Bullock's-Wilshire store, arrangements to accommodate double the number originally planned for have been made by the management of the store.

Much of the interest is due to the announcement that Miss Jule Ingram, teller of children's stories, will act as hostess at the party and will offer a number of her tales. David Leo Tillotson, motion-picture actor, will aid in the entertainment with a one-act playlet, "The Good Little Boy Who Never Said an Unkind Word."

The program will begin at 10 a.m. The luncheon, "fairy-feast," will be served in the tea room. There will be chicken "en cauldron," ice cream and other enticing edibles. Those desiring admission to the party must obtain a ticket at Bullock's-Wilshire. The ticket includes luncheon.

RELIGIOUS PAINTING TO BE UNVEILED

"Last Supper" by Local Artist to Be Displayed at Salvation Army Meeting

Col. Andrew W. Crawford, chief secretary of the western territory of the Salvation Army, will be in charge of the public meeting of the Los Angeles and South Coast division tonight, at which the painting "The Last Supper," by Charles L. A. Smith of this city, will be unveiled. It now hangs in the temple, 832 West Ninth street, where the meeting will be held.

Brig. James C. Bell, divisional commander, announces that the picture is valued at $10,000. Those who wish to see it with the lighting effect now being arranged, are invited to attend the meeting tonight. The canvas is six and a half by eleven feet.

Col. Crawford, accompanied by Maj. E. R. Gifford, young people's secretary for the western territory, and Brig. Arthur Hopkins, field secretary, will make the annual inspection of the work of the Los Angeles and South Coast division tomorrow.

Deputies Hunt Assailant of Youthful Wife

While deputy sheriffs continued their search for her assailant, Mrs. Rose Bruback, 18 years of age, of 225 North Olive street, yesterday was reported still in a precarious condition as the result of a brutal attack Wednesday night by an unidentified man she had accompanied to Azusa in the hope of obtaining employment. She is in General Hospital with a fractured skull.

The Sheriff's office report states Mrs. Bruback went to Azusa with the stranger when he promised to give her immediate employment there. Near the town limits the man stopped the car, stating the engine had become overheated. After a lapse of two hours, the young woman grew impatient and started to leave. An argument ensued, during which the man knocked her down and struck her over the head with a blunt instrument.

Screaming for help, Mrs. Bruback gained her feet and staggered toward a near-by dwelling, while her assailant sped away. Occupants of the house took the young woman to Covina Hospital, where she was treated pending her removal here yesterday.

Deputy Sheriffs Penprase and Gray are heading the search for the assailant.

BROWN CLUB TO HEAR DEAN

Dean R. G. D. Richardson of the graduate school of Brown University will be the guest of the Brown Club of Southern California at a dinner Monday at the Alexandria. He is a graduate of Acadia and Yale universities, a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi and has been a member of the Brown faculty since 1907.

Phone Service to Australia Begins Monday

Seventeen thousand miles will be spanned as a regular thing by the human voice beginning next Monday when the Southern California Telephone Company and other companies operating telephone service in America will connect by radio with the telephones of Australia, according to the announcement yesterday of M. L. Stannard, division manager of the local concern.

The strange thing about the new service is that the telephone voices will travel the long way around the world, according to Mr. Stannard. The service will utilize telephone wires to the Atlantic Coast, the present radio service to Europe, and the radio telephone system of the British postoffice from England to the Antipodes.

Service from Los Angeles will cost $57 for the first three minutes and $19 for each additional minute.

WEALTHY OIL MAN PASSES

Clarence J. Berry Fails to Survive Operation; Fortune First Made in Gold Rush

Stricken with appendicitis as he was returning to Los Angeles from San Francisco last Sunday Clarence J. Berry, 63 years of age, wealthy oil operator who was widely known along the Pacific Coast, died early yesterday at the Good Samaritan Hospital.

His condition was so critical that he was rushed to the hospital as soon as he reached this city and an operation was performed Sunday night. For a time it appeared that he would rally but this hope was short-lived. Death was attributed to gangrene by Dr. Guy Cochran, his attending physician.

THREE JOIN GOLD RUSH

In company with his two brothers, Frank and Fred, Mr. Berry joined the gold rush to Alaska in 1898.

There the three accumulated a fortune within a few years. Clarence Berry returned to San Francisco and invested his newly found gold in oil development projects. He was one of the first to sense the possibilities of oil on the Pacific Coast and at the time of his death was rated as a multimillionaire.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Ethel Bush Berry, he leaves his two brothers and two sisters. They are Mrs. Cora Skelton and Mrs. Nell Smith, both of Los Angeles. A third brother, Henry Berry, former owner of the Los Angeles baseball club, died about seven months ago. The brothers reside in San Francisco.

FUNERAL SUNDAY

Funeral services will be conducted at 11 a.m. Sunday at Forest Lawn chapel. Active pallbearers, according to announcement yesterday, will be Charles S. Wheeler, Jr., W. O. Todd, M. L. Wilde, O. L. Everets, Clarence W. Kolb and Nels Dunn. Honorary pallbearers are yet to be selected.

Mr. Berry was born at Selma and, in addition to his oil activities, he was a director of several institutions. These include the Anglo and London-Paris National Bank, the Anglo National Corporation and the First National Bank of Bakersfield.

Of Interest to Women

Society

by JUANA NEAL LEVY

Opening the season of bridge luncheons the Women's Athletic Club was the setting yesterday afternoon for a number of charmingly appointed luncheon parties. Mrs. Maude Montgomery gave the contract bridge "helps" and the hostesses of the day included Mrs. Charles W. Hinchcliffe and Mrs. William Irving Hollingsworth. Each month throughout the season has different hostesses.

Mrs. Hinchcliffe entertained a large group of friends, the decorations of her table carrying out the fall motif with brass bowls of deep-hued bloksoms and ferns, yellow candelabra lighting the board, with covers arranged for Mrs. Hinchcliffe, Mrs. William J. Chichester, Mrs. Frank Rabe, Mrs. Clarence Gregg, Mrs. Burrall O. Raulston, Mrs. Allen Zent, Mrs. John MacAdam, Mrs. Howard Salisbury, Mrs. George Burrall, Mrs. Frederick Perkins, Mrs. Frank King, Mrs. John Dales, Mrs. John E. Matthews, Mrs. Thomas Ewing, Mrs. Georgia Behermerhorn, Mrs. Henry Chapple, Mrs. S. M. Goddard, Mrs. Frederick Valentine, Mrs. Owen Humphrey Churchill, Miss Margaret Dent and Miss Suzanne Thatcher.

Mrs. Hinchcliffe's son, Charles W. Hinchcliffe, Jr., who has been her house guest for the last four months, returned several days ago to his home in Tucson, Ariz.

Mrs. Hollingsworth entertained her guests at a U-shaped table with Talisen roses, yellow roses, snapdragons and gladioli in the autumn shades, branched candelabra with yellow tapers formed the lighting. Daisty place cards marked the covers for the special guests of honor, Mrs. Frank Caldwell of New York City and Mrs. R. W. Knox of Houston, Tex., and other guests including Mrs. Eugene A. Hawkins, Mrs. Gurdon Wallace Watties, Mrs. Landers, Mrs. Balliet, Mrs. John Gillespie Bullock, Mrs. Eva Downing, Mrs. Wallace, Mrs. John Maurer, Mrs. Edward Pauly, Mrs. Maude Montgomery, Mrs. Ernest B. Rivers, Mrs. Robert Wankowski, Mrs. Frank Pernival Pearld, Mrs. Jay Spence, Mrs. Arthur W. Kinney, Mrs. Harry T. Coffin, Mrs. Irving Bancroft, Mrs. Guy Cuzner, Mrs. Anne Campbell Fitzgerald, Mrs. John Kemp and Mrs. Mark Baldwin Lewis.

Interesting Event

One of the most interesting affairs of the season will be the luncheon tomorrow afternoon with which the president and executive board of the International Desert Conservation League are entertaining members and friends at the Valley Hunt Club in Pasadena, the luncheon to be followed by a preview of the picture "Blazing the Trail of the International Pacific Highway."

Special guests of honor will include Gen. Gomez, representing President Ortiz Rubio of Mexico; Gov. and Mme. Elias Enriquez and Dr. Frank B. Jewett, president of the Bell Telephone Laboratories, while James Foley will be toastmaster, and the Mexican Orchestra of ten pieces from Los Angeles will provide the music of the affair.

A yellow and red motif will carry out the Mexican national colors in autumn flowers and foliage and covers will be arranged for about 100 guests.

Mrs. A. Sherman Hoyt, president and founder of the league, will preside, other officers including Guy C. Fleming, vice-president; Daniel Hunsaker, secretary and treasurer, and the executive board: Dr. George P. Clements, Judge George E. Waldo, James H. Howard, Dr. W. S. Hertzog, Samuel L. Britton, honorary vice-president, and a large coterie of honorary vice-presidents and advisory board. Among those assisting Mrs. Hoyt and the "official family" of the league will be Mr. and Mrs. G. Lawrence Stimson, Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Neff, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bartlett Shidsler, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Pierpont Davis and Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Gibbs.

Luncheon Bridge

Mrs. Frank Dick of 4942 Marathon Boulevard, entertained with a luncheon and bridge Tuesday afternoon at the Chapman Park Hotel honoring Mrs. J. C. Woods, Mrs. L. W. Snow and Mrs. Benison, other guests including Mrs. S. A. Selover, Mrs. Sarah Mattoey, Mrs. Thomas Pascoe, Mrs. C. S. Kious, Mrs. H. I. Nance, Mrs. J. J. Hummell, Mrs. W. A. Morehouse, Mrs. William C. Thornton, Mrs. William H. Wagner, Mrs. G. E. Raymond, Mrs. H. S. Greiber, Mrs. Andrew J. Copp, Mrs. J. F. Maher and Mrs. Peter Mohrbacker.

Pre-Orchestra Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Irwin Rogers entertained informally last evening with a dinner at their home in Crescent Drive, Beverly Hills, taking their guests to the orchestra concert afterward. Those included were Miss Anna Katherine Flint, Charles Lawler and Robert Rogers Wilson.

Smart Affair

A charmingly appointed dinner party was given in the Gold Room of the Maryland, Pasadena, Wednesday evening by Mrs. B. M. Layne of Beverly Hills, honoring Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Carter, who arrived in Southern California recently on the City of Los Angeles from Honolulu, planning to pass the winter at The Maryland in the Crown City. Sixteen guests were bidden, the table being beautifully decorated with a profusion of bright red flowers, and tall tapers in the same shades. After dinner the guests were motored to a theater in Los Angeles, for the evening's divertisement.

Campus Notes

Pledge presentations are the chief social activity among sororities at the University of Southern California, with several of the Greek-letter organizations holding formal teas in honor of their new members, last week.

Pi Beta Phi Sorority gave a formal presentation tea Wednesday afternoon, at the chapter house, 647 West Twenty-eighth street, for Misses Leone Sampson and Margaret Staub of Los Angeles, Misses Christy Fox and Nancy Jones of Beverly Hills, Misses Gertrude Davis and Mary Sandberg of Hollywood, Misses Alice Ayars and Bernardine Olson of Glendale, Misses Isabella Smith and Dorothy Bauer of Pasadena, Miss Mary Harvey of Pomona and Miss Jane Wall of Riverside. These pledge members of Pi Beta Phi were in the receiving line with Miss Miriam De Witt, president of Gamma chapter.

Pledges of Delta Zeta Sorority were presented to other campus Greek-letter groups Thursday afternoon, at the chapter house, 710 West Twenty-eighth street. They include Misses Gladys Buckner, Gladys Goodsell, Mable Alice Hackton, June Holman, Mary Keller, Genevieve Mann, Marie McFadden, Margaret Nelson, Lydia Richman, Charlotte Smole, and Margaret Thomas.

Delta Gamma pledges were honored with a formal reception Wednesday afternoon from four to six, at the chapter house, 639 West Twenty-eighth street. They include Misses Phyllis Richardson, Betty Long, Audrey Stanwood, Betty Jones, Lorraine Naegele, Eleanor Chandler, Marjorie Hill and Jessie Johnston.

Chef Wyman's RECIPES

Every Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

RICE AND BANANAS

One-fourth cupful of rice, two-thirds cupful of water, sliced bananas, one poached egg for each person. Place the rice after washing it in the top of the double boiler, having the water in the bottom part boiling, and the water in the top cold. Cook the rice until tender, then spread it on a well-oiled shallow baking dish and cover it one inch deep with sliced bananas. Place in the oven and allow to bake for fifteen minutes, remove from the oven, place on top of it a poached egg for each service. Garnish with strips of bacon and serve with a parsley sauce.

MAPLE CREAM PIE

Mix in the top of the double boiler one-half cupful of sifted flour, one-half cupful of sugar, a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt and one cupful and four tablespoonfuls of maple sugar, or syrup, and stir and cook until thick and smooth. Remove from the fire and add the well-beaten yolks of three eggs, stirring constantly, return to the hot water and cook for two minutes longer, remove from the fire, add one teaspoonful of vanilla extract and one tablespoonful of butter. Pour into a baked pie shell, make a meringue of the egg whites, return to the oven and slowly brown.

CRAB MEAT SUZETTE

Bake four medium-sized potatoes and cut a slice from one side, like the cover of a box, scoop out the insides with a spoon, being careful not to break the shells, prepare a cream sauce and add to it one cupful of crab meat that has been flaked and heated in the cream. Fill the shells with the crab meat, sprinkle over the top grated parmesan or Swiss cheese, return to the oven and bake until nicely browned. Garnish with parsley and quartered lemons.

RHUBARB PUDDING

Four tablespoonfuls of butter or shortening, one-fourth cupful of sugar, two eggs, one teaspoonful of grated lemon rind, one-half cupful of flour, one cupful and a half of cooked rhubarb, one-half teaspoonful of salt. Butter a pudding dish and dust it with bread crumbs, placing a layer of the bread crumbs, then spread over it the rhubarb, beat the shortening and sugar until creamy, add the well-beaten yolks of the eggs, grated lemon rind, sift the flour and salt together and add it to the mixture; spread this over the rhubarb, place in a moderate oven and bake for twenty minutes. Beat the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth, add one tablespoonful of sugar to them and beat again until stiff, add a half-teaspoonful of lemon juice and drop this by spoonfuls on top of the pudding. Return to the oven and brown slightly.

Mrs. Wyman does not reply to letters, but requests for recipes are answered in the department, PRACTICAL RECIPES, published every Friday.—(All rights reproduce reserved by A. L. Wyman.)

YOUR BABY and MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 6 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema, outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, ties and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

ARE YOU GOING TO GIVE A CHILDREN'S PARTY?

It is a strong mother who can resist the impulse to give a birthday party for her infant. Of course, the baby doesn't enjoy it. He often suffers subsequent distress from indulging in party foods, and from the irritation and indigestion which naturally follow excitement of any kind.

By the time her pride and joy is 2 years of age, however, the mother feels some entertainment is due him. Parties are very much alike for the young child, but there are some pitfalls mothers might avoid to enhance the pleasure of all concerned.

If the child is over 2 years of age and under 5 years, the party had best be scheduled from 2 to 4, with refreshments at 3 and departures promptly at 4. This is a long enough period of excitement for small children, and gives them two hours to recuperate before dinner and bedtime.

SIMPLE REFRESHMENTS

Children over 5 may be entertained from 4 to 6, with the party luncheon at 5 or 5:30 served in the form of a simple supper. Mothers should be told to call at 6 for their children.

The classic ice cream, cake and milk will probably do duty for the small child's refreshments; or very plain sandwiches, weak cocoa, and plain cake or cookies make a suitable lunch.

Each child may carry a favor home with him! this may be a stick of barley sugar, or a man or animal made of toothpicks, dates, figs, raisins and a marshmallow.

For the older children any simple supper menu may be chosen, such as fish or chicken or lamb chops, baked potatoes in cases, some green vegetable, whole-wheat muffins, ice cream, and plain cake or cookies and milk to drink.

Each child may be given a simple favor of some kind, such as the fruit man or candy stick or bright pencils, whistles, or toy autos. These should be alike for everyone, or of two varieties, one for the girls and one for the boys.

ALTERNATE TYPES OF GAMES

As for games, some older person or an older child should map out a routine of games that will keep the children alternately active and quiet. Too many noisy, active games lead to crazy excitement. We have compiled in leaflet form a list of games suitable for parties and this is available to any reader. Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to this department with your request for "Party Games."

Each child should enter into every game. One child is usually chosen to be "it" and whether he wins or loses, he should keep this position for only one game. Then some other child is chosen. Being the "goat" for longer than one game puts the child in an inferior and unhappy position.

Parties are successful if they are short, if each child enters into the games, and if there are no prizes for superior prowess. If favors are distributed, they should be given to each child. A sharp-eyed hostess should see that each child is happily engaged in whatever activity is going on at the moment. Upon such tactful elimination of friction depend each child's happiness and incidentally the happiness of the group.

*Hubbard Squash: Cut a squash in quarters and remove seeds. Bake in a moderately hot oven until tender. Scrape from the rinds into a saucepan, add a large lump of butter and two tablespoonfuls of cream. Mash until all the lumps are gone, then beat until light with a silver fork. Put into a deep vegetable dish, dot with butter, and keep very hot until ready to serve. If care is taken in cutting the squash in uniform size, the squash may be piled on shells in individual portions. The squash baked in the shell has a very delicious flavor.

WHEN THE SANDMAN COMES

A Bedtime Story

MOTHER BROWN HAS ANOTHER SURPRISE

Some folk may diet, if they will,
But as for me, I want my fill.
—Black Pussy.

Mother Brown was still puzzled over Black Pussy. Apparently, Black Pussy had eaten two big dinners and still was hungry. Anyway, that is what Mother Brown thought. She couldn't understand it at all.

Farmer Brown's boy saw how puzzled she was and chuckled. "Tomorrow night you are going to have another surprise," said he.

"What kind of a surprise?" asked Mother Brown.

"Wait and see," replied Farmer Brown's boy. "Just you wait and see. You are going to have another surprise and then you are going to understand why Black Pussy has been growing thin. All I ask is that you do as I tell you to."

Mother Brown good-naturedly agreed to this. "All right," said she, "I'll do just what you tell me."

So the next night she prepared Black Pussy's supper as usual. Farmer Brown's boy was on hand and told her to put it out in the back shed where she usually did and then to wait in the kitchen doorway to see what would happen. Black Pussy at once began to lap up the milk. Then there was a scratching sound. Black Pussy stopped drinking. A look of fright came into her eyes. She turned and ran past Mother Brown into the kitchen and hid under the stove. Mother Brown couldn't understand it at all and turned to go after her; but Farmer Brown's boy called to her.

"Never mind Black Pussy," said he. "You stay right where you can watch Black Pussy's dishes. Do you hear that scratching?"

"Yes," replied Mother Brown. "What is it?"

"Someone wants to come in," said he. "Someone is getting a trifle impatient. I'm going to open the door now."

So Farmer Brown's boy very quietly went over and slid back the little door that covered the hole made for Black Pussy to go in and out of the woodshed. For a minute nothing happened; then, in through the hole, walked a gentleman dressed in black and white. Without hurrying in the least, or without the slightest hesitancy, he walked straight over to Black Pussy's dishes and there made himself quite at home.

He walked straight over to Black Pussy's dishes and there made himself quite at home

In the kitchen doorway Mother Brown stood with such a funny expression on her face. She was looking down at Jimmy Skunk with open-mouthed astonishment. At first she couldn't find her voice. When she did, it was to say, "Why, why, Jimmy acts as if he had been here before."

"He has," chuckled Farmer Brown's boy. "You were so sure that you had been feeding Black Pussy so well, and all the time you haven't been feeding her at all, but have been feeding Jimmy Skunk. Just see how fat the rascal is. Jimmy knows a good thing when he finds it; and when he discovered that he could come in through that cat hole and get a good meal he made the most of it. Now you understand why Black Pussy has been getting thin. We'll have to shut the door on Jimmy. I guess we can afford to feed him and Black Pussy, too. Hereafter, I'll feed Black Pussy in the kitchen and put a meal out for Jimmy just the same."

Then Mother Brown remembered that Black Pussy was still dinnerless, hiding under the kitchen stove, and she hurried to prepare a good big dinner for her.

Chef Wyman to Demonstrate Her Recipes For Pie

There is one Mexican dish which, properly prepared, is relished in almost every American home, and that is a tamale pie, but to be perfect a tamale pie must be carefully seasoned. Chef Wyman has a recipe for a most delectable tamale pie that is a whole meal in itself and yet is very inexpensive.

In response to several requests, she will prepare this at the Los Angeles Times free cooking school today. And by way of contrast to this plebeian dish she will also make that aristocrat of pies—a lemon chiffon pie. Other recipes to be demonstrated are a chocolate cream roll with marshmallow filling, a persimmon pudding and an unusually delicious German torte made with layers of jam and frosting, known as Linzer torte.

A program like this should bring every woman interested in cooking to the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway, at 2 p.m. today for Chef Wyman's demonstrations are so explicit that everyone who watches her preparation of a dish can readily duplicate it.

Can You Do Your Housework

If you are not as well as you want to be, if you are weak, nervous or rundown, give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial. Take at least three bottles. It will tone up your whole system and help you to eat better, sleep better and feel better.

Mrs. Marie Vriesman, 2002 Lexington Ave., New York, New York.

"My work is keeping a rooming house in New York. I was weak and tired and didn't seem to feel well at all. Some friends told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took it four times a day. It has helped me very much. I feel better in all ways now."

Ask Your Friend

Mrs. Paulina Pascuzzi, 316 Tremont Ave., East Orange, New Jersey

"I never had any appetite and I could not sleep well, and I was irregular and often suffered from headaches because of my age. I read a booklet left at my door, and so I took eight bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have also taken the Herb Medicine. I feel stronger in every way now. I have gained weight and am not nearly so nervous and can do my housework without getting too tired."

Edna Slurzff, 1129 DalySt., Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

"I was completely rundown from nursing. I took four bottles of your medicine with very good results. I have been a nurse for twenty years without losing a patient, I am proud to say. I will continue to recommend any of the Lydia E. Pinkham products at any time and you may use my name."

HOME DECORATION TALKS—NO. II

by Fay Fraser

PLAY TIME

During the rainy season on the Coast, and especially up North, children are confined indoors. Tired mothers know how unpleasant it is to have them romping and shouting through the house. Yet these children certainly deserve a place in which to play.

I have met a number of mothers who have fixed up their spare room, or even the children's old room, into a joyful place to play. They have had nearly as much pleasure in doing this as the children themselves. They painted grotesque and amusing little figures galloping across the wall. (Any one can do it, my dear, with stencils which can be bought at your nearest paint shop.)

Most of them have used the wonderful new color finish, Flex, to brighten up their children's play rooms. For Flex, in the first place, is surprisingly easy to work with. It is self-leveling, you know. That means no matter which way you paint—sideways or crossways—Flex will dry without brush marks into a hard, time-resistant surface, as smooth and lustrous as hand-rubbed porcelain. It will not chip nor crack. Water proof, you can wash off smudges and children's little finger prints.

Flex comes in twenty charming colors. One mother decorated her children's play room in bright Oriental Red Flex and rich Blue Flex. It cost her only a few hours' time and less than $1.00 for materials. I have found that Flex is sold at almost all good hardware and paint stores. Why don't you make your children's room a real play room? Try it and see how much fun you have yourself in doing it.

COOK BOOK

C. H. M., Ocean Park, Cal. At the present time, I have no cook book on the market, but expect to have inside of the next two or three months. Will keep your letter and inform you when they are out.

VEAL SPAGHETTI IN RING MOLD

E. J., Los Angeles, Cal. Take one small package of spaghetti and cook it in boiling water until tender, drain well, season with butter, salt and paprika. Butter a ring mold, pack it down tightly, and place in a moderate oven, until well heated through, cut two pounds of veal in small pieces, place four tablespoonfuls of butter in a sauce pan, add one thinly sliced onion, and cook until the onion is tender, and slightly browned, then add the meat, and brown on all sides, adding more shortening if necessary. Then add the contents of a can of mushroom sauce, which comes with the Italian dinner, one cupful of tomatoes, one-half teaspoonful of Worchestershire sauce, and simmer until the meat is tender, then add one cupful of cooked peas, or cooked lima beans, turn the spaghetti onto a hot platter, sprinkle with parmesan cheese, and fill the center with the cooked mixture. Garnish with parsley.

COCOANUT LOAF CAKE

Cream one-half cupful of butter or shortening, and cream into it a little at a time, one and one-fourth cupfuls of sugar, then beat in three eggs, adding them one at a time, and beating after the addition of each egg, sift two cupfuls of sifted flour, with four level teaspoonfuls of baking powder, and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, add to the sugar mixture, alternately with a half cupful of milk, and three-fourths cupful of shredded cocoanut. Flavor with one teaspoonful of any extract desired, place in an oiled and floured loaf cake tin and make in a moderate oven about three-quarters of an hour.

PINEAPPLE PUDDING

Butter slices of stale bread, and put them around the bottom and sides of a baking dish, drain the juice, from a can of shredded pineapple and pour the juice over the bread, spread a thick layer of the grated pineapple in the bottom of the dish, press down tightly, and sprinkle with chopped blanched almonds, separate two eggs, beat the yolks with a half a cupful of sugar, beating the sugar in a little at a time; beat the whites until stiff and dry, and fold them into the beaten yolks and sugar. Pour this mixture over the top of the pineapple, place in a medium oven, and bake for twenty-five minutes.

LADY FINGER COOKIES

F. B. Van P., Ontario. One cupful of honey, two eggs, one-half cupful of butter, four cupfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder, half a teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoonful of salt. Warm the honey, and beat the butter into it, add the two well beaten eggs, sift the flour, baking powder, soda, and salt together, and add to the honey mixture. Roll out, and cut in strips, place on a baking sheet, and bake in a rather hot oven.

OVEN CONTROL

For such things as biscuits and cornbread, you want a hot oven, biscuits 450 to 500 deg. F., cornbread 400 deg. F. A moderate oven is from 300 to 350 deg. F.

CORNBREAD

One and a half cupfuls of cornmeal, one-half cupful of white flour, five level teaspoonfuls of baking powder, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, two eggs, one cupful of milk, and two tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Sift the cornmeal, white flour and baking powder together, beat the eggs, add them to the milk and beat into the cornmeal, add the melted butter, sift the sugar with the baking powder. Beat well, pour into an oiled shallow baking pan, and bake from twenty-five to thirty minutes.

for Weber's Bread

FIRST in the city and first in the entire county ...that is the position old fashioned quality has won for Weber's Bread.

By using more Weber's Bread than that made by any other bakery, housewives have voted this loaf the favorite QUALITY bread. Day after day this leadership of Weber's Bread is maintained and increased. Certainly nothing we can say about the quality of the loaf is as convincing as this vote of approval by so many thousands of quality-seeking women buyers.

In the days of the gingham girl, bread quality was closely guarded, because bread was baked at home. Today, even closer supervision is given in the Weber bakeries, where the finest ingredients, the most modern equipment and experienced bakers combine to uphold the reputation of Weber's Bread.

STAR ACTS DUAL ROLE ON SCREEN

Interesting Character Study Given by Lytell in "Brothers"

BY ELENA BOLAND

Lacking somewhat the spectacular effect that it had as a stage play, "Brothers" comes this week to the R.-K.-O. screen, an example of interesting entertainment.

As might be expected, none other than Bert Lytell is to be seen in the double roles of Eddie Connelly and Bob Naughton. Lytell was successful as these two opposite-natured gentlemen in the theater and the camera hasn't in the least spoiled his interpretations.

Of course, one of the most talked-of points about Herbert Ashton, Jr.'s play was the fact that Lytell was forever disappearing through one door as Eddie and instantly popping out of another as Bob. Sometimes it was vice versa and sometimes it was a bit confusing, but it was always good for a marvel. Because of both the limitations and the greater freedom of the camera this illusion is quickly dissipated. The screen permits Lytell to come face to face with himself more than once; but when it comes to carrying himself upstairs and to similar other close relationships it is immediately evident that the camera can go just so far and no further.

The story of "Brothers" is one which is of interest to the many. As it stands, rather well directed by Walter Lang, it shows the lives of twin brothers, both adopted from an asylum—one by the rich and one by the poor. Lytell's separate characterizations are nicely done. As Eddie, growing up in the slums, he is simple and good-hearted. To Bob, the weakling heir to wealth, he gives a portrait of a man who would like to do better but can't. Always prone to the theatrical, Bert Lytell has here toned both pictures with a fine restraint and has extracted from each the maximum of sympathy.

Many good moments in this film are to be divided among various members of a business-like cast. Maurice Black as the dumb bootlegger, brings real and delightful comedy into the court-room scene. Unfortunately, Francis McDonald meets an early death, just as he is beginning to be a dominating menace.

No more than a fleeting glance was allotted to Rita Carlyle, a bit of flotsam from the streets; yet she is to be remembered among the first.

Others who did their bit and excellently were Dorothy Sebastian, Richard Tucker, Claire McDowell, Jessie Arnold, William Morris and Frank McCormack.

Headlining the stage bill is a gentleman who describes himself as "The Dashing Gallant From Budapest." With full orchestration Count Vici makes his entrance as leader of a band of musical girls. His act ranges from assorted American melodies to the "Overture of 1812."

Quite a few laughs were given the house by the other two sketches. Wisecracks and songs were presented by Carleton and Ballew, requiring several encores to pacify their public. Dezso Retter also tried to sing, but gave it up in favor of the novelty of wrestling with himself.

SLAYING OF CAT UPSETS WIFE

She Remembers It Five Years to Use in Divorce Suit

The death throes of a stray cat, shot by Elmer E. Harriman in the autumn of 1925, were remembered by Mrs. Emily Harriman as an instance of cruelty in her divorce petition, on file yesterday.

Harriman's remarks on the occasion of the cat's death were asserted to have been cruel. He said, "That was the thirty-sixth cat I have killed in this garden," according to his wife.

Mrs. Harriman added that her husband had a "mania" for displaying firearms, and that once he "pulled a gun" in a street car, terrifying her as well as the other passengers. He also threatened to "knock her block off" and crack her neck, she asserted.

HORTON SLAYING CASE PAIR'S TRIAL DELAYED

Trial of Lloyd Dye and Gordon Gauss, charged with the murder of Wade Everett Horton, Mint Canyon recluse, was continued until November 5 by Superior Judge Fricke yesterday. The two defendants are accused of shooting the aged prospector when he resisted an attempt to rob him.

NEWCOMER TO WIN LASKY ROLE

William V. Mong Again to Play Merlin in "Yankee;" Robinson Slated for "Charlie Chan Carries On;" Theodore Kosloff Produces for Ziegfeld

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

So extremely well is June McCloy of the New York stage acquitting herself in Douglas Fairbanks's current United Artists' vehicle, "Reaching for the Moon," that Edmund Goulding, who is directing, announces that Miss McCloy will have the leading feminine role in his next Paramount picture, both he and the blond actress being under contract to Lasky.

Miss McCloy was formerly one of the principals with the Earl Carroll "Vanities" and George White "Scandals" in New York. Now she is revealing a natural talent for talking pictures.

As soon as Goulding finishes "Reaching for the Moon" he is going to England to visit his mother at his London home and will spend Christmas in the home of the Christmas pantomime, the yule log and the plum pudding.

"Reaching for the Moon" is an entirely different story from what it was originally, Irving Berlin's main idea, of course, being kept, but each part tailored, so to speak, to the various principals.

Goulding and United are trying a new idea as regards the hand-picked chorus of fifteen lovely girls. They are being trained in a group as to dancing and athletics and are even eating their food at the expense of United Artists.

WILLIAM V. MONG GETS ORIGINAL ROLE

Just one member of the original cast of Fox's "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," will appear in the new version, in which Will Rogers is to star.

WILLIAM V. MONG

That member is William V. Mong, who, it is remembered, distinguished himself in the sinister role of the wizard Merlin whom the Yankee puts to rout.

Myrna Loy has been assigned the role of Queen Guinevere in the picture, while Lumsden Hare will play King Arthur. These have been secured in addition to Will Rogers, Maureen O'Sullivan and John Garrick.

EDWARD ROBINSON SLATED FOR CHAN

If negotiations now going forward are completed, no less accomplished an actor than Edward G. Robinson will play the role of the clever philosophical, lovable old Chinese detective. Charlie Chan, in "Charlie Chan Carries On," which Fox is to produce, adapted from the magazine story of the same name.

EDWARD G. ROBINSON

Robinson lately played the role of the Americanized Chinese Charlie in Universal's "East Is West," and is said to have made a splendid job of it. He was formerly of the New York stage, but was brought west by Universal.

Norman Taurog Directs

Norman Taurog is to direct Leon Errol in "The Haddocks," which Paramount is to adopt from Donald Ogden Stewart's stories of those traveling worthies. The announcement was made yesterday.

The director has been in New York, directing for Paramount, but is returning within a few days.

Kosloff With Ziegfeld

More and more Theodore Kosloff, originally identified solely with the Russian ballet, and with pictures, is turning to stage producing.

Now word reaches us from New York that Mr. Kosloff has been engaged by no less discriminating an impresario than Florenz Ziegfeld to produce Marilyn Miller's next show, "Smiles."

"Smiles" will open in New York at the Ziegfeld Theater in November, but is to have a previous tryout in Boston at the end of this month.

Rowland V. Lee Home

Rowland V. Lee returned yesterday from New York. Following his parting with Paramount, which was by mutual consent, following four and a half years as director, Lee is pleasantly anticipating his work as a free lance, in which status he will hve greater scope, he says, in choosing the stories he will direct. He returns with a portfolio of rights and options on plays and stories.

Eisenstein Film Postponed

Just what is behind it all, if indeed there is anything significant, nobody seems to know over at Paramount, but the fact remains that Sergei M. Eisenstein, Russian director, is not, for the present at least, to direct the picture for which he was engaged.

SERGEI M. EISENSTEIN

The statement of the Paramount studios, which is a terse one, is as follows: "The preliminary agreement between the Paramount Publix Corporation and Sergei M. Eisenstein has been terminated by mutual consent, it having been decided to postpone for the present production of the subject on which Mr. Eisenstein's unit has been working."

Wesley Ruggles's Contract

That skillful director, Wesley Ruggles, who has made so many successes during the past two years, has been given a new R.-K.-O. contract, we learn.

Under the terms of this contract he is to direct three pictures next year. One of these will be a special, the other two program pictures. At present Ruggles is directing Edna Ferber's "Cimarron," which promises to be one of the finest pictures R.-K.-O. has turned out.

As soon as he completes the picture, Ruggles will take a trip to New York, where he will have a chance to escort his fiancee, Katherine Crawford, to shows and parties, Miss Crawford having gone east to continue her stage career. If he finds time, he may take a flyer to Europe for a week or two.

Irene Dunne to New York

Just as soon as Irene Dunne finishes her leading role in "Cimarron," she is to take a trip to New York to visit her parents.

Louise Fazenda Home Soon

Those fans who have been missing Louise Fazenda, and those Malibu neighbors who have been missing the cookies which she makes every Sunday morning and passes over the fence, may be consoled. Miss Fazenda and her husband, the First National producer, Hal Wallis, are returning to Hollywood early in November.

Clive Brook Assigned

No less engaging an actor than Clive Brook, we learn, has been assigned an important part in George Bancroft's next Paramount starring vehicle. So far the picture has no title.

NEWS OF THE CAFES

Under the direction of Mrs. J. Ward Cohen (Jacqueline Saunders) retiring president of the Film Welfare League, an organization comprising the wives of noted personalities of the motion-picture colony, a bridge luncheon and fashion show, the latter staged by Bess Schlank of Hollywood, will take place in the Blossom Room of the Roosevelt Hotel next Wednesday. The Film Welfare League has as its purpose rendering assistance to destitute film families. Proceeds from the luncheon and fashion show, which will be open to the public, will be used for charity, as will also a commision from all of Miss Schlank's gowns sold at the affair. Modeling the gowns at the fashion revue will be ten film actresses who will parade the length of the Blossom Room to music furnished by Ted Weems and his orchestra.

DANCE CONTEST TONIGHT

Many society and collegiate ballroom dancers have entered the dancing contest which will be given tonight at George Olsen's new club, Culver City, as an added feature with the fall revue. Frank Richardson, popular screen comedian, will act as master of ceremonies. The Mosconi Brothers, dance instructors, will serve as judges. Olsen will present a handsome silver trophy cup to the winning couple. This will be the twenty-seventh Friday night dancing contest held at Olsen's, and since April 25 a total of $1000 in gold and more than two dozen silver trophy cups have been awarded as prizes. Several previous winners will compete in tonight's event, which will begin promptly at midnight.

NEW WINTER REVIEW

Frank Reiter's Oaks Tavern Cafe, West Fourth near Hill street, is opening tomorrow night with a new "Winter Review" consisting of new chorus numbers, entertainment features and a nine-piece orchestra. Two dance floors are now available for dancing until 1 a.m. A regular policy of a luncheon dansant and evening dinner dance with no cover charge has been announced. There is also a special professional midnight show every Saturday from 12 to 3 a.m.

CARRILLO HONORED

A dinner party honoring Leo Carrillo, stage star, will be given by a group of friends tomorrow night at the Casa La Golondrina, Olvera street. A number of character interpretations will be given by Mr. Carrillo at this time, according to Senora Bonzo, hostess, who also announces preparation for entertaining schools and social organizations, several already having been scheduled for the coming month.

FANO BACK AT GRILL

C. Fano, chef and proprietor of the Teris Grill, on West Sixth street near Witmer, has returned after an absence of several months. Many new French and Italian delicacies are planned for patrons, according to Mr. Fano who formerly was with the Fred Harvey system as well as several well-known New York hotels.

REYNA MURDER TRIAL DELAYED TO MONDAY

Continuance of the trial of Juan Reyna, charged with the murder of Verne A. Brindley, Los Angeles police officer, was granted until Monday by Superior Judge McComb yesterday upon the request of Dep. Dist.-Atty. Bialock. At a previous trial, the jury failed to agree and a new trial was ordered. The defendant is accused of shooting the officer with his own gun after Reyna had been arrested for a traffic offense.

RODZINSKI WINS GREAT OVATION

Concert Indicates Renewed Symphonic Vitalization

Excellent Example Given of Program Building

Musical Rendering Receives High Appreciation

best examples indeed of program construction during the Rodzinski regime.

The Bach-Resphigi "Passacaglia," new here, is of a large pattern, grandly orchestrated, perhaps at times even grandiosely, but a very notable adaptation in its tonal bigness. Respighi's effects more than justify themselves in this case in reflecting the sublimate strength of the original, which is after all of the Promethean order.

The step to Brahms was logical, and the entrance into the first movement of the work exquisitely achieved in the Rodzinski interpretation. In fact, that first section of the symphony set the mood high for the entire rendition. The quality throughout was unusually meritorious, though perhaps most satisfying in the third and portions of the final passacaglia movement. The Rodzinski reading seemed inclined to give stress especially to the dramatic facets—if one may call them that—of the naturally philosophic Brahms composition. In that vein, the interpretation appeared more than noteworthy, and of undoubted attraction. One could perhaps ask for something more in introspective depth, but the reading was characterised by its unique brilliance and often its romantic feeling.

BOLERO CLIMAX

Colorful as a pastel panorama, Debussy's "La Mer," beautifully and outstandingly done in many of its phases, was productive of pleasure. The Gambols of the Waves (second section) seemed particularly expressive. The close of the Dialogue between the Wind and Sea was dynamic.

It was the Bolero that provided the climaxing feat, however, in a rendition that glamorously revealed the power of this diabolically clever musical invention. Rodzinski gave the cue to the tempo for a few measures and then laid down the baton, and let the orchestra go. A glance or a nod here and there to call in the instruments, a suggestion of tempo on occasion, but the organization virtually moved of its own will, pursuing a melody that persistently completes its cycle, following the never-varying drum rhythm.

One must confess that repeated hearings of this strangely cosmic, weirdly monotonous work, which is yet not montonous, only increase is appeal and fascination. It is one of the most remarkable evocations of a modern rhythmic wizard.

The music lover who failed to hear eht concetr cmfwyp pu pu pu hear the concert last evening, should not miss it today.

'Extravagance' Tells Tale of Foolish Wives

As a lesson to young wives, "Extravagance" is showing at the Tower Theater. As a lesson it is an old one; as a picture it proved of interest to an audience.

All that is suggested by the title is supplied in the setting and costuming of this A. P. Younger story, for the scenes of deception occur in the homes of those fashionables who put more than they make onto their backs.

Not erring husbands, but straying, foolish wives form the motivation for the many complications which increase as the plot unfolds. The problems of three weak and charming ladies who can't resist elegance even to the point of bankruptcy become so involved that the final solution can be nothing less than tragedy.

The two young wives who find that they can keep homes and husbands without sacrificing their pleasures and luxuries are played by June Collyer and Dorothy Christy. Because of their accomplished deceits they are able to acquire sable coats and all the trimmings, but, since a moral must be pointed, they are caught in the end.

Since the story is simply a relation of family routine, it is often apt to drag. As directed by Phil Rosen, it is divided into a series of episodes, some of which miss a dramatic punch at their climax.

Lloyd Hughes and Owen Moore appear as two husbands too good to be true, yet they are and it doesn't pay them. Both are capable actors and convincing in their roles.

Much better in her dramatic moments is Miss Collyer, a willful, fascinating daughter of the idle rich. She is apt through a lack of energy to lose the value of her quieter scenes. Although a little monotonous, Dorothy Christy always makes herself an outstanding figure.

But the most finished and forceful personality in the cast is Jameson Thomas, an Englishman whose villainy is suave and penetrating.

ACTRESS WOULD DIRECT

Ruth Chatterton, starring in Paramount's production "The Right to Love," plans to change her present place in front of the camera to the directorial chair at some future date. At the age of 20 Miss Chatterton directed her own stage plays for Henry Miller.

Gifted Actress Graces Stage

Irene Rich

Who enjoys wide popularity for her film characterization will portray the leading part in Jane Murfin's drama, "Women Who Take," starting Monday night at the Mason Theater.

MUSIC AND GOLF MIXED AGREEABLY

Two Ingredients Used to Form Pleasant Romance on Loew's Screen

BY MURIEL BABCOCK

A pleasant, sophisticated musical melange is "Love in the Rough," at Loew's State Theater, with the ingratiating Mr. Robert Montgomery, the wise-cracking Mr. Benny Rubin and the winsome Miss Dorothy Jordan in the leading roles.

"Love in the Rough" is a sound adaptation of the stage play, "Spring Fever," which as a silent picture once served Mr. William Haines as a vehicle. I don't recall either the play or the silent picture, but the present version is a good one, skillfully directed by Charles (Chuck) Riesner.

It has some de luxe music, chief among which is that catchy tune which seems to have most of the younger generation and some of the older in its throes at present. I refer to the piece known as "Go Home and Tell Your Mother." There are a couple of other good tunes, but that one is the best.

It has some pretty good acting, it has an amusing story, and what was termed by one spectator yesterday as just a dash of healthy vulgarity.

As probably a good many people will recall, the plot of the piece deals with a young shipping clerk who is put up by his boss at an expensive country club for two weeks because of golfing prowess. In the two weeks he manages to win a championship and a wealthy bride.

Robert Montgomery is the golfer. He is probably my favorite young leading man these days. He is good looking, he is an excellent actor and he manages to endow everything he does with sort of a gay insouciance. Only, he really shouldn't try to sing.

Mr. Benny Rubin does rather pretty work himself as the Jewish caddy, making everyone of his lines count as heavily as if he were upon Loew's State stage in person. And that's paying Mr. Rubin a compliment.

Dorothy Jordan gives a capable performance in the ingenue role. J. C. Nugent, as Waters, etches a human and likeable portrait. Harry Burns, as the gardener and Roscoe Ates as the hotel proprietor do considerable with minor characterizations.

Fanchon and Marco's "Way Back When" idea is carried out on the stage with dances staged by La Roy Prinze. The Albertina Rasch girls perform, there are some blackface singers, three eccentric dancers and incidental acts.

Downtown to Screen Billie Dove Vehicle

Adapted to the screen from the magazine serial by Frederick Hazlitt Brennan, "One Night At Susie's," starring Billie Dove, starts at Warner Brothers' Downtown Theater today.

An unusual plot, in which Miss Dove is forced to shoot an objectionable suitor rather than subject to his unwelcome attentions, forms the basis of the story.

Heading the supporting cast is Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. John Francis Dillon directed.

BODIL ROSING SIGNED

Bodil Rosing has been signed for her second successive picture at Fox Studio. She will portray the featured role of the cook in "The Spy," starring Edmund Lowe. Miss Rosing recently completed a part in "Stolen Thunder" for Fox.

SPECIAL PREVIEW LISTED

Of the numberless thousands of those who have dialed in each night on Amos 'n' Andy, the first to see the radio idols on the screen will be those in the audience at the midnight matinee preview tonight of "Check and Double Check" at the Orpheum Theater.

By virtue of the special permission authorizing the preview showing, the Orpheum is scoring over 250 other theaters throughout the country, which simultaneously will present the official premiere of the picture tomorrow morning.

Due to the interest shown here in the film debut of the radio stars, the Orpheum has made arrangements to run the maximum number of showings during the first three days. The doors will open tomorrow, Sunday and Monday at 8 a.m., and there will be extra midnight performances on these days.

"Check and Double Check" is said to bring to the silver sheet the rich humor and compelling pathos responsible for the success of Freeman F. Gosden and Charles J. Correll in their radio characterizations. The story of the radio production has woven in its background a romance featuring Charles Morton and Sue Carol. Mel Brown directed.

'BIG FIGHT' PLAYED AT PANTAGES

Guinn Williams and Lola Lane Enact Chief Roles in Cruze Picture

Climaxed with a slashing battle in the squared circle, "The Big Fight," which started yesterday on the Pantages Hollywood screen, serves to introduce Guinn Williams as a very capable film performer. It also adds some laurels to the motion-picture record of Lola Lane, the girl in the case.

Based on the stage play by the same name which co-starred Jack Dempsey and Estelle Taylor in New York, "The Big Fight" dips into the affairs of a heavyweight champion of the world and the attempt to "frame" him by the big-moneyed interests. There is also some side play, centered around the girl's young brother, who gets into trouble with the gamblers.

The vehicle is not one to set the world on fire; it is, perhaps, adequate, but that is about its extent of usefulness. One is never quite sure of the status of the various players, probably because the counter-plot as established is of insufficient strength to become much of an issue.

The main figure in the picture is Tiger, played by Guinn Williams. His characterization is deft and plausible. The greatest thing in his favor is that he doesn't overact the role, rather keeping it restrained, which, in turn, makes it forceful. Miss Lane's portrayal of the fighter's sweetheart is sincerely done.

Other players in "The Big Fight" are Ralph Ince, who is efficient as the gambler; Stepin Fetchit is a comedy relief role, Wheeler Oakman as another underworld character and Edna Bennett who appears briefly.

The film, a James Cruze production, was directed by Walter Lang, who made the most out of the skimpy plot. Walter Woods did the continuity and adaptation.

On the stage the "Official United States Indian Reservation Band" holds forth, with Chief Shunatona as head man; Brenck's Golden Horse and Bella Donna do tableaux; Slim Martin leads the orchestra, with Oscar Taylor singing, and the Pantages girls dance very well, indeed.

'LAUGHTER' A SERIOUS FILM PLAY

Directorial Gem Flashes at Paramount; Fredric March Excels

BY PHILIP K. SCHEUER

Smart as "Holiday" was smart, and a much better screen play, "Laughter" came to the Paramount Theater yesterday. A delicately balanced, smoothly oiled piece of mechanism, it distilled an atmosphere so thin you could hear a pin crash, so tense you wouldn't stop to pick it up. Gay and whimsical at first, its badinage stretched taut across your nerves before you knew it, and then a revolver shattered the atmosphere and the picture was over.

Primarily a drama of characterization, "Laughter" disdains all the formulae of the movies; it is distinctly a product of the times, constructed like a play in the theater and yet making use of the opportune camera. Although its treatment is esthetic, in content it is extraordinarily simple and direct; so much so, indeed, that it is apt to be confused with what for want of a more suitable word we call "highbrow." "Laughter" contains many elements of popularity, but it will not, more's the pity, be popular.

Made at the Paramount eastern studio, the film is Harry D'Abbadie D'Arrast's production of a story written by himself and Douglas Doty, with some of the grandest dialogue you ever heard, contributed by Donald Ogden Stewart. Stewart, the author of the play "Rebound," has a facility for capturing civilized people in midspeech and putting them on paper, there to remain until good actors come along and set them to speech again. The good actors here are Fredric March, Frank Morgan, Nancy Carroll and Diane Ellis.

Mr. March, if you want to quibble over words, is not merely good—he is quite perfect. He plays Paul Lockridge, something new in composers. Lockridge's ability in music is characteristic of the man himself: always obliging, he will run through a Beethoven sonata, if you like—or if you don't, a little jazz such as say, "R'arin' to Go." One of the most delightful "touches" of this or any other season depicts Lockridge at the piano, improvising an amazed duet with Benham, who is C. Mortimer Gibson's butler, while C. Mortimer Gibson himself stands outraged in his tracks.

It is typical of the quality of "Laughter" that the moneyed class is portrayed a great deal like the moneyed class, and not like performers in a De Mille circus. The moneyed ones in this case are Mr. Morgan, Miss Carroll and Miss Ellis, as the Gibsons—husband, wife and stepdaughter. Mr. Morgan is reserved and expert; Miss Carroll is expert enough, but something less than ideal as the Follies girl who married money; and Miss Ellis, whom I seem to remember as one of the worst actresses in silent pictures, emerges as a poised and articulate stepdaughter of wealth. Glen Anders gives a brooding interpretation of an impoverished sculptor, and Leonard Carey is Benham, the butler.

"Laughter" is Mr. D'Arrast's first credited directorial effort in the talkies. Always associated with adult, intelligent vehicles, he almost never descends to the cheap or obvious; and some of his individual scenes—like that current one in which the lost motorists ask two gentlemen of the road how to get to "the ocean"—are incomparable. Why, one is constrained to inquire, was it necessary for him to backdrop certain outdoor views?

The stage show is sluggish, routine. The Pasquali brothers, as always, tumble with celerity, and Andy and Louise Carr tap-dance sufficiently well, but there is not a great deal more to look for in this one. In addition a Paramount Sound News and a very bad comedy with Lulu McConnell are on exhibition.

Brazilian Government Stands Firm as Rebels Report Revolt Spreading

Although Brazilian revolutionaries claim practically all of the republic as under revolutionary rule, the States of Sao Paulo and Rio de Janeiro where the wealth and military power are concentrated, have not been threatened. Military authorities believe that the government troops concentrated in this area are capable of defeating any force the revolutionaries may assemble. These troops are trained soldiers equipped with every modern engine of war and backed by unlimited funds. The above map, drawn by Charles H. Owens in collaboration with S. Fred Hogue, Times staff correspondent, Illustrates the situation as it appears according to latest news dispatches.

TOWER ARTS BUILDING TO BE STARTED

Construction on $300,000 Vermont-Avenue Project Scheduled for December

Construction is scheduled to start in December on the limit-height Tower Arts Building, to rise at the southwest corner of Twelfth street and Vermont avenue, Lloyd A. Rally, architect, who now is completing plans, announced yesterday. H. E. Rawlinson, president of the Los Angeles Conservatory of Music and Arts, is the owner. The contract has been awarded the Winter Construction Company. The total investment, including site, will be approximately $300,000.

The building will be of Class A fireproof construction, modern in design, the main portion forming a thirteen-story tower in French-Norman style, with a higher tower supporting a spire for radio antennae for a new broadcasting station.

Tower floors will be divided into groups of studios. The school will move from its present building at 715 South Park View street. Above the theater auditorium, which will be finished in the later Italian manner, will be additional studios and a smaller auditorium. A roof garden will be provided above the auditorium wing. Construction is to be completed by September, 1931.

FEDERAL GRAND JURY TO GET LIQUOR CASES

United States Commissioner Head yesterday held Malcolm McLeod and Robert T. Oliver, both of Santa Monica, to answer to the Federal grand jury on a charge of possession of five gallons of liquor. Joseph C. Hamilton, accused of possession of four cases of liquor, was also held to the grand jury.

DAM SITE DATA TO BE AIRED

Grand Jury Will Get Engineers' Report Today on San Gabriel Excavation Cost Charges

Definite information concerning charges that Los Angeles county was overcharged $700,000 for excavations on the abandoned San Gabriel dam site, will be made public today when the committee of specially appointed engineering experts submits its report to the county grand jury.

A special session of the inquisitorial body was called for today by Frederic I. Morris, foreman, after a lengthy conference on Wednesday between the engineers and the grand jury committee in charge of the investigation.

The San Gabriel Dam project was abandoned nearly a year ago when earth slides became so prolific that further work was deemed impossible. Subsequent inquiry disclosed earth faults which caused experts to veto the plan to construct a dam at this point.

Recently private engineers raised the question of whether a true report had been made of the amount of earth excavated at the time the project was abandoned, for which the contractors were paid. The grand jury, seeking accurate information on the subject, appointed Franklin Thomas, R. V. Meikel and Porter Albright, engineers, as a committee of experts to survey the excavations and report back their findings.

Although a rough draft of the engineers' report already has been read by the grand jury committee, its contents will not be made public until today, when it will be read to the grand jury as a whole.

ZIEGEMEIER RITES TO BE TOMORROW

Rear-Admiral Will Be Buried at Forest Lawn Following Services

Forest Lawn Memorial Park will be the last resting place of Rear-Admiral Henry Joseph Ziegemeier, commandant of the Thirteenth Naval District with headquarters at Puget Sound Navy Yard, who fell dead last week in Bremerton, Wash., while playing golf.

The body will arrive here tomorrow morning from Bremerton accompanied by his widow and friends. A short funeral service will be conducted at 10 a.m. at the family lot at Forest Lawn.

The admiral was 61 years of age. He had seen 21 years of sea duty, had served in two wars and had been commandant of the Norfolk Navy Yard and the Great Lakes Naval Training Station. During the World War he made seven round trips to Europe as commandant of the U.S.S. Virginia convoying transports carrying troops. He was made a rear-admiral in 1922.

Rear-Admiral Ziegemeier leaves his widow, Mrs. Jewel Riddings Ziegemeier, whom he married in Los Angeles in 1921; a 7-year-old daughter, Rosemary, and a cousin, Mrs. William F. Stermer of Pasadena.

ADMIRAL TO BROADCAST

Navy Post, American Legion, has arranged a broadcast program Monday, Navy Day, from the reception room of Mayor Porter's suite in the City Hall at 11:45 a.m., it was stated yesterday by Burton L. Hunter, past commander of the post. Admiral Schofield, commanding the battle fleet, will be present, with Mayor Porter and other officials.

Its genuine economy contributes to the loyalty of those who know it best

MOST PEOPLE are aware to what a degree the distinguished beauty of the Lincoln, its unfailing power and strength, are responsible for the continued enthusiasm of the Lincoln owner. Yet these people may not know . . . or, at least, fully appreciate . . . that such long-continued loyalty derives in a large measure from the Lincoln's outstanding economy.

As a matter of fact, it is a continual source of surprise to Lincoln owners that an automobile of this power can be kept in perfect condition, year after year, at so low a cost. Not infrequently a Lincoln will show 40,000 miles on its speedometer, and yet have a genuinely negligible repair bill for parts. To all practical purposes, the Lincoln simply refuses to wear out.

Naturally, a direct relation must exist between the economy of owning a Lincoln and the way the Lincoln is made. Precision operations that range in delicacy to one-fifteenth of a hair's breadth are rigidly maintained both in the manufacture of its separate parts, and in the assembly of the car as a whole. The quality of basic materials is unfalteringly high. And behind each car are the entire resources of the Ford organization.

If it were not for this fact, you could not buy a car of the Lincoln's uncompromising excellence at anything like the Lincoln's price. The amount you pay for this motor car . . . and one may be bought for as little as $4200 f.o.b. Detroit . . . is but another evidence of the Lincoln's true economy, extending throughout a long period of ownership.

Purchasing it as a fundamentally sound investment . . . driving it, year after year, under the most trying conditions . . . the Lincoln owner receives every advantage that can come with a fine motor car. And in time, a confidence in its style and safety, in its endurance, comfort and speed, becomes the basis of a satisfying and personal relationship.

The Brunn Brougham. . . . In this all-weather Brougham, the designer has displayed a notable ability to combine true aristocracy of line with impressive simplicity of mass. Unusual privacy and seclusion are assured by the high sides and deeply set seats. A distinct advantage is that front doors are hinged at the front, while the wide rear doors are hinged at the back, virtually eliminating space between the doors. Among other formal types are the Willoughby Limousine, the Judkins Berline, the Brunn Cabriolet, and the LeBaron Cabriolet. Open types are also available, including the Sport Phaeton, the Locke Sport Roadster, and the Dietrich Convertible Coupe.*

EXTORTION PLOT ARRESTS MADE

Aliens Declared Victimized by Jailed Trio

Large Sums Reported Paid to Fake Officers

Two Men and Women Taken by Federal Agents

Ramifications of a gigantic extortion ring, with alien Japanese, Hindus and Mexicans as victims, were revealed yesterday when Federal authorities arrested two men and a woman and placed the trio in jail on charges of securing money through threats and representing themselves as United States officers.

The three under arrest are:

Clinton Heskett, 54 years of age, of 4916 South Van Ness avenue, declared by Federal officers to be a former investigator in the District Attorney's office.

Pete Perrotte, 40, 1234 South Norton avenue, a former investigator in the District Attorney's office.

Mrs. Rachael Sinclair, 38, of 4916 South Van Ness avenue, asserted to be a close friend of Haskett, and making her home at his residence.

ACCUSED BY JAPANESE

Apprehension of the three was affected by United States Inspector of Border Patrol De Vine, assisted by Deputy Sheriffs Cloud and Aires after they had investigated charges placed by Japanese farmers. The Japanese claimed that Harkett and Perrotte forced them to pay "hush" money over asserted discrepancies found in their immigration papers.

The investigation disclosed, according to De Vine, that the two men, using the woman as their chauffeur would appear at various ranches where Japanese, Hindus and Mexicans were employed as workmen and demand to see their entry papers. The men represented themselves to be United States immigration officials and at other times investigators from the Sheriff's office, the officers reported.

FARMER BALKS

Revelation of the asserted "shakedown" ring, described by the Federal officers as covering all of Southern California, came after T. Sonoda, a Japanese farmer, residing near Downey, balked at the "terms" offered by the extortionists.

Sonoda, who does not speak English, reported the visit of the trio to an interpreter, who in turn told the story of the attempts to secure $500 to the Sheriff's forces at Norwalk. Federal officials were then notified.

No estimate of the amount of money secured through the asserted nefarious scheme was attempted by the Federal authorities, but it was learned that at least six asserted victims of the "racket" have identified Heskett and Perrotte as persons to whom they have paid tribute. In the pockets of Heskett, following his arrest, the officials discovered a note for $650. It was signed by a Japanese farmer and is believed by the investigators to have been secured through the extortion scheme.

MANY KEEP MUM

A complete check-up on the asserted activities of the ring will be impossible, according to De Vine. Hundreds who have paid tribute to the scheme will not appear to make charges for fear of deportation, he said. In some instances alien farmers who are in California according to immigration laws were forced to pay money to protect employees on their lands, De Vine said.

Threats of immediate deportation, charges of robbery, and kindred accusations were used in forcing the payment of different amounts, according to the Federal officers.

Sight-seeing Trip Nears End

LIEUT. H. KITAMURA of the Japanese Imperial army and two engineers of the Nipponese kingdom, K. Kigu and T. Nagata, arrived on the Southern Pacific's Argonaut yesterday for a two-day stay in Los Angeles.

"We have been on a year's journey of sight-seeing in the United States and now we are on the way back," Lieut. Kitamura said. "This country is wonderful. We'll leave in two days for San Francisco and will sail for home next Friday."

"We were particularly impressed," Mr. Kigu said, "by Pittsburgh and the great plants there — like the Westinghouse."

Nagata ventured the information that their brief stay here will be taken up partly by looking over Hollywood.

The party is at the Olympic Hotel.

AIR CHIEF WILL RIDE NEW LINE

Young Expected on First Westbound T. and W. A. Ship Due Here Sunday

Clarence M. Young, assistant Secretary of Commerce, in charge of aviation for the Federal government, is expected to be a passenger on the first westbound air transport of Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., operating on a thirty-six-hour all-air schedule from New York to Los Angeles—due here at 8 p.m. next Sunday.

Plans are being formulated for a reception at the Alhambra terminal of the line, on Valley Boulevard, for Young and other passengers who will be aboard with the first shipment of mail to be flown on the new schedule. A concert by the Los Angeles Fire Department Band and short addresses by postal heads was being arranged last night.

Meanwhile arrangements have been completed for the send-off of the first eastbound mail and passenger ship that will leave Alhambra for New York tomorrow at 5 a.m. Postmaster P. P. O'Brien of Los Angeles and postmasters of Pasadena, Alhambra and Glendale will be on hand with civic leaders to wish the first load of passengers bon voyage.

Under the new operating system two planes will leave Los Angeles each day for New York, one on the thirty-six-hour schedule and the other on a forty-six-hour trip that is to include railroad transportation from Columbus, O., to New York at night. The thirty-six-hour planes will stop overnight at Kansas City, Mo., while the others will make a night stop at Amarillo, Tex.

POLITICS

THE WATCHMAN

Trend of Political Thought and Action

BY THE SENTRY ON HIS BEAT

Friends of Sidney T. Graves, chairman of the Board of Supervisors, struck back yesterday at those opposing his re-election when Rex B. Goodcell, prominent Los Angeles attorney, openly charged that a newspaper publisher and a minister are dealing in misrepresentation and half truths in an effort to discredit Graves.

"Mr. Graves has always sought to maintain an independent position in public matters, using his own judgment in making decisions and refusing special favors or special considerations to any one," said Mr. Goodcell. "Naturally, he has made many political enemies.

"Now these antagonists are endeavoring to misrepresent facts and color records in an effort to discredit Mr. Graves. They are endeavoring to lay the blame for the San Gabriel Dam fiasco upon Mr. Graves. Yet they ignore the fact that Mr. Graves alone opposed the project, fought consistently against it, and only consented to join with other members of the board in authorizing the work when directed to do so by court order.

"They fail to mention that in the construction of the General Hospital Mr. Graves saved the county nearly $5,000,000. Neither do they give Mr. Graves credit for reducing the county tax levy 10 per cent this year. But the general public will not be misled. Mr. Graves has been a faithful and constructive public servant and he is entitled to re-election."

Despite the fact that they are among the largest users of fertilizer produced from fish, prominent California orange growers are joining the California conservationists in urging the passage of Proposition No. 11, providing for a new Fish and Game Commission with powers to limit the amount of food fish that may be legally converted into fish meal and other by-products. The growers are becoming alarmed over the unchecked depletion of ocean fish. Three of the outstanding orange growers of Orange county, S. James Tuffree, Warren Bradford and Gilbert Kraemer, yesterday declared their support of the proposition.

Fire Chief Scott yesterday announced himself as strongly opposed to Proposition 2, providing for a State pension fund for firemen. Chief Scott has been for many years a stanch supporter of the municipal pension system, but he believes that the proposed amendment would drag the pension systems into politics. Fire Chief Brennan of San Francisco, as well as other leading firemen of the State, are opposed to the proposition.

In announcing a schedule of radio talks in behalf of Judge Hugh J. Crawford for re-election to Office No. 8 of the Superior Court, Charles W. Ostrom, attorney, warned voters not to confuse the name of his opponent, Judge Dudley S. Valentine, with Superior Judge Frederick C. Valentine and former Superior Judge L. H. Valentine.

Reports from Oakland state that the executive board of the Alameda county California State Voters' League has indorsed Proposition No. 1, the veterans' bond issue, as a stimulus to home building and the employment of labor.

Headquarters were opened at Temple and Fremont street for J. Don Mahaffey, candidate for Supervisor from the Third District, with Samuel Shire in charge. Mr. Shire has 100 volunteers who will work for Mahaffey in this neighborhood.

Whole-hearted approval of the work of the Judiciary Campaign Committee of the Los Angeles Bar Association in urging the election of certain candidates to the bench is voiced in a letter received by the committee from Federal Judge Curtis D. Wilbur. Judge Wilbur states, in part: "As I have heretofore stated to members of your committee when Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of California and later, as Secretary of the Navy, I know of no way than that which you have now adopted to further the election of proper candidates to the Superior bench in California. The lawyers as a whole may be said to represent all the parties to all the controversies to be brought before all the judges to be elected. As all sides to all controversies are thus represented by the bar, there is no motive on the part of the bar as a whole to select judges who are prejudiced or unfit."

William Lacy, president of the Lacy Manufacturing Company and of the Community Chest of Los Angeles, has thrown his support to the daylight-saving proposition on the ballot. "We all know the sun rises earlier from May to October, and why should we not be wise enough to take advantage of the fact and use some of the extra daylight in whatever way would be best to serve us?" he asked. He added that the men in his plant have been observing daylight-saving hours for years on their own volition.

Ida May Adams, candidate for Office No. 1 of the Superior Court, reports indorsements from Municipal Judge Bullock, Clara Shortridge Foltz, four railroad transportation brotherhoods, Los Angeles County Prohibition Committee and other organizations and individuals. She has opened campaign headquarters in the Washington Building, Third and Spring streets.

In stating its opposition to Proposition No. 23, the Sunday closing law, the California Manufacturers' Association lists a page and one-half of essential industries that could be forced to desist from work on Sunday if the law went into effect.

The State Employees' Retirement Campaign Committee has prepared lengthy arguments in favor of Proposition No. 5, authorizing the Legislature to enact a State employees' pension. It is argued that a pension system is humane, it is economically sound, is practiced in private businesses, the employees will pay for it partially and the proposed system is carefully organized with full safeguards in every direction.

will instructed that any money still remaining up to $3500 be given as an additional gift to the Historical Society of Southern California. Then, and only then, was the Board of Education named as residuary legatee.

In the letter apprising the board of the fact yesterday Albert Parker of the law firm of O'Melveny, Tuller & Myers said that it is his opinion that the board's share, nevertheless, will amount to at least $100,000.

SUSPECT IN GIRL ATTACK THREATENED

Man Accused by Pastor's 6-Year-Old Daughter in Peril of Lynching

Feeling ran high in the San Fernando Valley last night against a man accused of attacking a 6-year-old girl and arrested at the National Soldiers' Home in Sawtelle on information supplied by two companions, captured in the course of a man-hunt participated in by about fifty members of American Legion posts in the valley and by almost all the police of the valley division.

The asserted attack is said to have taken place in the basement of the Community Church of North Hollywood and the victim is Patricia Ann Trotter, daughter of the pastor of the church, Rev. Fred Trotter.

The man charged with the attack and held under close guard in the Van Nuys station last night to forestall possible attempts to lynch him gave his name as Chris Meyers, 36 years of age, and his address as the Soldiers' Home. Being held as material witnesses are Joe W. Barnes and Grant S. Barr, who also are residents of the Soldiers' Home.

The story, as the police received it from the little victim and her two small brothers, is that Meyers enticed them into the basement of the church and gave each of the boys a nickel to go upstairs.

The mother of the child appeared on the scene and the man fled pursued by the screaming mother. He got away, although the church is only half a block away from the North Hollywood police station. He was not found until late last night.

Three Girls on Hiking Trip in Hills Missing

Hollywood police were searching last night for three girls who disappeared at 6 p.m. yesterday from a boarding school at 844 North Hobart avenue, presumably for a hike among the Hollywood hills.

The girls were all wearing white duck trousers, and according to the police, had expressed a desire to take a trip among the hills. They were Margaret Garmon, 2000 South Miramar avenue, 9 years of age; Dorothy Shuler, 721 South Westlake avenue, 11, and Alice Stockton of Lompoc, Cal., 14.

A general police alarm was sent out and if the children are not found this morning searching parties will be organized to hunt for them, school authorities stated.

SCOUTS TO BANQUET

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23.—The annual banquet and business meeting of the San Fernando Valley Council of Boy Scouts will be held at the local Woman's Clubhouse on November 14, next, it is announced here today. Leading business men of San Fernando Valley will take part in the affair.

LAST RITES FOR PIONEER TO BE TODAY

Mrs. Mary Hossman Will Be Paid Final Homage by Numerous Friends

Final rites will be conducted today at 10 a.m. from the chapel of Vesper & Son, 1930 East First street, for Mrs. Mary Hossman, 68 years of age, native of Los Angeles and one of the last survivors of the old Feliz and Sanchez California families.

Mrs. Hossman died in San Francisco last Tuesday following a short illness. Her body was shipped here yesterday and will be interred in Calvary Cemetery.

The entire life of Mrs. Hossman was spent in Los Angeles. She was the daughter of Steven Sanchez and a member of the Feliz family, and was born on the extensive Feliz ranch which Riverside Drive now traverses northwest of the metropolitan district.

Her husband, Everisto Hossman, who resides at the family residence, 2451 Fairmont street, is one of the city's most colorful figures. He was a member of the fire department for many years and was widely known when the present city was surrounded by great ranches similar to the one on which his wife was born.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Hossman leaves five sons, Henry and Julius of San Francisco, and Steven, Alfonso and Everett of Los Angeles; three daughters, Mrs. Carl Carey of San Francisco, and Mrs. Irene Culp and Mrs. Grace Schaffer of Los Angeles.

Girl Victim of Grass Fire in Grave Condition

Little Arlene Grace, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Grace, severely burned Wednesday when ignited matches caught her clothing, is making a desperate fight for life at the General Hospital.

Attendants at the bedside report that her condition is very serious and that little change has been noted since she was brought to the hospital badly seared from a grass fire she unknowingly started in the yard of the home at 1010½ South Herbert street.

BRUSH FIRE SWEEPS PART OF U.C. CAMPUS

Brush fires on the campus of the University of California at Los Angeles threatened the R.O.T.C. rifle range yesterday when approximately 100 acres of the campus were burned over. Damage was slight because of the distance of the burned area from university buildings. The devastated section is on the northern edge of the university grounds and borders the athletic fields. The area is not yet used, according to the superintendent of grounds.

Stanford Athletes Out to Prove Tomorrow That They Can Play Ball

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23. (Exclusive)—The Stanford team was given a brisk workout this afternoon and then retired to the farm of the family club. Old Pop is not superstitious or anything like that, but he recalled that the Stanford team always won when it went to the farm before the game. The boys will just loaf around tomorrow and store up energy for the big struggle with U.S.C. at the Stanford Stadium Saturday.

CAPT TANDY

The starting line-up was announced as follows:

Stanford		U.S.C.
Neill	L.E.R.	Arbelbide
Bogue	L.T.R.	Smith
Heiser	L.G.R.	Shaw
Taylor	C.	Williamson
Bardin	R.G.L.	Baker

Toub	R.E.L.	Wilcox
Hillman	Q.	Duffield
Moffatt	L.H.R.	Pinckert
Caglieri	R.H.L.	Apsit
Rothert	F.	Shaver

Hillman, Moffatt, Caglieri and Rothert composed the Stanford backfield last Saturday when two touchdowns were made in the closing minutes of the second quarter of the game with Oregon State. That was the one flash of championship form that Stanford showed in that game.

Stanford rooters and supporters are hoping that Stanford will show some more of that brand of football tomorrow. If they do they will win.

Evidently things have been going pretty well in the secret practice, for Pop Warner said at a rally that the Stanford boys have a lot more brains than the Trojans and he thinks they will use them to advantage.

But many of those who have seen Stanford beaten twice and tied once by the Trojans in the last three years, are uneasy about this game. They argue the Trojans probably will win even if Stanford has to beat itself.

They have bitter recollections of

THE MEAT OF THE TROJAN BACKFIELD!

Great Psychological Tilt in Prospect; S.C. Has Slender Edge

BY RALPH HUSTON

This is supposed to be a story about psychology.

One eminent authority—at least he's eminent enough to have written a whole book on the subject — declares that "psychology is the science of behavior." And that's the first time that I ever knew that Emily Post was a psychologist. Emily, if you don't happen to remember, wrote a book called "Etiquette."

Gridders Who Seek Salary Are Banned

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. (AP)—Suspension of five freshmen players on the George Washington University football squad for demanding pay for their services was announced today by James W. Pixlee, director of athletics.

Those declared ineligible were Vance Jovick, lineman; George Generosa, tackle, and Frank Walsh, Charles Robinson and John Hofsess, halfbacks.

Pixlee said the five refused to play in any more games unless they were paid. This was not only emphatically refused, he said, but the players were barred from all athletic activities and may be suspended from the university.

Undefeated Prep Elevens Clash Today in Feature Tussle of City League Grid Card

BY IRVING ECKHOFF

Whether or not the Lincoln Tigers have any right to first place in the City League standings will be found out this afternoon at Wilson Field when Coach Jim Tunney's Terrible Tigers tackle the Manual Arts Toilers in the feature prep game for this week-end.

Both Lincoln and Manual Arts are undefeated not only in league games but in practice contests as well. Both are tied for first place in the standings along with Vic Kelley's Hollywood Redskirts.

Jim Blewett's Toilers will take the field a favorite to win, but not by a very large score. Lincoln boasts a strong defense, only one touchdown having been scored on them all season, and that score came through an intercepted forward pass in the Poly game.

HUFFORD MAY PLAY TOMORROW

Husky Ace Needed in Game Against Bears at Seattle

SEATTLE (Wash.) Oct. 23. (AP)—Merle Hufford, nimble-footed halfback when he is nimble, continues to be the big question mark on the Washington football team.

"NIBS" PRICE

On the dope sheet of Seattle grid fans, Hufford means the difference between winning and losing, when the Huskies tangle with the California Bears here Saturday.

More than three weeks ago the all-Coast halfback suffered an infected leg. He spent two weeks in a hospital and missed the Montana and Idaho games.

Hope ran high for the Oregon contest last week when Hufford returned to the squad but he was weak and slow on his feet against the Webfooters and Coach Doc Spears's aggregation won, 7 to 0.

Seattle grid fans took the loss smiling, figuring that the demon ball carrier would be out in full glory next Saturday to do battle with the Bears. But will he be ready for the game that Coach Jimmy Phelan has been pointing to since last spring?

Hufford has not been in scrimmage yet this week. He has romped around the field, run through signal drills, punted and passed, but he has not seen heavy action. Some say Phelan does not want to take any chances of his star being hurt again but others claim that he is not responding to treatments as was expected. It is certain that the triple-threat ace will get in the game but no one will know until afterward whether he is well again.

Coach Nibs Price and his Bears are due to arrive in Seattle tonight. Tomorrow they will limber up on Washington's new turf field, a treat the Bears have never had in Seattle.

CLEMSON WINS CLASH

COLUMBIA (S. C.) Oct. 23. (AP)—Clemson slashed out a 20-to-7 victory over South Carolina in their annual State Fair Week game today to keep its Southern Conference record for the season clean. Fifteen thousand saw the contest.

VITTMEN OVERCOME SIX RUN LEAD TO COP TILT

Barbee Hits Two Circuits, Leads Hollywood Attack; Hollerson Cinches Game With Homer

BY BOB RAY

When wilder and better ball games are played, I suppose the Angels and Stars will provide them. They put on another of those pulse-racing, blood-pressure raising struggles yesterday at Wrigley Field with Oscar Vitt's Sheiks outlasting the Seraphs in a thrilling slugfest to gain a 14-to-12 victory and go two-up in this hectic play-off for the Pacific Coast League championship.

If such a thing be possible, yesterday's contest was even wilder than Wednesday's opener. The Sheiks overcame a six-run Angel lead on one occasion and finally battled their way to a triumph that sent the crowd of 5264 fans home limp as a dishrag from being pulled through a wringer of two hours and ten minutes of excitement.

DAVE BARBEE

When it's football season the Angels and Stars are nothing if not obliging; they provide a football score. It looked like anybody's ball game until Dave Barbee converted twice with a couple of home runs that meant the difference between defeat and victory. If the Trojans want to win against Stanford tomorrow they ought to get Dangerous Dave to convert their touchdowns for them with his circuit clouts.

There were six home runs made yesterday, which fell one short of Wednesday's total, but this time it was the Stars who cracked out five. Barbee, with two homers and two singles for a perfect day at the plate, led the Hollywood attack. Frank

BRUINS TO GALLOP AT ROSE BOWL

Westwood Gridders Play Caltech Team in Annual Clash Tonight

BY FRANK ROCHE

"Big Bill" Spaulding's U.C.L.A. Bruins visit the Rose Bowl tonight for a football argument with the California School of Technology. That sounds like a large order in any county, but when you look at matters in a football way things take on a different aspect. The Bruins as they stand today should smack the Engineers down under an avalanche of touchdowns. It has been known and recorded in

Redlands and Pomona Football Elevens Clash Tonight; Oxy Leaves for Arizona Game

INJURIES HURT BULLDOG TEAM

Trine Looks for Sagehens to Win Contest

Twenty-eight Tigers Make Trip to Phoenix

Whittier, Roadrunners Mix on Poets' Field

REDLANDS, Oct. 23.—The University of Redlands has a fighting chance to win the football game at Claremont tonight from Pomona College, but no more, says Lee Trine, coach of the Bulldogs, to which statement he added that the efforts of Pomona publicity writers to create an illusion that Pomona hasn't a chance to win has misled no one on the campus here.

For Trine says he knows, the coaches know, and the players know it was a smart, alert team that lost by one touchdown to San Diego, and then by the merest fluke to Caltech. Pomona has been getting better all the time and the Bulldog mentor has a hunch that the full strength of the Sagehens will hit the Bulldogs in full stride tomorrow night.

Trine has his troubles, although his men are in better shape than they were a week ago. Rahgn will not play, his broken hand has not mended at all. And Pete Belden with a bad leg will not be in the game much of the time. Bell is better and it is hoped can play the whole game. He never saw action in the Riverside J. C. game in an effort to get him in condition.

The injury which Pete Belden suffered early in the season and has kept him on the bench most of the time will raise havoc with the Bulldogs' aerial attack, which has been effective in but one game this year, that against Fresno State.

TWENTY-EIGHT TIGERS MAKE ARIZONA TRIP

Twenty-eight Oxy gridders will entrain for Phoenix from Pasadena station this evening at 6 o'clock, arriving in the Arizona capital tomorrow morning for their tilt with the University of Arizona Saturday afternoon. Coach Eddie Kienholz, Coach Bill Anderson, Bob Williams, varsity manager, and Harry Bigger, trainer, will make the trip with the pigskinners.

The Oxy mentor plans to rest his regulars as much as possible and intends to use his reserves in a good part of the game. With the exception of Johnny Waddell and Bob Bise, who are suffering bruised bones, all of the twenty-eight men will probably see action in the Arizona game.

Those making the trip include:

Capt. Jerry Chappell, Howdy Marsh, Warren Eppinette, Dave Snedden, Jack Schurch, Jimmy Meeks, Larry Green, Dick Glover, Stoney Johnston, Bill Meyers, Johnny Reed, Art Elliott, Ben Hilliard, Bobby Freeman, Johnny Waddell, Norman McDonald, Martin Hansen, Don Bourell, Chandler Ball, Bud Davies, Art Buell, Bob Snyder, Jack Parle, Bernie Johnson, Bob Bise, Bob Hibbits, Meb Schroeder, Al Hunt and the two coaches, trainer and manager.

POMONA FAVORS BULLDOG TEAM TO WIN TONIGHT

CLAREMONT, Oct. 23.—A revamped Pomona College line-up will take Alumni Field here tomorrow night against Redlands University in an effort to break into the win column this season, Coach Eugene Nixon announced this afternoon. The contest will begin at 8 o'clock.

FAIRFAX RUNS OVER GARFIELD BABES

Coach Frank Shaffer's Fairfax lightweights scored a convincing 27-to-0 victory over the Garfield Bulldogs yesterday on the former's field for their third straight league victory which enabled them to keep pace with the Belmont Hilltoppers for the loop lead. Capt. Carl Siegmund scored the first Fairfax touchdown in the second period with a 6-yard plunge over tackle. C. McGowan chalked up the second tally in the same period with a 4-yard drive through center. McGowan scored again in the last quarter on another short buck. Joe Passin accounted for the other touchdown.

The Bulldogs were completely outclassed by the flashy Colonials, who advanced the ball as they pleased. In their next game Fairfax tangles with the Belmont Hilltoppers in a game which will probably decide the championship.

HOLLYWOOD IN 12-0 GRID WIN

Redshirt Babes Trample Franklin Lighties

Belmont Wins Third Game in New League

Fairfax Continues Clean Grid Slate, 27-0

A brilliant passing attack coupled with some powerful line plays skillfully executed proved too much for Franklin to cope with yesterday and they went down to a 12-to-0 defeat at the hands of Doc Rash's Hollywood High School lightweight eleven on the latter's field. Peraji scored both of the Sheiks' touchdowns with the able assistance of his teammate, Caviart.

Peraji scored in the second period on line plunges and a gain in the third quarter after a series of passes which had the Franklin defense completely baffled. As a result of their victory the Redshirts are still tied with Belmont and Fairfax for first place in the league standings.

BELMONT BABES TROUNCE ROOSEVELT, 12-0

Coach Clarence Ebers's Belmont lightweights won their third straight victory yesterday, defeating the Roosevelt Roughriders, 12 to 0, on the latter's gridiron. Belmont is still tied with Fairfax and Hollywood for the league lead. Pinero scored the first touchdown for the Hilltoppers in the initial period on a short line plunge. In the second quarter Acosta, who was the star of the game, blocked a punt and Olson fell on the ball over the goal line for the other Belmont score. Next week the Ebers men tangle with the undefeated Fairfax eleven in a game which will probably eliminate one of the three leading contenders.

MUIR, SOUTH PASADENA IN 6-6 TIE

The lightweight elevens of Muir Tech and South Pasadena battled to a 6-to-6 tie yesterday on the former's gridiron. Sparr put Pasadena in the lead in the second quarter when he made a beautiful 60-yard return of a punt for a touchdown. Simmons tied it all up in the third period when he snagged a short pass and darted over the goal line.

RABBIT PUNCHES

By Paul Lowry

THE STANFORD JUGGERNAUT

THE greatest danger to Trojan success at Palo Alto Saturday lurks in Stanford's punk showing against Oregon State last week-end.

If you don't get the point just recall what happened the week before the annual Stanford-California battle last year. Santa Clara beat Stanford 13 to 7, and California entered the "Big Game" better than an even-money favorite to win its first struggle from the Cards since 1923.

California had licked Santa Clara, 27 to 6, earlier in the season, and on the face of things it certainly looked like a California year.

But what happened?

Stanford downed the Bears, 21 to 6, and the score doesn't represent the difference between the two teams. California didn't have a ghost of a chance for victory.

Between the time the Stanford team failed to click against Santa Clara and the time the same team faced California a metamorphosis stole over the Stanford Stadium.

And that's what the Trojans can expect Saturday.

It won't be a halting, impotent team that charges out of the Stanford quarters.

It won't be the team that should have defeated Minnesota 30 to 0 and escaped only with a 0-0 tie.

It won't be the team that eked out a 13-7 victory over Oregon State, previously defeated by the Trojans, 27 to 7.

It will be a team that shows its power for the first time this year.

This isn't a pep talk for the Trojans. Howard Jones can attend to that factor.

It's just a warning that the Stanford juggernaut is about to break loose.

THE BATTLE OF THRILLS

"WHICH of the Stanford-S.C. battles since Pop Warner and Howard Jones came to the Coast contained the most thrills?" writes J.E.D.

That's a tough one, but it's pretty much of a stand-off on the first three—1925, '26 and '27.

Stanford won the first game, 13 to 9, the second 13 to 12 and the third was a 13-13 tie.

The two succeeding Trojan triumps—10-0 in 1928 and 7-0 in 1929—di dnot contain the same element of suspense.

In those games the Trojans, after halting the Stanford attack, went on to win and demonstrate their superiority.

In the first three games, it was anybody's struggle right up to the last whistle.

In 1925, for example, Mike Murphy put Stanford in the lead 13-0 by running one of Drury's punts back 53 yards for a touchdown.

Then Elliott scored on a 17-yard run, and in the last period Stark blocked one of Ernie Nevers's punts on the goal line. The ball bounded over the last stripe with an S.C. man leading the pursuit. He tripped an fell and Hill retrieved for Stanford. Result, safety and 2 points for S.C., instead of a touchdown that would have tied the score.

In 1926 Stanford got out in front 12 to 0, and Stanford won out in the last period by scoring on a long pass from Hoffman to Hyland. Manuel Lareneta missed both goal kicks for S.C. and Bogue made one good for Stanford.

In 1927 Stanford tied up the score in the last thirty seconds of play on a left-handed pass from Fleishhacker to Vincenti. Mike Murphy, hero of the 1925 game, missed his second chance for fame when his kick for the extra point was low.

THE 1927 THRILLER

OF COURSE, from a Trojan standpoint the 1926 and 1929 games had all the thrills.

The joy of four times halting the Stanford attack within the 10-yard line, and then scoring a touchdown on a pass with a field goal later in the 1926 games by Hibbs will never be forgotten.

Nor the satisfaction of beating Stanford last year on a pass from Duffield to Tappan, and the knowledge that the Trojan team looked better than the score indicated.

But when you look at it from a cold, dispassionate angle the '25, '26 and '27 games were the ne plus ultra battles for pure, unadulterated thrills and tingles.

And of the three you probably have to hand the palm to the tie game of '27.

That had suspended drama right up to the final gun.

BAUSCH TARGET OF NEW ATTACK

Kansas Halfback Protested by Big Six Rival

COLUMBIA (Mo.) Oct. 23. (AP)—Charges and counter-charges of subsidization and proselyting of athletes tonight involved half the members of the Big Six Conference.

The solution of the problems rests with conference faculty representatives at a regular meeting here tomorrow and Saturday.

First centering on James A. (Jarring Jim) Bausch, Kansas halfback, who has been a perennial subject of investigation since he forsook the University of Wichita for the University of Kansas, the charges involved not only Bausch but his football coach, H. W. (Bill) Hargiss, William H. (Bill) Meissenger, Kansas Aggie halfback, and Chester L. Brewer, athletic director, and Dr. H. A. Huff, track coach, both of the University of Missouri.

CHARGES GIVEN

George C. Shaad, Kansas faculty representative on athletics and president of the conference faculty group, admitted he had received formal charges against Bausch and Hargiss, but declined to reveal their nature. It is understood, however, Bausch is charged with professionalism and Hargiss with recruiting an athlete in violation of conference rules.

Meissenger said in conference with Dr. H. H. King, faculty representative, and M. F. Ahearn, athletic director of the Aggies, he was receiving a monthly salary from E. H. Lupton, Jr., Topeka and Lawrence insurance man, which was in the nature of a retainer for a position as manager of Lupton's farm after his graduation. Lupton lists Bausch on his pay roll at $75 monthly wage as a salesman.

Bausch issued a statement in which he said he had been approached indirectly by Huff, regarding attendance at the University of Missouri, with promise of a larger monthly wage than he received from Lupton and other inducements if he would transfer his athletic endeavors to Missouri. Bausch said this offer was made in the summer of 1929 before he had competed on Kansas varsity teams. Huff was track coach at Kansas in Bausch's freshman year.

HERD EN ROUTE TO PALO ALTO

from Stanford and took to writing pieces for the papers he evinced great delight in roasting his former rivals of the gridiron.

It has been a favorite stunt at Troy, so the story goes, to paste his stories on the training quarter walls and have them read to the team before the Stanford game.

Dick's last game against the Trojans was the 13-13 tie in 1927. Next year he was reporter, and it was in the fall of 1928 that he is credited with having been of help to the Trojan cause. The Trojans beat Stanford, 10 to 0, after Stanford, big pre-game favorite, four times had marched down the field and inside the 10-yard line.

However, the worst Dick ever called the Trojans was "dodoes."

Warner goes further. He admits the Stanford team is dumb, but says S.C. is worse.

That makes the Trojans non compos mentis, or words to that effect.

After delving into the statistics on the games of the past five years the experts have come up for air with predictions that tomorrow's struggle is likely to be full of forward passes.

Not a bad bet. Warner has laid off the long passes since Biff Hoffman graduated. He had them in store, last year, but Bill Simkins hurt his knee before the S.C. game and the attack, built around Bill, had to be changed at the last minute.

This year Bill is in full control of his health and it is suspected that he will throw a lot of long ones tomorrow.

Stanford won in 1926 with a long pass from Hoffman to Hyland, and emerged with a tie in 1927, largely as the result of a long one, Hoffman to Wilton.

Formation B was on Pop's mind in 1928, and he didn't fool much with the long tosses. Simkins's injury ruined his plans last year, but watch for the distance heaves tomorrow.

And while you're watching be prepared to hear about some new Trojan passes—new senders and new receivers.

CARDS REST ON THE FARM

that fine Stanford team of 1928 that carried the ball pretty much all over the southern section of the State and took it everywhere except over the Trojan goal line.

The Trojans finally decided that if Stanford would not win the game they would step out and win it themselves. And they did, 10 to 0.

Last year Stanford cut loose on a drive and swept the Trojans back to their 3-yard line. A touchdown looked like a certainty, but the ball was close to the side line, so there was not much room to maneuver.

Four plays were called that did not work and Stanford had to surrender the ball on downs. That was a hard jolt to the Stanford pride.

In their jubilation rabid fans from the southern part of the State kept saying that if some Stanford man did not think of the wrong play to call in a pinch, one would be invented.

That's an exaggeration, of course, but the Stanford boys are getting a bit fed up on hearing that they can not play brainy football, so they step out Saturday to show what they really can do.

HOLD FENCING MEET

The Amateur Fencing League of America will hold an open tournament tonight at the Hollywood Athletic Club. Festivities will get under way at 7:30.

GREY FOG STARS OUT OF LOYOLA GAME TOMORROW

Neither Mike Hemovitch nor Bob Kleckner, outstanding stars of the Grey Fog backfield, will be in the starting line-up when the University of San Francisco football team goes out on Wrigley Field tomorrow night to meet Loyola University.

This was the definite and somewhat disconcerting news received here last night from the official hand of Coach Jimmy Needles, Grey Fog mentor.

Frank Horgan, former Los Angeles High School boy, will be at the quarterback's throttle of the northern machine. Fred Fitzgerald will be occupying Kleckner's berth.

It has been out for some time that Kleckner was on the injured list, suffering from a bruise received in the Fog's tussle with West Coast Army. But reports were that he would be rushed in anyway, if situation demands. Needles gave no reason for the substitution of Horgan for Fitzgerald.

Although he is not regarding game lightly, it is no secret Needles does not look for any too strenuous time in the Loyola. The victory of Fresno over Loyola was as much a surprise the northern institution as to the Lions. The most of Fog defeated Gonzaga, and row night's game, on paper, to be virtually in the bag.

The Fog will be in Los 5 o'clock today. A scheduled for Wrigley Field

Not that Knute [illegible] not, but it was well put on. [illegible] a great psychological advan- [illegible] the Irish used it.

[illegible] years ago a Rutgers half- [illegible] gained eternal fame by [illegible] "I'd die for dear old [illegible]," as he was being car- [illegible] from the field with a [illegible] leg. Three Irish Teams Play Tomorrow

SOUTH BEND (Ind.) Oct. 22. (AP)—The Notre Dame football department will operate on a large scale Saturday, playing three games at one place or another.

Mr. Rockne's thirty-eight best will go to Pittsburgh to meet Pitt's Panther, and twenty-two lesser young men will play the Wisconsin "B" eleven at Madison, Wis. Twenty others have been nominated for a game with Northwestern's reserves which will be a curtain-raiser to the Northwestern-Center offering at Evanston, Ill.

of course, it scores, the edge will rest with the Cards, even if they are behind at the time.

Howard Jones's athletes have a number of psychological forces in their favor. For one thing, they realize that they have been the underdogs for the past two years, and have won both games. Being the underdogs again, they can look forward expectantly to winning.

Stanford hasn't scored on the Trojans in two years, and the Cards have a reputation for being dumb in scoring territory. That will help the Trojans, even as it will hinder the Cards.

The Trojans have never been beaten at Palo Alto. This year is no time to start, they'll be told, and they'll believe it implicitly. A team that hasn't been beaten at Palo Alto won't be beaten.

Then, the Cardinal coaches themselves have been a big help to the Trojan psychology. Last year it was "Dink" Templeton, who called Bob Hall a "Greek statue," and lived to wish he hadn't, after Bob had messed up the Cardinal offensive considerably.

This year it was "Pop" Warner. "Pop" made a faux pas in calling the present Card team the dumbest he had ever coached. He tried to correct it by declaring that, no matter how dumb the Cards might be, they were smarter than any S.C. team. Now that's foolish on the face of it, as there's only one thing dumber than a dumb Stanford team and that's two dumb Stanford teams. "Pop" has only to look at the scores for the last two years to see that.

Howard Jones's boys will hear plenty about that speech of "Pop's" before they take the field Saturday. And they'll be anxious to prove to the old ex-Fox of the Farm that they're a whole lot smarter than any team "Pop" could ever coach. Maybe they aren't, but they'll try to prove it.

There you have it, may the best "psychic" win!

half and Harold Gates, tackle, will not see action today. Lubisich ruined his ankle Wednesday in practice and was limping pretty badly yesterday. Gates was kicked in the eye recently and Tiger fans are sure that the injury will keep him on the bench.

Lubisich is one of Tunney's best blocking backs and his loss will hurt Lincoln very much. However, don't be surprised to see Pete play today.

Vic Kelley takes his Redshirts over to Franklin in another more or less crucial test for the Hilltoppers. Hollywood has won both its league starts, while Frank Hess's Panthers have dropped both of theirs. Hollywood is favored, but Franklin's two speed burners, Bob Held and Bob "Dee" Allaire, may upset the dope.

George Dirckx's Fremont Pathfinders will furnish the opposition for the L. A. High Romans on the Fremont gridiron. While the Romans are picked to win, the Pathfinders with Walter Clark back in the line-up will be a tough nut to crack.

CLOSE GAME

Roosevelt and Belmont collide on the Hilltoppers' field in what used to be the Minor League classic. There is quite a lot of rivalry between the two schools and a wild time will be had by all. Clark de Groot has a strong team again this year and figures to beat Sid Witherow's Belmont outfit. However, that has been the pre-game situation for the past two years and Witherow's elevens have managed to eke out a tie and a victory over Roosevelt.

Stinging from their 13-0 defeat at the hands of the Hollywood Redshirts last week, the Jefferson Democrats are out to beat the Poly Mechanics. The game will be staged at Poly and looks like a pretty even contest.

One other game is scheduled, High Welch's Fairfax Colonials traveling to Garfield. The Colonials hope to break into the win column today but a stubborn fight is expected. While Garfield failed to show much in practice tilts, the Bulldogs surprised the dopesters by holding Fremont to a 12-6 score two weeks ago and by keeping the Lincoln tally down to 14-0.

RANGERS TO MEET

The Woodcraft Rangers, an outdoor organization for boys, will hold its weekly outdoor sport meeting tomorrow at Jacob Riis High School, Sixty-ninth street and Vermont avenue, with a swimming contest in which approximately fifty members are expected to enter. Winners of diving and racing events will be awarded prizes.

STARS CAPTURE SLUGFEST

A walk to Lee and Barbee's first homer, a towering drive that cleared the fence nearly a third of the way up the left-field light tower, tied the score in the sixth. Walsh was the victim of this inning's outburst.

Los Angeles went into the lead for the last time in the seventh when Statz doubled, Dittmar walked Hannah singled and Yerkes beat out a rap to Lee for one run. Statz spoiled this inning by trying to Hollerson held the bayy and was steal third with one away while Holthrown out. But for Jigger's bad base running the Seraphs might have had a big inning.

In the home half of the seventh Heath and Severeid led off with singles. Hill tried to bunt but fouled to Statz. Whereupon Hollerson poled one over the left-field fence and the Sheiks were leading, 13 to 11.

The Angels filled the bases with one away in the eighth when Moore was hit by a pitched ball. Schulmerich walked, Jacobs singled infield and Statz hit a sacrifice fly to Green, who had gone out in left field after batting for Carlyle in the fifth. Dittmar filed to Green to end the Angels' last chance of evening the score.

Barbee rapped another of Walsh's offerings over the left-field fence in the eighth to chalk up the final run of the afternoon. Gabler then replaced him and retired the side, but the Angels couldn't do anything to Hollerson in the ninth, although Haney did single infield, so it was all over until today. The score:

Ripley CREATOR OF BELIEVE IT or NOT—PROVES IT

THROAT DOCTORS pick OLD GOLD

in PUBLIC TEST of 4 leading Cigarettes

By Ripley, Himself

"Believe it or not . . . Here's real authority. Registered physicians, specializing in the care of the nose and throat! Doctors who see every day the ill-effects of cigarettes that are too harsh, too raw, too irritating to delicate membranes.

"I picked the Doctors as taste-testers because they just naturally judge cigarettes for their throat-ease.

"This was to be a taste-test . . . but I knew every doctor would instinctively rate the four cigarettes on their smoothness and throat-comfort as well as their flavor.

"Believe it or not . . . these registered physicians, without knowing what brand they were choosing . . . with all names concealed . . . picked OLD GOLD by the decisive ratio of 2 to 1.

"I'm getting used to amazing OLD GOLD victories . . . but I'll admit this one would be hard to believe if I hadn't personally counted the votes. A Certified Public Accountant also audited the score."

BELIEVE IT OR NOT, HERE'S THE FINAL SCORE! "I certify that an audit of the complete and final results of the Ripley taste test conducted with Throat Specialists gave OLD GOLD 50%, Brand X 25%, Brand Y 0% and Brand Z 25%." Signed, J. S. M. Goodloe, Certified Public Accountant. Above you see the Throat Doctors actually making the test. In circle at the left, Ripley and nurse checking one Doctor's vote.
